The Progress of Siberrys

THE Story of our Success is as simple as it is brief. We have always realised that the corner-stone of Success in Business is Service—satisfactory Service—and that the most acceptable Service—sound value—can only be rendered on a Cash Basis.

This may sound very elementary, but it is our chosen policy, and the fact that our business is steadily growing shows that the Public appreciates our Service and Methods. . . . .

Rathmines suits many people as a Shopping Centre, and business will be continued at 87 Rathmines Road—but the Service there will be confined to Men's Outfitting and Ready-for-Service Suits and Coats. . . . .

SIBERRYS TAILORING

will, however, be transferred to new premises in the centre of the City, as from To-day, 19th November, 1923,

AT 57 DAME STREET

where there will also be maintained an attractive stock of Ready-for-Service Suits, Overcoats, and Raincoats, turned out by firms whose reputation are world-wide, and, where necessary, alterations can be quickly made on the premises under personal supervision. Ready-for-Service Suits from £4. Made to Measure from 6 guineas.

¶ You will never owe your Tailor any money at all when you come in contact with Siberrys' Service and you will always know you are getting more value for your money as a result.

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

SEASONABLE MILLINERY.

THE choice of a hat is sometimes a pleasure, but more often a perplexing puzzle. The hat that looks the smartest and newest in the attendant's hands very often proves a failure when resting on the would-be purchaser's head. A good principle is never to try on any hat when fagged or poorly. If a new hat is in contemplation go to the shop early (the morning light is the most truthful) and while feeling fresh and cheerful. Never hurry over the selection, but when the "possibles" are weeded down to about three then consider carefully the attraction and suitability of each of the selected hats, giving a thought to the clothes with which the hat or hats must go. Once having made up your mind finally, never allow yourself to regret your choice. There is nothing so tiresome as hearing a woman making moan over the selection of either a frock or a hat and regretting its purchase.

During this month several new features are to be noticed in the millinery world. Trimming is assuming an importance to which it has long been a stranger. Never has there been such a season for feathers; they are used lavishly. Ostrich quills, coque, paradise plumes, and fancy mounts, all are being utilised to adorn Madame's millinery. Feathers are arranged in wonderful bleachings of colour, so as to harmonise with the hat they trim. Some of the big black velvet hats are quite beautiful with their feather trimmings. On some a new kind of coque feather rises in great wheels at one side; at the right side of another a big aigrette is placed.

There seems to be no regular rule for trimming. The tendency is towards placing it again in front of the hat, but there is no hard and fast rule. In the case of feathers, there seems no specially correct side, and their arrangement is largely a matter of design or help to finish off the high crowned hats of to-day. The cloche is still as much in favour as ever, but some new shapes have been presented to the public lately. These hats, which look as if all crown, show the minimum of trimming with the exception of ribbon. One of the shapes resembles a modern helmet of black velvet, fitting so closely over the head that none of the hair is visible from a back view; its only trimming is a square-shaped bow coming right across the square crown.

A tricorne in black moire antique is decorated with a graceful osprey mount at the side. A jaunty black velvet toreador hat has a lacquered feather mount in black and red. An immense amount of black and red is worn, also becoming shades of beaver and nut brown; but nigger is no longer considered chic. A delightful looking brown velvet hat had its high crown adorned with chouex of velvet in tones ranging from dark brown to orange and amber. A high-crowned beige poplin hat, with close brim, was trimmed with a shaded ostrich feather, toning from brown to palest fawn, while another, made of the same rich material, was black with two broad-shaped quills shading from black to vivid Russian green.

Very likeable was a large black satin hat, the under lining of the brim of cherry-coloured crêpe, while a grey and cherry-coloured feather was placed at the left side, drooping gracefully towards the shoulder. A fine white felt hat, with high crown, was decorated with two black and amber quills. Many women patronise the turban shape, and many models are seen made of embroidered and swathed satins. Some, following the lines of a "beret," are made of two different colours, but so artistically blended that the most daring combinations look well. Again, others, modelled on Russian lines, turn right off; these latter are often trimmed with narrow lines of fur, only the really good furs, such as sable, chinchilla, ermine, and beaver being used. So many varieties of hats are being worn that it is safe to buy any particular style that either suits the face or taste of the buyer.

PROGRESS IN SPORT.

MARVELLOUS strides have been made by women in sports since the beginning of this century, and there is every probability that even greater progress will be made as the years advance. The days of pat-ball tennis are over, and in its stead we have a hard vigorous game, very nearly as strenuous as that played by men.

Hundreds of women are crowding to the front in sports, creeping closer, year by year, to the championship laurels that until now have been worn exclusively by men in all lines of athletics. An American writer predicts that the world's sport crowns will fall one by one before the conquests of the "weaker sex," and that eventually women will wear as many of these prizes as men. In support of this the writer instances the case of Sybil Bauer, an eighteen-year-old student, who, for the first time in history, in competition with a man, broke a world's record. She did this in a 440 yards back-stroke swimming race.

In golf women are slowly, but surely, drawing to the front. Just how near they are to the excellence of men in this vastly popular game may be ascertained from the fact that the longest drive by a man is 341 yards, the record set by Abe Mitchell, the British golfer. Olenna Collet, a girl who has not yet reached her full powers, has actually driven a golf ball 303 yards!

As in other sports, women have attained a very high standard of efficiency in golf, and though they are not yet able to compete with men on level terms they can put up a very good show, indeed. Miss Cecil Leitch, Miss Joyce Wethered and other players of the same class could beat most men golfers, except those in the first rank. Man's superior strength enables him to outdrive his female opponent by about 30 yards in every drive.

In swimming, too, women have come very near to equalling the records set up by men. Several women have attempted to swim the Channel, but as yet none have succeeded, though Mrs. Arthur Hamilton came to within two miles of the French shore. I would not be at all surprised if some sensational records were set up by women in the Olympic Sports next year, as many brilliant women swimmers from all nations will compete there.

In tennis, one of the first games women took up, man's supremacy is being threatened. Mademoiselle Lenglen's drives, according to Vincent Richards, the young tennis marvel, who has played against her, are as hot and difficult to handle as any man's, and she could beat all but a few of the best men. Experts predict that Miss Helen Wills, a seventeen-year-old American girl, will in a few years eclipse Mademoiselle Lenglen.

In many ways the most sensational figure in modern times is Miss Helen Wills. Though she is only seventeen years of age, she has already won the tennis championship of America by defeating Mrs. Mallory, after a match in which she lost only three games to her opponent. Tennis enthusiasts are eagerly awaiting the meeting of this wonderful girl and Suzanne Lenglen. What the result of the meeting between these two tennis giants will be no one can foretell.

Women are now throwing themselves into a supposedly exclusive sport for men—namely, football, though they have not in the slightest degree attempted to rival men in this branch of athletics. Many teams of women footballers have been organised, the most famous of which are the Dick Kerr girls. At a women's match in Paris last year there was a disgraceful row, which resulted in two players being suspended. It is to be hoped that public opinion will keep women out of this sport, which all doctors veto as being too rough and strenuous for women.

SOLDIER AND CIVILIAN SENT FOR TRIAL.

Private John Ryan, of the National Army, and Patrick O'Brien, of Mill street, Kingstown, were returned for trial by Mr. Collins, K.C., on Saturday, in the Dublin Police Courts, on charges of entering the kitchen of John Ryan (father of Private Ryan), of 26 Eblana villas, Kingstown, between midnight and 1 a.m., and being in possession of a revolver. The soldier was also charged with threatening to shoot his father, and attempting to strike him with a table knife.

For the defence, it was stated that Mr. Ryan and his wife had not been on good terms, and the son's visit was intended to "persuade" him to treat his wife better.

The revolver had not been found, and some ammunition discovered in the house was said to be a "souvenir from 1916."

CATTLE TRADE RESUMED.

THE FOURTEEN DAY'S SAFEGUARD.

"The Department have to-day been officially informed that the landing in Great Britain of live stock from Ireland will be allowed at all the approved British landing places, except Glasgow and Greenock, from midnight tomorrow (Sunday). The landing place at Greenock will not be available till Tuesday, and some further time must elapse before the Glasgow landing place will be ready for the reception of live stock.

"As expected, the movement of animals out of the landing places has been made subject to special regulations contained in an Order of the British Ministry of Agriculture which is being issued to come into operation simultaneously. The effect of this Order is to require movement out of the landing places to be regulated by licence of the British Ministry's inspector. The conditions normally attaching to such licence will be that where animals are licensed to a slaughterhouse slaughter must take place within 96 hours. In all other cases the movement must be direct to owners' or purchasers' premises, where the animals must be detained for fourteen days, unless after six days they are licensed to other premises, there to undergo detention for the remainder of the quarantine period.

"It should be understood that these restrictions are not intended to reflect in any way on the healthiness of Irish live stock. The British authorities readily admit that there is no necessity for special precautions against the introduction of foot-and-mouth disease from Ireland. The apprehension to which these regulations are due is altogether based, as were similar regulations in somewhat similar circumstances last year, on the liability of cattle moved promiscuously in large numbers to contract the disease and to spread it. The requirement of a fourteen days' detention before distribution to fairs and markets is intended as a safeguard against this danger, and is considered to be justified by the present very acute position of Great Britain in regard to the spread of the infection.

"As the position grows more favourable the regulations will be modified, and they will be withdrawn altogether when the position approaches the normal. Ireland, fortunately, continues free from the disease, but the widespread series of outbreaks across Channel must remain a source of uneasiness in this country, notwithstanding the official precautions. No doubt, these precautions have contributed to the maintenance of the Irish clean bill of health, but it cannot be too often or too strongly insisted that the co-operation of the public is necessary to the complete success of the official measures. In particular persons connected with the live stock industry should exercise every care and vigilance with regard to the observance of regulations by themselves and others with regard to report any reason for suspecting the health of animals under their charge."

VAN DRIVER ROBBED.

ARMED THIEVES NEAR DUBLIN.

On Saturday evening four men, who were armed with revolvers, robbed a Dublin bread-van driver of £20. At dusk the driver, an employé of Messrs. Kennedy, bakers, was stopped at a lonely spot on the Cabra road on his return to the city. Three revolver shots were fired over his head, and a sum of £20 and 5s. in coppers was taken from him.

He was then allowed to proceed, with a warning not to report the occurrence until he had reached his destination in Parnell street.

"SPORTING" WEDDING.

RACING COLOURS AND HORSES AT BARONET'S MARRIAGE.

Sir George Arthur Hamilton Beaumont, "The Sporting Baronet," who recently declared that at the age of forty-three he remained unmarried because he had never loved any woman as much as he loved his mother, was married at Epsom on Saturday, the bride being Miss Renée Northey, daughter of Major-General Sir Edward Northey.

The wedding had been put forward a week in order that the bride and bridegroom might attend next week's races.

Miss Northey wore a mediæval silver dress, a train of old lace, lent by her grandmother, and a headdress of silver leaves. There were six bridesmaids, including the bride's sister, and three cousins, and one of the bridegroom's cousins, who wore dresses of white crêpe embroidered in silver, all designed on mediæval lines. Major E. B. Denison was best man.

The "racing" note was struck at the wedding, racing colours forming the motif of the bride's bouquet, and an open carriage instead of a motor car being used by the bridal pair for their progress home after the ceremony.

BREAD VAN HOLD-UP.

At Bray District Court on Saturday, Peter Fitzpatrick, Vale View, and Owen Patrick Kelly, 34 Greenpark road, Little Bray, were returned for trial, on bail, to Wicklow Quarter Sessions, charged under the Public Safety Act, with "holding up" Andrew Burke, bread-van driver, Dalkey, with a revolver on the 3rd November, and robbing him of £3 10s.

Sergeant Rynne, who gave evidence of arrest, said that Kelly told him that he went to a football match at Woodbrook on the 3rd November, at 3 o'clock, and met Fitzpatrick. Both of them had bicycles and they left the match twenty minutes before the finish, to go to Kingstown. At Ballynoggin, he said, he fell off his bicycle and then went to Fitzpatrick's house, where he remained about twenty minutes, when he returned home.

Fitzpatrick, in his statement, said that they remained at the match until the finish, and that they then cycled home.

"NECESSARIES."

ADOPTED DAUGHTER'S BILL FOR COSMETICS.

At Lambeth County Court on Saturday, Mr. George Stannard, of Chesnut road, West Norwood, was sued by Boots Cash Chemists (Southern), Limited, for £14 9s. 6d. for numerous powder puffs, powder bowls, face creams, and cosmetics supplied to his 19-year-old adopted daughter.

The girl, who had been a customer at Boots' West Norwood shop, handed in a typewritten list of articles before going to New York with Mrs. Stannard. Later she wrote from France, telling the firm to apply to Mr. Stannard for payment, adding that she "had to have a few necessaries," so she got them. "My mother knows nothing about it," her letter said.

Judge Parry—I see the young lady calls these things necessaries. I do not see anything in the bill that is necessary to anybody. Face powders and scents are not necessaries.

Mr. Stannard said he did not authorise his adopted daughter to buy the articles or order them in his name.

BISHOP AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Bishop of Lichfield, speaking at League of Nations meeting at Nuneaton, said that the issues of Free Trade and Protection were insignificant compared with what was happening or might happen among the nations of Europe at the present time. The problem of unemployment was greatly due to the present unsettled state of Europe. We wanted to see peace among the nations, and if France would not help to promote that peace a Conference should be held without her.

"Cat" for Woman's Assailant.—At Warwick Assizes on Saturday Alfred Bucknall, miner, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour and twenty strokes of the "cat" for a violent attack on a young woman in a railway train. Robbery was the motive of the assault.

Haggis for Borneo Scotsmen.—One of the most interesting Christmas orders that has yet reached the London stores has come from Borneo. The Bishop of Sarawak has sent for an extra large haggis to be sent out to him, as his gathering of Scotsmen will be larger than usual this year.

Killed by Smoked Haddock.—"Death by misadventure" was the verdict at the inquest, on Saturday, on Jane Driscoll, 78, of Well street, Poplar, who became ill after eating a smoked haddock, bought from a street hawker. Medical evidence showed that death was due to enteritis, set up by food poisoning.

Exhumed Bride's Estate. — Estate valued at £359 was left by M aeB.ticsrr damagd at £359 was left by Mrs. Beatrice F. Clarkson, of Tenison street, Lambeth, London, S.E., whose death was recently the subject of an inquiry at Witney (Oxford), following the exhumation of her body. She died intestate.

Cod Liver Oil for Cows. — Professor W. E. Lloyd, agricultural organiser for Flintshire, at a meeting of the Farmers' Union at Hawarden, advocated the use of cod liver oil for feeding cows in winter. The nutritious qualities in milk were less, he said, when grass feeding ceased, and the cod liver oil would supply the deficient vitamines.

Chinese and the Law.—At Thames Police Court, London, on Saturday, two Chinese seamen were sentenced to two months' imprisonment for keeping a gaming-house. They were recommended for deportation. The magistrate remarked that there appeared to be a succession of Chinamen prepared to run the risk of conviction, and even of deportation, for offences against the law.

Embezzler's Bogus Bank Book. — At Cardiff Assizes on Saturday, Gomer Jones, 34, was sent to penal servitude for three years for embezzling close on £3,000, belonging to the Naval Collieries' Workmen's Hall Fund. It was stated that Jones used a bogus bank book as a means of deceiving the auditor, who was not a professional man.

A Lesson from New York. — A Belgian who arrived as a stowaway aboard the Red Star liner, Belgenland, at Plymouth yesterday, stated that on the advice of his sister he realised all his property in Antwerp, and went to America to make his fortune. At New York he invested about £5,000 in a restaurant business, and within five months was penniless.

Depopulating a Cemetery. — The Running Streams Commission of the Quebec Government has contracted with the Northern Development Company for the removal of 500 bodies which have been buried in the cemetery of St. Cyriac Parish. The parish is about to be submerged by the damming of the Chicoutimi and Des Sables Rivers, which is the reason for the decision to disinter the bodies.

Workhouse Inmates' Beards.—Amid cries of "Beaver!" the Rev. S. Wild suggested, at a meeting of the Lincoln Guardians on Saturday, that the inmates should grow beards, in order to cut out the expense of employing a barber. A member pointed out that, as the King did not shave, there was no reason why the inmates should be compelled to do so. At present the barber's visits are restricted to one a week.

Boy "Business Man's" Bankruptcy.—At Carmarthen Bangruptcy Court on Saturday, Hugh Saunders, 22, a butcher, stated that he started in business at the age of fifteen, his mother, two sisters, and a brother being dependent on him. Since his mother's death, in 1918, he had undertaken the financial responsibility. His liabilities were £847, and the deficiency £293. The Official Receiver said that he was a precocious youth to conduct business at his age. The examination was adjourned.

Oxford's "Wild Women."—When a letter was read at a meeting of the Oxfordshire Farmers' Union, asking for information regarding damage by gypsies, a member stated that it was not gypsies, but Oxford girl students, who were responsible for the trouble. The girls were in the habit of raiding farms for mushrooms and blackberries. He stopped the nuisance on his own farm by throwing a "raider's" bicycle into a ditch.

London's Traffic Deaths. — One hundred and fifty-eight persons were killed in street accidents in London during July, August and September, according to a Scotland Yard return just issued. Of this total 140 deaths were the result of accidents in connection with mechanically-propelled vehicles, the remaining 18 having been due to accidents in which horse-drawn and other non-mechanically-propelled vehicles were concerned.

Shop Manager's Suicide. — A verdict of "suicide" was returned at the inquest, at Rotherhithe on Saturday, on Ernest William Fairclough, 26, tobacconist's manager, of 170 Lower road, Rotherhithe, who was found in bed, shot through the head, and with a revolver by his side. A woman, who said she was engaged to Fairclough, stated that he told her he had been drinking and playing "banker." He had "looked very down" lately.

Theft Charge Falls Through.—At Marlborough street Police Court, London, on Saturday, James Warner, 25, an artist; Maurice Joyce, 23, an actor; Jean Franklin, 23, a dancer; Hilda Gevelb, 23, and Ella Tasker, 21, all of Coram street, W., who were charged with stealing money and jewels to the value of £280 from Alexander Goldstein, Savoy Hotel, were discharged owing to the non-appearance of the prosecutor, who was suddenly called away to Brussels on business.

PRINCE OF WALES.

PROPOSED IRISH VISIT NEXT YEAR.

DUBLIN & BELFAST.

While the Prince of Wales has so far made no plans for next year, it is now highly probable, says the Society Correspondent of the Sunday Times, that a visit to Ireland will eventually form a prominent feature in his arrangements.

"A short tour of Ireland," it is added, "is something that makes very strong appeal to him, and in addition to visiting Dublin, Belfast, and some of the larger towns, he would likewise endeavour to see something of the natural beauty spots of the country. It is likely to be some little time yet before any definite arrangements can be made for this trip, but the summer of next year has already been named as the most convenient time for it to take place."

DEATH OF MR. JOSEPH WIDGER.

WELL-KNOWN IRISH HORSE-OWNER.

Joseph Patrick Widger, the famous steeplechase jockey, who rode Wild Man from Borneo to victory in the Grand National of 1896, died at his residence, West Derby, Liverpool, yesterday.

A native of Waterford, he owned numerous horses in his time, the last one of note being Drifter, who was sold after finishing behind Sergeant Murphy last March for the Grand National. Widger was 60 years of age.

A FLOATING "ZOO."

ANOTHER ZEBRA FOR THE DUBLIN GARDENS.

Among their companions on the ss. Dunluce Castle are two lions, one leopard, five mongooses, seven Rhodesian baboons, six Chacma baboons, nine Vervet monkeys, five waterbucks, two wildebeests.

"Two of the zebras," said a representative of Chapman's, the importers, in London, "are for the Paris Zoo, two are for Antwerp, and one is for the Dublin Zoo. A bushbuck, three lechwes, three sables, and a Koedoe bull which are coming will be the only animals of their class at present in Europe.

"Amongst the birds, some of a very rare kind, are 485 giant whydahs, the largest consignment that has ever been shipped here."

ERROR OF JUDGMENT THAT CAUSED FIVE DEATHS.

It is announced by the British Air Ministry that as a result of the investigation into the circumstances attending the aeroplane accident on September 14, when the pilot and four passengers were killed, the following conclusions have been reached by the Inspector of Accidents:—

(a) That the accident was due to an error of judgment on the part of the pilot, causing the aeroplane to lose flying speed nearing the ground.

(b) That when the accident occurred the pilot was attempting to make a landing on account of the bad weather conditions.

PLAY AND PRAYER.

BISHOP'S PLAN FOR BETTER SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

The Vicar of St. Nicholas's Church, Wallasey, in whose parish golf links are situated, has issued an appeal to Sunday golfers calling on them to consider the responsibility attached to the example they give by failing to attend Church Service.

"I see young people in flannels with tennis rackets walking through the village on Sunday mornings," he says. "Why shouldn't they? White flannels are no less sanctified than 'plus fours'! Almost everyone who becomes possessed of a car wants to get off somewhere on Sundays. Why shouldn't he? A sparking plug is no less sanctified than a niblick! But where is it all leading us? What would be the effect upon the nation if all the churches were closed?"

The Vicar is offering golfers, tennis players and motorists a short Sunday morning Service at which, he says, the chief attraction might be "no sermon." It would be, he says, a healthy thing to see a row of motors outside the church and bundles of golf clubs and tennis rackets in the porch or in the pews, rather than that people should make no recognition of their Creator on a Sunday.

MEMORIAL TO A CLERGYMAN.

MEETING AT CLONTARF.

The Most Rev. Dr. Byrne, Archbishop of Dublin, presided yesterday afternoon at a public meeting in the Church of St. John the Baptist, Clontarf, at which the erection of a memorial to the late Very Rev. James Hickey, P.P., was discussed. Father Hickey died early this year, having been for fourteen years attached to the parish.

The attendance, which was very large, included:—The Very Rev. Hugh Evans, C.SS.R., Kimmage; Rev. D. Hickey, C.C., Terenure (nephew of the deceased pastor); Very Rev. Canon Pettit, P.P., Fairview; Very Rev. P. Hayden, P.P., Francis street; Very Rev. James Dempsey, P.P., Clontarf; Rev. William Meighan, C.C., Clontarf; and Rev. James O'Keeffe, C.C., Clontarf.

The Very Rev. James Dempsey, P.P., having extended a cordial welcome to the Archbishop, spoke of the work and qualities of the deceased pastor. It had been decided, at a representative meeting of the parishioners, that the memorial should take the form of a sacristy.

The Archbishop expressed the great satisfaction that he felt at being present at the meeting. If there was any doubt as to the appreciation in which the late Father Hickey was held by his flock, it was dispelled by the sight of so many of his parishioners present to do honour to his name. He was gratified to find how greatly they reverenced their dead pastor, and to see that they were prepared to erect a memorial to his name. Like themselves, he appreciated Father Hickey, and he could testify that a more true-hearted priest never worked for God in any parish in the country. Those who knew him were aware of his earnestness of character and his absolute devotion to his priestly duties. It was pleasing, in the circumstances, to find that the memorial would take a useful form, and he commended it to the generous support of the parishioners.

Mr. Philip Lawrence proposed that the memorial should take the form of a new sacristy, and, if possible, a small shrine chapel; that a subscription list should be opened; and that the Very Rev. James Dempsey, P.P., should be appointed honorary treasurer.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Michael Moran, and passed unanimously.

A collection was then made. The Archbishop contributed £200 towards the memorial, and Senator Moran, who was also present, subscribed £100.

WAR MEMORIALS.

LORD DERBY'S HOPE.

Lord Derby on Saturday afternoon unveiled Southport's war memorial in honour of those townsmen who fell in the war.

Lord Derby said that with the passing of this generation would pass personal remembrance, and these memorials were erected in various parts of the country as a witness to generations to come of what this country suffered in the Great War. He hoped that they would act, not only as memorials of the dead, but as a warning against future wars.

GENERAL MENACED.

LONDON "CAMORRISTS'" THREAT TO KILL.

At West London Police Court on Saturday, Charles Evans, 32, labourer, and Robert Douglas Carthew, 25, cashier, of Bathurst road, Kendal Rise, were remanded on the charge of demanding with menaces £200 from Major-General Sir Cameron Shute, of Sloane street, S.W. It was alleged that the accused sent the following letter to the General:—

"Sir,—We, the Camorra Secret Society, demand the sum of £200 in our agent's hands by the first post on Friday morning. The man who I have appointed will kill you and your charming daughter by November 18 if the money is not sent. Please send the money all in one pound notes. The man will ask for a registered letter in the English name of Arthur Watts. If you seek police protection whatsoever you and all near and dear to you will die systematically. We are watching your house very closely, although you won't see the watchers.

"I saw the news of your daughter's wedding in the English papers, so I decided to demand money with menaces. Refuse to send the money, and you and your daughter will die, and it will not be a nice death. All our plans are complete. The Camorra are badly in need of funds. We are going to write to other charming aristocrats. Don't 'phone to Scotland Yard or send to any police station. If you do, I, as president, will know one hour later by wireless telegraphy.

(Signed) "Signor Giovanni Matani,
"President, Camorra."

At the end of the letter was a representation of the skull and crossbones.

A detective Inspector from Scotland Yard, giving evidence, said that at his suggestion General Shute addressed a decoy letter to "Arthur Watts," c.o. Hammersmith Post-office. Officers were instructed to be on the watch, and Evans was arrested at the post-office. Evans when questioned said that he was told by a man at Fulham Infirmary to call for the letter.

Subsequently, Carthew was questioned at Fulham Infirmary, and he made a statement to the effect that he wrote the letter to General Shute, and that he sent Evans to the post-office for the reply. On the way to the police station he said: "General Shute is the man who confirmed the sentence passed on me at a courtmartial when I was in the Army."

SECONDARY TEACHERS.

BETTER TERMS EXPECTED SOON.

The deputation, which consisted of Mr. A. Rutledge (President), Mr. J. H. Kane (Vice-President), Miss E. A. Doyle, Mr. T. P. Waller, and Mr T. J. Burke (General Secretary), put forward a claim for the early introduction of measures covering salary scales, pensions, and security of tenure, and reminded the Minister of the promise of an additional grant made both by himself and by the President in the last Dail.

Dr. MacNeill stated that the Government would certainly carry out the undertaking given, and that, as negotiations were in progress between the Ministries of Education and Finance, an official announcement might be expected shortly.

LA SCALA CONCERT.

A SUITE FROM COATS.

Yesterday afternoon's concert at La Scala Theatre, Dublin, was most enjoyable. The singers sang attractive songs with appreciation of their music values, and the orchestra gave convincing impressions of music worth giving and hearing. The Cycle, "Summer Days" (1, "In a Country Lane"; 2, "On the Edge of the Lake"; 3, "At the Dance") was the more picturesque through its quiet "colour" and gently-accented tempo. It brought home, too, the fineness of the strings at Mr. Moody's disposal. It was, in itself, a promise for the future, and was very welcome after the jingle and percussion of previous concerts.

Mr. Herbert Heyner sang two Quilter songs in a cultured style, and "Brittany" (which Gervase Elwes immortalised) with real tone-picturing. In Moussorgsky's "Song of the Flea" and the old traditional air, "The Golden Vanitee," he kept to the musical while giving all the dramatic sense, the quaint refrain, "The Lowland Sea," growing more telling in note at each repetition. This song, heard so much in the Thames Valley, is one of the finest examples of folk music extant. "All Women Born are so Perverse" was another song out of the ordinary concert track.

Miss Noel Eadie was the soprano. She sang "Ah fors e Lui" with a certain success, and Dvorak's beautiful "Songs my Mother Taught Me" in pure ballad style. But it was in her Scottish songs, "Ye Banks and Braes," "Annie Laurie," and "My Heart is Sair" that her pleasing voice was heard at its best. Both singers gave many encores and acknowledged their indebtedness to the accompanist, Miss Lucy Leenane, who, as usual, was most painstaking and careful.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

VIEWS OF THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

The following letter has been addressed by the Society of Friends to the Governor-General of the Free State, the President of Dail Eireann, and the Minister for Home Affairs:—

Religious Society of Friends, Office:
6 Eustace street, Dublin, 15th
November, 1923.

Dear Sir,—I have been instructed to forward to you, on behalf of the members of the Society of Friends residing in the Province of Leinster, the following extract from the minutes of the Society, setting forth its views as to capital punishment:—

"We are fully persuaded that capital punishment is opposed to the teachings of the Divine Founder of the Christian religion, and that man ought not in any case to take the life of his fellow-man. We commend this subject to the serious attention of our members, and we encourage them to promote that close examination of the matter by our fellow-countrymen and our legislators which may so enlighten their understanding as to hasten the day when the punishment of death shall be wholly abolished."

The Society has held this view since its foundation, has re-affirmed it from time to time, and is still convinced that it is according to the teaching of Christ. We earnestly hope that the Government of the Free State will consider at the earliest opportunity the advisability of abolishing capital punishment.—Yours faithfully,

Joseph T. Wigham,
Chairman of Leinster Meeting.

The honorary secretaries of the Irish section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom inform us that this section has decided to remonstrate against the infliction of capital punishment in the Free State.

CORN STACKS BURNED.

At the Clonmel District Court a young man named Ed. Fox was charged with unlawfully entering the farmstead of a man named Lyons, Cloghan district, setting fire to several stacks of corn, and aiding and abetting others in the offence. The case for the prosecution was that Fox and other masked and armed men held up Lyons in his home, searched his house for a gun, and then placed him at the point of the gun into the haggard, where they commanded him to set fire to the corn stacks. He refused, though threatened to be shot, and one of the men then set fire to the corn.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned.

SOLDIER AND CIVILIAN SENT FOR TRIAL.

Private John Ryan, of the National Army, and Patrick O'Brien, of Mill street, Kingstown, were returned for trial by Mr. Collins, K.C., on Saturday, in the Dublin Police Courts, on charges of entering the kitchen of John Ryan (father of Private Ryan), of 26 Eblana villas, Kingstown, between midnight and 1 a.m., and being in possession of a revolver. The soldier was also charged with threatening to shoot his father, and attempting to stab him with a table knife.

For the defence, it was stated that Mr. Ryan and [illegible] the son's visit was intended to [illegible] him. The revolver had not been found, and some ammunition [illegible] in his house was said to be a "souvenir from 1916."

CATTLE TRADE RESUMED.

THE FOURTEEN DAY'S SAFEGUARD.

"The Department have to-day been officially informed that the landing in Great Britain of live stock from Ireland will be allowed at all the approved British landing places, except Glasgow and Greenock, from midnight tomorrow (Sunday). The landing place at Greenock will not be available till Tuesday, and some further time must elapse before the Glasgow landing place will be ready for the reception of live stock.

"As expected, the movement of animals out of the landing places has been made subject to special regulations contained in an Order of the British Ministry of Agriculture which is being issued to come into operation simultaneously. The effect of this Order is to require movement out of the landing places to be regulated by licence of the British Ministry's inspector. The conditions normally attaching to such licence will be that where animals are licensed to a slaughterhouse slaughter must take place within 96 hours. In all other cases the movement must be direct to owners' or purchasers' premises, where the animals must be detained for fourteen days, unless after six days they are licensed to other premises, there to undergo detention for the remainder of the quarantine period.

"It should be understood that these restrictions are not intended to reflect in any way on the healthiness of Irish live stock. The British authorities readily admit that there is no necessity for special precautions against the introduction of foot-and-mouth disease from Ireland. The apprehension to which these regulations are due is altogether based, as were similar regulations in somewhat similar circumstances last year, on the liability of cattle moved promiscuously in large numbers to contract the disease and to spread it. The requirement of a fourteen days' detention before distribution to fairs and markets is intended as a safeguard against this danger, and is considered to be justified by the present very acute position of Great Britain in regard to the spread of the infection.

"As the position grows more favourable the regulations will be modified, and they will be withdrawn altogether when the position approaches the normal. Ireland, fortunately, continues free from the disease, but the widespread series of outbreaks across Channel must remain a source of uneasiness in this country, notwithstanding the official precautions. No doubt, these precautions have contributed to the maintenance of the Irish clean bill of health, but it cannot be too often or too strongly insisted that the co-operation of the public is necessary to the complete success of the official measures. In particular persons connected with the live stock industry should exercise every care and vigilance with regard to the observance of regulations by themselves and others with regard to report any reason for suspecting the health of animals under their charge."

VAN DRIVER ROBBED.

ARMED THIEVES NEAR DUBLIN.

On Saturday evening four men, who were armed with revolvers, robbed a Dublin bread-van driver of £20. At dusk the driver, an employé of Messrs. Kennedy, bakers, was stopped at a lonely spot on the Cabra road on his return to the city. Three revolver shots were fired over his head, and a sum of £20 and 5s. in coppers was taken from him.

He was then allowed to proceed, with a warning not to report the occurrence until he had reached his destination in Parnell street.

"SPORTING" WEDDING.

RACING COLOURS AND HORSES AT BARONET'S MARRIAGE.

Sir George Arthur Hamilton Beaumont, "The Sporting Baronet," who recently declared that at the age of forty-three he remained unmarried because he had never loved any woman as much as he loved his mother, was married at Epsom on Saturday, the bride being Miss Renée Northey, daughter of Major-General Sir Edward Northey.

The wedding had been put forward a week in order that the bride and bridegroom might attend next week's races.

Miss Northey wore a mediæval silver dress, a train of old lace, lent by her grandmother, and a headdress of silver leaves. There were six bridesmaids, including the bride's sister, and three cousins, and one of the bridegroom's cousins, who wore dresses of white crêpe embroidered in silver, all designed on mediæval lines. Major E. B. Denison was best man.

The "racing" note was struck at the wedding, racing colours forming the motif of the bride's bouquet, and an open carriage instead of a motor car being used by the bridal pair for their progress home after the ceremony.

BREAD VAN HOLD-UP.

At Bray District Court on Saturday, Peter Fitzpatrick, Vale View, and Owen Patrick Kelly, 34 Greenpark road, Little Bray, were returned for trial, on bail, to Wicklow Quarter Sessions, charged under the Public Safety Act, with "holding up" Andrew Burke, bread-van driver, Dalkey, with a revolver on the 3rd November, and robbing him of £3 10s.

Sergeant Rynne, who gave evidence of arrest, said that Kelly told him that he went to a football match at Woodbrook on the 3rd November, at 3 o'clock, and met Fitzpatrick. Both of them had bicycles and they left the match twenty minutes before the finish, to go to Kingstown. At Ballynoggin, he said, he fell off his bicycle and then went to Fitzpatrick's house, where he remained about twenty minutes, when he returned home.

Fitzpatrick, in his statement, said that they remained at the match until the finish, and that they then cycled home.

"NECESSARIES."

ADOPTED DAUGHTER'S BILL FOR COSMETICS.

At Lambeth County Court on Saturday, Mr. George Stannard, of Chesnut road, West Norwood, was sued by Boots Cash Chemists (Southern), Limited, for £14 9s. 6d. for numerous powder puffs, powder bowls, face creams, and cosmetics supplied to his 19-year-old adopted daughter.

The girl, who had been a customer at Boots' West Norwood shop, handed in a typewritten list of articles before going to New York with Mrs. Stannard. Later she wrote from France, telling the firm to apply to Mr. Stannard for payment, adding that she "had to have a few necessaries," so she got them. "My mother knows nothing about it," her letter said.

Judge Parry—I see the young lady calls these things necessaries. I do not see anything in the bill that is necessary to anybody. Face powders and scents are not necessaries.

Mr. Stannard said he did not authorise his adopted daughter to buy the articles or order them in his name.

BISHOP AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Bishop of Lichfield, speaking at a League of Nations meeting at Nuneaton, said that the issues of Free Trade and Protection were insignificant compared with what was happening or might happen among the nations of Europe at the present time. The problem of unemployment was greatly due to the present unsettled state of Europe. We wanted to see peace among the nations, and if France would not help to promote that peace a Conference should be held without her.

Wild suggested, at a meeting of the Lincoln Guardians on Saturday, that the inmates should grow beards, in order to cut out the expense of employing a barber. PRINCE OF WALES.

PROPOSED IRISH VISIT NEXT YEAR.

DUBLIN & BELFAST.

While the Prince of Wales has so far made no plans for next year, it is now highly probable, says the Society Correspondent of the Sunday Times, that a visit to Ireland will eventually form a prominent feature in his arrangements.

"A short tour of Ireland," it is added, "is something that makes very strong appeal to him, and in addition to visiting Dublin, Belfast, and some of the larger towns, he would likewise endeavour to see something of the natural beauty spots of the country. It is likely to be some little time yet before any definite arrangements can be made for this trip, but the summer of next year has already been named as the most convenient time for it to take place."

WELL-KNOWN IRISH HORSE-OWNER.

Joseph Patrick Widger, the famous steeplechase jockey, who rode Wild Man from Borneo to victory in the Grand National of 1896, died at his residence, West Derby, Liverpool, yesterday.

A native of Waterford, he owned numerous horses in his time, the last one of note being Drifter, who was sold after finishing behind Sergeant Murphy last March for the Grand National. Widger was 60 years of age.

A FLOATING "ZOO."

ANOTHER ZEBRA FOR THE DUBLIN GARDENS.

Among their companions on the ss. Dunluce Castle are two lions, one leopard, five mongooses, seven Rhodesian baboons, six Chacma baboons, nine Vervet monkeys, five waterbucks, two wildebeests.

"Two of the zebras," said a representative of Chapman's, the importers, in London, "are for the Paris Zoo, two are for Antwerp, and one is for the Dublin Zoo. A bushbuck, three lechwes, three sables, and a Koedoe bull which are coming will be the only animals of their class at present in Europe.

ERROR OF JUDGMENT THAT CAUSED FIVE DEATHS.

It is announced by the British Air Ministry that as a result of the investigation into the circumstances attending the aeroplane accident on September 14, when the pilot and four passengers were killed, the following conclusions have been reached by the Inspector of Accidents:—

(a) That the accident was due to an error of judgment on the part of the pilot, causing the aeroplane to lose flying speed nearing the ground.

(b) That when the accident occurred the pilot was attempting to make a landing on account of the bad weather conditions.

PLAY AND PRAYER.

BISHOP'S PLAN FOR BETTER SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

The Vicar of St. Nicholas's Church, Wallasey, in whose parish golf links are situated, has issued an appeal to Sunday golfers calling on them to consider the responsibility attached to the example they give by failing to attend Church Service.

"I see young people in flannels with tennis rackets walking through the village on Sunday mornings," he says. "Why shouldn't they? White flannels are no less sanctified than 'plus fours'! Almost everyone who becomes possessed of a car wants to get off somewhere on Sundays. Why shouldn't he? A sparking plug is no less sanctified than a niblick! But where is it all leading us? What would be the effect upon the nation if all the churches were closed?"

The Vicar is offering golfers, tennis players and motorists a short Sunday morning Service at which, he says, the chief attraction might be "no sermon." It would be, he says, a healthy thing to see a row of motors outside the church and bundles of golf clubs and tennis rackets in the porch or in the pews, rather than that people should make no recognition of their Creator on a Sunday.

MEMORIAL TO A CLERGYMAN.

MEETING AT CLONTARF.

The Most Rev. Dr. Byrne, Archbishop of Dublin, presided yesterday afternoon at a public meeting in the Church of St. John the Baptist, Clontarf, at which the erection of a memorial to the late Very Rev. James Hickey, P.P., was discussed. Father Hickey died early this year, having been for fourteen years attached to the parish.

The attendance, which was very large, included:—The Very Rev. Hugh Evans, C.SS.R., Kimmage; Rev. D. Hickey, C.C., Terenure (nephew of the deceased pastor); Very Rev. Canon Pettit, P.P., Fairview; Very Rev. P. Hayden, P.P., Francis street; Very Rev. James Dempsey, P.P., Clontarf; Rev. William Meighan, C.C., Clontarf; and Rev. James O'Keeffe, C.C., Clontarf.

The Very Rev. James Dempsey, P.P., having extended a cordial welcome to the Archbishop, spoke of the work and qualities of the deceased pastor. It had been decided, at a representative meeting of the parishioners, that the memorial should take the form of a sacristy.

The Archbishop expressed the great satisfaction that he felt at being present at the meeting. If there was any doubt as to the appreciation in which the late Father Hickey was held by his flock, it was dispelled by the sight of so many of his parishioners present to do honour to his name. He was gratified to find how greatly they reverenced their dead pastor, and to see that they were prepared to erect a memorial to his name. Like themselves, he appreciated Father Hickey, and he could testify that a more true-hearted priest never worked for God in any parish in the country. Those who knew him were aware of his earnestness of character and his absolute devotion to his priestly duties. It was pleasing, in the circumstances, to find that the memorial would take a useful form, and he commended it to the generous support of the parishioners.

Mr. Philip Lawrence proposed that the memorial should take the form of a new sacristy, and, if possible, a small shrine chapel; that a subscription list should be opened; and that the Very Rev. James Dempsey, P.P., should be appointed honorary treasurer.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Michael Moran, and passed unanimously.

A collection was then made. The Archbishop contributed £200 towards the memorial, and Senator Moran, who was also present, subscribed £100.

WAR MEMORIALS.

LORD DERBY'S HOPE.

Lord Derby on Saturday afternoon unveiled Southport's war memorial in honour of those townsmen who fell in the war.

Lord Derby said that with the passing of this generation would pass personal remembrance, and these memorials were erected in various parts of the country as a witness to generations to come of what this country suffered in the Great War. He hoped that they would act, not only as memorials of the dead, but as a warning against future wars.

GENERAL MENACED.

At West London Police Court on Saturday, Charles Evans, 32, labourer, and Robert Douglas Carthew, 25, cashier, of Bathurst road, Kendal Rise, were remanded on the charge of demanding with menaces £200 from Major-General Sir Cameron Shute, of Sloane street, S.W. It was alleged that the accused sent the following letter to the General:—

"Sir,—We, the Camorra Secret Society, demand the sum of £200 in our agent's hands by the first post on Friday morning. The man who I have appointed will kill you and your charming daughter by November 18 if the money is not sent. Please send the money all in one pound notes. The man will ask for a registered letter in the English name of Arthur Watts. If you seek police protection whatsoever you and all near and dear to you will die systematically. We are watching your house very closely, although you won't see the watchers.

"I saw the news of your daughter's wedding in the English papers, so I decided to demand money with menaces. Refuse to send the money, and you and your daughter will die, and it will not be a nice death. All our plans are complete. The Camorra are badly in need of funds. We are going to write to other charming aristocrats. Don't 'phone to Scotland Yard or send to any police station. If you do, I, as president, will know one hour later by wireless telegraphy.

(Signed) "Signor Giovanni Matani,
"President, Camorra."

At the end of the letter was a representation of the skull and crossbones.

A detective Inspector from Scotland Yard, giving evidence, said that at his suggestion General Shute addressed a decoy letter to "Arthur Watts," c.o. Hammersmith Post-office. Officers were instructed to be on the watch, and Evans was arrested at the post-office. Evans when questioned said that he was told by a man at Fulham Infirmary to call for the letter.

Subsequently, Carthew was questioned at Fulham Infirmary, and he made a statement to the effect that he wrote the letter to General Shute, and that he sent Evans to the post-office for the reply. On the way to the police station he said: "General Shute is the man who confirmed the sentence passed on me at a courtmartial when I was in the Army."

SECONDARY TEACHERS.

BETTER TERMS EXPECTED SOON.

The deputation, which consisted of Mr. A. Rutledge (President), Mr. J. H. Kane (Vice-President), Miss E. A. Doyle, Mr. T. P. Waller, and Mr T. J. Burke (General Secretary), put forward a claim for the early introduction of measures covering salary scales, pensions, and security of tenure, and reminded the Minister of the promise of an additional grant made both by himself and by the President in the last Dail.

Dr. MacNeill stated that the Government would certainly carry out the undertaking given, and that, as negotiations were in progress between the Ministries of Education and Finance, an official announcement might be expected shortly.

LA SCALA CONCERT.

A SUITE FROM COATS.

Yesterday afternoon's concert at La Scala Theatre, Dublin, was most enjoyable. The singers sang attractive songs with appreciation of their music values, and the orchestra gave convincing impressions of music worth giving and hearing. The Cycle, "Summer Days" (1, "In a Country Lane"; 2, "On the Edge of the Lake"; 3, "At the Dance") was the more picturesque through its quiet "colour" and gently-accented tempo. It brought home, too, the fineness of the strings at Mr. Moody's disposal. It was, in itself, a promise for the future, and was very welcome after the jingle and percussion of previous concerts.

Mr. Herbert Heyner sang two Quilter songs in a cultured style, and "Brittany" (which Gervase Elwes immortalised) with real tone-picturing. In Moussorgsky's "Song of the Flea" and the old traditional air, "The Golden Vanitee," he kept to the musical while giving all the dramatic sense, the quaint refrain, "The Lowland Sea," growing more telling in note at each repetition. This song, heard so much in the Thames Valley, is one of the finest examples of folk music extant. "All Women Born are so Perverse" was another song out of the ordinary concert track.

Miss Noel Eadie was the soprano. She sang "Ah fors e Lui" with a certain success, and Dvorak's beautiful "Songs my Mother Taught Me" in pure ballad style. But it was in her Scottish songs, "Ye Banks and Braes," "Annie Laurie," and "My Heart is Sair" that her pleasing voice was heard at its best. Both singers gave many encores and acknowledged their indebtedness to the accompanist, Miss Lucy Leenane, who, as usual, was most painstaking and careful.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

VIEWS OF THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

The following letter has been addressed by the Society of Friends to the Governor-General of the Free State, the President of Dail Eireann, and the Minister for Home Affairs:—

Religious Society of Friends, Office:
November, 1923.

Dear Sir,—I have been instructed to forward to you, on behalf of the members of the Society of Friends residing in the Province of Leinster, the following extract from the minutes of the Society, setting forth its views as to capital punishment:—

"We are fully persuaded that capital punishment is opposed to the teachings of the Divine Founder of the Christian religion, and that man ought not in any case to take the life of his fellow-man. We commend this subject to the serious attention of our members, and we encourage them to promote that close examination of the matter by our fellow-countrymen and our legislators which may so enlighten their understanding as to hasten the day when the punishment of death shall be wholly abolished."

The Society has held this view since its foundation, has re-affirmed it from time to time, and is still convinced that it is according to the teaching of Christ. We earnestly hope that the Government of the Free State will consider at the earliest opportunity the advisability of abolishing capital punishment.—Yours faithfully,

Joseph T. Wigham,
Chairman of Leinster Meeting.

The honorary secretaries of the Irish section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom inform us that this section has decided to remonstrate against the infliction of capital punishment in the Free State.

CORN STACKS BURNED.

At the Clonmel District Court a young man named Ed. Fox was charged with unlawfully entering the farmstead of a man named Lyons, Cloghan district, setting fire to several stacks of corn, and aiding and abetting others in the offence. The case for the prosecution was that Fox and other masked and armed men held up Lyons in his home, searched his house for a gun, and then placed him at the point of the gun into the haggard, where they commanded him to set fire to the corn stacks. He refused, though threatened to be shot, and one of the men then set fire to the corn.

IRELAND.

A letter was read from Cardinal Logue yesterday at the Masses in the churches in the Archdiocese of Armagh, in which he referred to the hunger strike in the jails and internment camps. He appeals to the Government to clear the jails of the untried and unconvicted prisoners without delay.—(Page 5.)

It is suggested that the Prince of Wales may visit Dublin, Belfast, and some of the country districts of Ireland next summer.—(Page 7.)

Commander Brooke-Smith, R.N.R., Air Ministry, lectured in Dublin on Saturday on "wireless" weather forcasting systems.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. Baldwin has issued his election address, in which he repeats his pledge not to put a tax on food.—(Page 5.)

From midnight yesterday cattle shipments from Ireland to all landing places in Great Birtain, except Glasgow and Greenock, are permitted. The movement of animals out of the landing places will be subject to licence.—(Page 3.)

ABROAD

Many English and French women have been warned to leave Berlin.—(Page 5.)

M. Poincaré says that France will apply further sanctions unless she obtains satisfaction on the questions of the control of German armaments and the position of the ex-Crown Prince. Britain will not agree to sanctions.—(Page 5.)

A Capital Levy.

The election manifesto of the British Labour Party is a clever document. Its basic fallacies are camouflaged ingeniously by attractive promises and alluring words, with the result that the creation of a new heaven and a new earth would seem to be quite easy if only Mr. Ramsay Macdonald should get his way. Unemployment would be cured by "a positive remedy." Agriculture would flourish once again and farmers and labourers alike would wax fat. Adequate provision would be made for everybody. Every child would have an equal chance in the world's battles; every old man and old woman would be assured of a competence in the evening of their lives. Abroad the troubles of the peoples would vanish, because the Labour Party would revise the Treaty of Versailles, strengthen the League of Nations, resume full commerce with Russia, and bear the Marxian olive-branch into all the vexed quarters of the earth. Finally, Mr. Macdonald would solve the financial problem by means of a capital levy. He would impose "a non-recurrent, graduated, war debt redemption levy on all individual fortunes in excess of £5,000, to be devoted solely to the reduction of the debt." As a result of this levy, together with the reduction of armaments and other "sane economies," Mr. Macdonald declares that he would be in a position to reduce income tax, to abolish all food duties and to provide money for necessary social services.

The capital levy is the most dangerous and insidious of all the nostrums of modern Socialism. To the ignorant elector it seems to be a splendid idea. The proceeds of a tax of, say, from ten to twenty per cent. on all "fortunes" above £5,000 would reduce the War Debt by a very considerable amount. The rich men would not miss their losses and everybody would be happy. Unfortunately, the capital levy is not quite so simple. In the first place, what is a "fortune?" Let us assume that a man has bought a farm for which he has paid £6,000, having been forced, probably, to borrow the greater part of the purchase price. Must he pay ten per cent. of his nominal capital? Does Labour propose to differentiate between "capital" as represented by plant, good-will, technical efficiency and the like, and "capital" as represented by so many Treasury notes in a stocking or so much credit at a bank? The manifesto gives no answer to this most important question. In either case the result probably would be disastrous. In the first, the enforcement of a levy would throw thousands of "small" business men out of business and into the Bankruptcy Court; in the second, it would restrict credit, reduce floating capital and, as an inevitable sequence, raise prices and lower the standard of life. The British public, therefore, is not likely to pay much attention to Labour's blandishments.

Mr. Macdonald's manifesto is the best thing that could have happened for the Government. The alternatives before Free Trade Conservatives are simple. On the one hand, they find Mr. Baldwin's fiscal proposals, with his definite pledge that essential foodstuffs will not be taxed in any circumstances, and on the other hand they find the capital levy. The Liberal Party, it is true, has gained enormously through the reunion of its divorced leaders, but nobody believes that it will secure a majority of votes in the House of Commons. The most for which it could hope would be a loose coalition with the Labour Party, and, in that event, while the capital levy might be scotched for a time, it certainly would not be killed. The ordinary man, therefore, must choose between Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Macdonald. So long as there is no tax on food the "Protection" which the Government advocates is not likely to do any harm, and it may do some good. The capital levy would be an unmitigated evil. The issue has been knit in the constituencies and the political campaign is now in full swing. If the Earl of Birkenhead consents to carry the Conservative banner into Lancashire, the Government ought to have little difficulty in securing a safe majority; but prophecy at this stage would be extremely unwise. One thing, however, is reasonably certain: the British people will not have a capital levy at any price.

Cardinal Logue's Appeal.

Recently we ventured to discuss the relation between religion and politics from a novel point of view. We suggested that the whole face of Ireland would be changed very quickly if Governments and politicians would agree to apply to all public matters the teachings of the Sermon on the Mount. In such an event, we asked, what would happen to the Republican "hunger-strikers"? We answered the question by saying that they would abandon their hunger-strike immediately, since it is an offence against their own bodies, made in God's image, and against the public peace; and that the Free State Government then might be expected to put the prisoners on trial and to sentence or release them in accordance with the dictates of justice and mercy. We publish to-day a pronouncement on this subject by Cardinal Logue, whose essential conclusions are not different from our own. Like all good Irishmen, the Cardinal is anxious that this unhappy and un-Christian trouble shall be removed before the season of peace and good-will dawns upon the land. He says two things which, no doubt, are true—that the prisoners have suffered severely and that they have increased their sufferings by their own conduct. His Eminence desires earnestly that these sufferings, deserved or undeserved, shall cease; but the prisoners must make the first move by an abandonment of the "hunger-strike." This form of protest is, in his opinion, "foolish, ineffective and of very doubtful morality." Clearly, the Cardinal's condemnation of the hunger-strike on moral grounds is hampered by his Church's curiously indeterminate attitude to it in recent years; he is careful to speak for himself alone, and not ex cathedra. There is no uncertainty, however, about his view that the hunger-strike ought to be abandoned. On the other hand, His Eminence pleads for a generous and whole-hearted act of clemency by the Free State Government. He invites it to release all prisoners, "except those convicted of crime or liable to be tried for crime," without any undue insistence on "useless undertakings." The Government, he argues, now controls an effective machinery for the detection and punishment of crime, and a general gaol delivery might be expected to bring us peace at Christmas. As we have said, Cardinal Logue's views and our own are in substantial agreement; but his letter ignores one consideration to which, very naturally, the Government attaches much importance. It is true that the Republican leaders have denounced (in the diplomatic sense) the "state of war," but it is true also that they have refused to yield their hidden stores of arms to the constitutional Government of the country. The Government's refusal to release the prisoners so long as these arms lie concealed is perfectly intelligible. We are sure that, if the "hunger-strike" is abandoned and the arms are surrendered, the whole country will support the Cardinal's plea for an act of clemency which would allow most of the prisoners to spend Christmas at their own firesides.

Art and History.

Everybody who puts his thoughts into words, whether in the form of play, novel or public speech, invites, and must endure, the fire of criticism. He who ventures in his work to deal with historical episodes or personages takes a special risk. Such a case has occurred in the United States of America. The occasion was a performance of Mr. John Drinkwater's play, "Robert E. Lee," at Richmond, Virginia. Those who saw Mr. Drinkwater's fine play, "Abraham Lincoln," when it was performed some time ago in Dublin, will remember that Lincoln was the author's hero. With Lincoln as his ideal, Mr. Drinkwater scarcely could think so well of Lee: hence the displeasure of the Virginians, who, of course, are stalwart Southerners. After the play a formal protest was registered against its "many historical mis-statements," its representation of the Southern principles in the Civil War, and its account of the character of the Confederate leaders. If every historical play were to be prohibited upon such grounds, there would be an end to such plays. Every one of Shakespeare's histories would have gone by the board long ago; for they contain plenty of "historical mis-statements." Most people, fortunately, take a less sensitive view of art. In that field they are rightly inclined to be tolerant, although here in Ireland we have experienced difficulties with regard to plays that were said to impugn the Irish character. The standard by which a play, or any other work of art, ought to be judged is the standard of art alone: no other question should be allowed to intrude. If it is bad art, then let it be condemned. If it is good art, it ought not to be judged harshly on a totally different standard.

London Churches.

Last week the National Assembly of the Church of England discussed the fate of nineteen of the churches in the City of London. A proposal was made that these nineteen churches should be pulled down and that the sites upon which they stand should be sold. Many of them are virtually without congregations; the sites are extremely valuable from the business point of view, and the Church always has need of money. Moreover, many of these churches are in a sad state of disrepair and decay, through lack of funds to keep them in a proper condition. Against this practical view-point there are the considerations of sentiment and beauty. Already too many fine architectural works have vanished from London. Many of these old City churches were the work of that magnificent architect, Sir Christopher Wren. The Bishop of London expressed the opinion of thousands of people when he said at the Assembly that some of the City churches were "the glory of the world." He protested that he would resign his position rather than suffer the Church of St. Bartholomew-the-Great, in Smithfield, to be touched. For the present, at any rate, these churches will be spared. On Lord Hugh Cecil's suggestion the proposal will be sent to a committee of not more than twelve persons, who will reconsider the whole matter. It is probable that some form of compromise will be reached. Certainly it would be a lamentable thing if the best of these monuments were not preserved to the nation. The Bishop of London suggested that it might be possible to close them on Sundays, when their staffs would be released for work in other parishes.

NAVAL VOTERS AT THE ELECTION.

POSITION OF MEN IN FREE STATE WATERS.

Admiralty Fleet orders contain instructions as to the procedure for the General Election. The whereabouts of all officers and men serving in home establishments or in ships in Home waters are to be reported to the registration officer of the county or borough in which they are registered. Such notices, however, are not required for voters whose home addresses are in the Irish Free State, and the whereabouts of these voters should, therefore, not be reported. Similarly, notices are not required for naval voters serving in Irish Free State waters.

If at the time, the whereabouts of naval voters are being notified to registration officers an officer or man is in hospital, on leave, etc., and will not rejoin his ship in time to complete and return his ballot paper by the date of the poll, the full address at which he is to be found should be communicated, in order that his ballot paper may be forwarded to him for completion and return direct.

When an officer or man is discharged to hospital, leave, etc., after the notices as to whereabouts have been despatched, and on or before the day of nomination, and will not rejoin his ship in time to complete and return his ballot paper by the date of the poll, a further card is to be forwarded to the registration officer, reporting the full address at which he is to be found.

When an officer or man in hospital, on leave, etc., is due to return to his place of duty in time to complete and return his ballot paper by the close of the poll, the name of the ship, etc., and not the address at which he is temporarily to be found, should be communicated to the registration officer, the ballot paper being retained on board for completion and despatch on his return.

Any officer or man who is actually registered as a Parliamentary elector, but who is not on the Absent Voters' List, owing to his having joined the Navy since the register was compiled, can obtain from his Depot a form on which to make application to the appropriate registration officer for his name to be entered on the Absent Voters' List.

On receipt of this form, duty filled up, the registration officer will place the applicant's name on the Absent Voters' List, and forward him a ballot paper to the address furnished. Such applications must reach registration officers at least two clear days before the date of nomination of the candidates.

Ballot papers must be returned in time to reach the returning officer by the close of the poll—i.e., Thursday, 6th December—or they cannot be included in the count. Every endeavour is to be made on board to ensure the ballot papers reach the men personally, and are despatched to the returning officers without delay.

MR. W. B. YEATS.

AN ENGLISH TRIBUTE.

Among the many tributes paid to Mr. W. B. Yeats in connection with the award of the Nobel Prize for Literature is the following by Mr. J. C. Squire in the Observer:—

"Mr. Yeats is at the height of his powers and has, let us hope, many years of active work before him. He was twenty-four when, in 1889, he published his first volume of verse, "The Wanderings of Oisin." His production since then has been immense and diverse: poems, plays, philosophical essays, memoirs. Few writers so copious have maintained their standards so consistently. Mr. Yeats's achievement, naturally, has not been always on the same level, but he has never written without a strong impulse, and he has never written carelessly. Some of his experiments may have been unsuccessful, some mediums may suit him better than others, and much of his writing in prose is devoted to themes which are of more interest to the writer than they are to most of his readers—his astrological speculations being examples.

"But there is no dilution of journalism in his works, nothing written topically for the sake of the quick impression, nothing which has the taint of manufacture for the market. These elements, indeed, are so conspicuously lacking in his work that it seems almost absurd to mention them in connection with him: but instances of artists at once so fastidious and so profuse are very rare. He has aimed always, in words which he uses of another, at beauty like a tightened bow, a kind that

And his object throughout his life has been dual: to perfect his own art in the light of his own ideals and to advance what he regards as civilisation in Ireland.

"He had the artistic aim and the practical aim, and the two were intertwined. In retrospect his career will be seen to have been very systematic. His resuscitation and adaptation of the old Irish legends and myths would have been impossible had he not felt drawn towards them, because they gave him the images his art required; but it was also a deliberate attempt to provide Ireland with a background.

"When he turned to the drama the artist in him was craving the use of the stage and human forms and voices, but as soon as he became a playwright he conceived himself also as manager and producer of a new Irish theatre in unregenerate Dublin. More recently, almost any evening in Dublin has seen the poet upstairs brooding over astrological signs, while downstairs a gentleman with a machine gun has guarded the hall of the Free State Senator against his political opponents. . . .

"Whatever his practical ideals, and however powerful may be his indirect influence upon his country's civilisation, he will never be a popular poet. He is too difficult, too remote, too fine; he has confessed that his companions are Landor and Donne, two other great poets who wrote for their peers. And whatever his theories and whatever impatience he may feel with his early poems about "half-forgotten things," he remains temperamentally the man he was, a wistful poet looking back on vanished beauties, or hankering for beauties unseen. He is called a mystic, but there are few traces in him of the joy of the mystic who has reached full communion with the Eternal.

"Mr. Yeats gropes at the barriers; he does not find them dissolving in a blaze of light. No man has more habitually meditated on the thing out of reach; he cannot describe the simplest natural object with the touch of regret; it is in the cadence if it is not in the words. And no man's cadences are more nearly perfect. A generation which has produced Mr. Yeats and Mr. de la Mare has produced two of the greatest and subtlest musicians who have ever written in the English tongue."

THE NOBEL PRIZE.

The Nobel Foundation was instituted by Dr. Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, 28 years ago. He set aside the greater part of the huge fortune his invention brought him, nearly two millions sterling, as a Nobel Prize Fund, the annual interest of which he directed to be divided into five equal parts with which to reward the persons who, in the year prior to the award, had "rendered humanity the greatest service" in the sciences of Physics, Chemistry, and Medicine, the realm of "idealistic" literature, and in the cause of international peace and the suppression or reduction of standing armies.

The first awards were made on the fifth anniversary of Nobel's death, December 10, 1901, when the interest on the capital sum he left permitted approximately £8,000 to be paid to each of the five prizemen. In the intervening years nearly 120 awards have been made, and altogether the prizemen have shared little short of a million pounds.

The prizes have gone all over the world, no fewer than twenty countries being represented in the prize list. Germany stands at the top with 21 Science prizes and 4 Literature prizes; France takes second place with a total of 19 awards, 11 for Science, 4 for Literature, and 4 Peace prizes; while third place is taken by Great Britain with 12 Science, 1 Literature, and 1 Peace, a total of 14.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—The depression recently centred between the Shetlands and Norway is moving towards Germany. Secondaries are likely to develop over the British Isles and cause rain or sleet at times, and winds will be north-westerly, fresh to strong at times, with a rather low temperature, and frost locally at night.

Ireland.—Wind north-westerly, fresh to strong at times; occasional rain or sleet showers, bright intervals; visibility moderate to good; cold; frost locally at night.

All Irish Seaboards. — Wind north-westerly, strong at times; occasional rain or sleet, bright intervals; visibility mainly good; sea rough.

LONDON LETTER.

A STRANGE ELECTION.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

This is the strangest general election that I can remember. Usually, the student of politics can form a pretty shrewd notion of what is likely to be the outcome of an appeal to the country, but on this occasion even those who are usually most confident confess themselves baffled. Perhaps, the most curious thing about it is that quite a number of people believe, without being able to give any definite reason for their belief, that the Government will come back with a majority—a little reduced in size, may be, but still sufficient to enable them to carry on at least for a time.

Yet most of the factors that usually tell in elections are against the Government. Its policy is one which it is very difficult to explain to an uninstructed electorate, but which it is very easy to attack both with argument and ridicule. Mr. Lloyd George, with his tin-can metaphor, seems to have already decided that ridicule is the more effective weapon, as it is certainly the more congenial to one of his temperament.

The Liberals' Strength.

So far as platform ability is concerned, the Government is not nearly so well armed as the re-united Liberals. Against the heavy howitzers of Mr. Asquith, Sir John Simon and Sir Alfred Mond, and the lighter artillery of Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Churchill, at the moment it can oppose the Prime Minister, himself a weighty, but not very incisive speaker, with Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Mr. Amery and Sir Philip Lloyd Greame, none of whom is as yet very well known to the public.

The Ex-Ministers.

The Government's position will be improved, of course, if it can secure the whole-hearted support of Mr. Austen Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead. The latter, particularly, is just the man to coin the pointed phrases which penetrate the density of the average elector and help to decide the direction of the doubtful votes. I am glad to see that he is to be present at Lord Wargrave's luncheon at the Constitutional Club next Tuesday, and has undertaken to deal with some of the controversial points which are being made against the Government proposals. That promises well.

The Press.

Up to the present the Government has not had a particularly good Press to make up for its deficiencies on the platform. Very few of the newspapers usually regarded as Conservative have declared themselves whole-heartedly in favour of Mr. Baldwin's policy, and some of them have definitely declared against it. I fancy, however, that there will be a change in this respect during the next few days, and that the historical tendency of the Conservative Party to solidify itself under pressure will be exemplified in the case of some of its now rather fluid journals.

Conservative Apathy.

A principal cause of Conservative apathy has been the suddenness of the new departure. People could not understand why the Prime Minister, who in August seemed quite content with the steps already taken to combat unemployment, should two months later have decided that it was necessary to arm himself with new and drastic powers. What new fact had occurred in the meantime to effect this change?

German Steel.

What has happened since August is that the collapse of German resistance in the Ruhr under the intensified pressure of France has rendered it increasingly probable that the dumping of German steel into the British market will come about under French auspices. In the debate last Thursday Mr. Baldwin specifically said: "It may come from the co-operation of both French and cosmopolitan financiers exploiting German labour." To wait until the menace had developed into a fact before taking steps to meet it would be unwise, firstly, because measures of this kind, if adopted in a hurry, are apt to be unsound; and, secondly, because, in the circumstances indicated, they might be regarded by France as "an unfriendly act." Mr. Baldwin's view is evidently that, if a weapon is likely to be needed, we had better provide it in advance, when no exception can be taken to it.

The Capital Levy.

Despite Mr. Snowden's doubts, the Labour leaders have retained the capital levy in the official policy. But they have prefixed to it a highly significant epithet. It is to be "non-recurrent," we are told. I doubt if this attempt to allay the fears of the property-owner will succeed. Who can bind the successors of the present Labour leaders? If a capital levy should be imposed, and by a miracle succeed, would they be content with a single slice off the cake?

London's Little Season.

The return of the Court to London from Sandringham to-morrow would have been the signal for a resumption of a series of entertainments, but the political developments have caused a general cancellation of dinners and dances. It was considered that London's little season would this year have been an unusually full one; for many functions had been arranged. Many of them, however, have only been postponed, and when politics have ceased to exert their influence there will be much entertaining. The early part of the year is likely to be an unusually busy time in town, when new members come to London for the meeting of the House; for there will necessarily be a number of political receptions in addition to functions of a non-political character.

The Hon. E. Cuinness.

Friends of the Hon. Ernest Guinness, who started on a tour round the world with his wife and daughters last March on his yacht Fantome II., have received news that the party is making a short stay at Tientsin. After passing through the Panama Canal stops were made at the Fiji Islands and Japan, and, according to present arrangements, England will be reached again in February.

A New Zealand Stamp.

Letters are now reaching England franked with the new penny New Zealand stamp. The new stamp is of neat design, consisting of a map of the two islands in the centre, with the words "New Zealand Universal Postage," and "One Penny 1923," on the upper and lower edges. The curious anomaly now exists that it costs twice as much to send a letter to London from Dublin as from the other end of the world.

Women Candidates.

One of the features of the general election will be the increase in the number of women candidates. All parties are putting forward women candidates, and in the next Parliament there may be several feminine representatives of Conservatives, Liberals and Labour. So far as London is concerned, Dame Gwynne-Vaughan, who polled 8.066 votes at Camberwell at the last election, is estimated to have an excellent prospect of winning the seat for the Conservatives on this occasion.

Nothing is more certain than that hardship is necessary to health, and that preoccupation with comfort is the most deadly sort of hypochondria.—Mr. G. Bernard Shaw.

The economic recovery of Europe can never be achieved without the help and concurrence of America.—The Viscount Curzon.

WILL FRANCE MODIFY HER CLAIMS?

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Sunday.

It is hoped to-night that the meeting of the Ambassadors' Conference, which was postponed yesterday at the request of the British Government, will take place to-morrow morning. Throughout the week-end conversations have continued between Paris and London, but without bringing the two points of view near enough to offer a prospect of agreement. They seem, on the other hand, to have revealed the alternative in such sombre colours as to quicken the desire to avoid a breakdown by every possible means.

To-night, indeed, modifications are foreseen in the French point of view, from which it is hoped a formula for an accord may emerge. First, France, it is said, will not demand the banishment of the ex-Crown Prince, esteeming his presence to be of small importance in comparison with the German violation of the Treaty under the head of armaments. In regard to these she will not insist on the integral resumption of surveillance by the Allied Control Missions, but will accept the view that the present decline of its authority makes it impossible for the German Government to guarantee the general safety of the Mission, and that the practical possibilities admit of no more than the partial and progressive resumption of their work.

The proposal, therefore, is apparently that the Nollet Mission shall be charged to decide where and where not the German Government should be called upon to undertake responsibility for the Allied officers.

In regard to sanctions, it is stated that M. Poincaré is now willing that they should not figure in a joint ultimatum to Berlin provided that the right of control created by the Treaty should be fully acknowledged. It is added that, on the part of the Allies, it should be understood that if Germany refuses to recognise control or to give effect to it, sanctions should follow.

As to the Ruhr, M. Poincaré, in a speech at Neuilly this afternoon, showed that we are a long way from the evacuation which was to follow the end of passive resistance.

RUHR AND RHINELAND.

OCCUPATION IN PERPETUITY.

PARIS, Sunday.

A speech made by M. Poincaré at the unveiling of a memorial at Neuilly to-day contains two important statements—firstly, that Germany's defiance of the Treaty as regards military control by the Allies and the ex-Crown Prince calls for sanctions. "We shall take them," he declared, "unless we obtain satisfaction"; secondly, "apart from such sanctions, France is determined not to evacuate the occupied territories until all the clauses signed at Versailles have been completely executed," and "we are firmly protected against fresh possibilities of aggression."

"If France demands observation of the Treaties pure and simple," said the Premier, "it is because scrupulous respect for promises made has always been for her an elementary principle of honesty, and also because all the Peace Treaties really form one sole edifice, all the parts of which are inter-dependent, and which cannot break away in one place without the whole collapsing.

"Now, when the German industrialists have capitulated and deliveries are about to be gradually resumed in a regular manner, another meeting of experts is proposed to examine Germany's capacity. Solely out of regard for her Allies France agreed, but with the proviso that the inquiry should be conducted within the framework of the Peace Treaty. The inquiry had fallen through. We should have been very happy, however, to come to an agreement with our Allies on the subject of reparations, but on the condition that Germany's debt should not be re-assessed.

BACK TO TREATY.

"Let us now get back to the Treaty. The Reparations Commission will hear the Germans, and will appoint such experts as it thinks fit, who will decide Germany's capacity for payment both for the present and for the future. It will fix figures that it thinks equitable. By means of the pledges, which we shall only release on final payment, we shall be able to induce Germany to liquidate her debt. We do not despair of convincing our friends that our method is the correct one. We shall proceed on our way without anxiety or weakness."

M. Poincaré declared that Germany had long been pleasing herself in the matter of the Peace Treaty clauses. She had been clandestinely reconstructing military formations. She had now authorised the return of the ex-Crown Prince. Those acts were daring challenges thrown out to the Allies and bare-faced breaches of the Treaty.

Note—It will be noticed from the French Premier's speech that to-day, for the first time, he announces that neither the Rhineland nor the Rhur will be evacuated until France is convinced that her security is guaranteed for all time, and until the Treaty has been completely executed. The Treaty provides for the occupation of the Rhineland for a period of fifteen years from the commencement of the execution of the Treaty. The French Government apparently considers that this period has not yet begun to run. Hitherto, as regards the Rhur, M. Poincaré had always declared that occupation would be in proportion to the reparation payments. The period of uncertainty concerning France's security might be equivalent to perpetuity. It will be noted that the sanctions on which France insists, unless Germany gives satisfaction as regards military control and the ex-Crown Prince, are distinct from a prolongation of the occupation. M. Poincaré is apparently adamant in his contention that no agreement with Britain is possible unless the latter subscribes to the sanctions.—(Reuter.)

BRITAIN'S ATTITUDE.

NO SANCTIONS.

PARIS, Sunday.

It is understood that the British Government, in its instructions to Lord Crewe, maintains its refusal to subscribe to sanctions in connection with military control and the ex-Crown Prince's return to Germany.

Thus if, when the Conference of Ambassadors meets to-morrow at eleven o'clock,

GERMAN ARMAMENTS.

M. POINCARE WANTS TO APPLY SANCTIONS.

PERMANENT OCCUPATION OF THE RHINELAND.

The Conference of Ambassadors will meet in Paris to-day to consider the questions of the control of German armaments and the position of the former Crown Prince. There seems to be little hope of an agreement.

M. Poincaré declared yesterday that France would take sanctions unless she obtained satisfaction on these two points; while the British Government, it is reported, will not agree to the application of sanctions in any form. Unless, therefore, the Conference can find a middle course, the Entente will receive another blow.

The French Premier made the extraordinary statement at Neuilly yesterday that the occupied territories would not be evacuated until all the clauses of the Treaty of Versailles were fulfilled, and "we are firmly protected against fresh possibilities of aggression." This, as Reuter's Agency points out, might mean occupation in perpetuity.

PARIS, Sunday.

A speech made by M. Poincaré at the unveiling of a memorial at Neuilly to-day contains two important statements—firstly, that Germany's defiance of the Treaty as regards military control by the Allies and the ex-Crown Prince calls for sanctions. "We shall take them," he declared, "unless we obtain satisfaction"; secondly, "apart from such sanctions, France is determined not to evacuate the occupied territories until all the clauses signed at Versailles have been completely executed," and "we are firmly protected against fresh possibilities of aggression."

"If France demands observation of the Treaties pure and simple," said the Premier, "it is because scrupulous respect for promises made has always been for her an elementary principle of honesty, and also because all the Peace Treaties really form one sole edifice, all the parts of which are inter-dependent, and which cannot break away in one place without the whole collapsing.

"Now, when the German industrialists have capitulated and deliveries are about to be gradually resumed in a regular manner, another meeting of experts is proposed to examine Germany's capacity. Solely out of regard for her Allies France agreed, but with the proviso that the inquiry should be conducted within the framework of the Peace Treaty. The inquiry had fallen through. We should have been very happy, however, to come to an agreement with our Allies on the subject of reparations, but on the condition that Germany's debt should not be reassessed.

BACK TO TREATY.

"Let us now get back to the Treaty. The Reparations Commission will hear the Germans, and will appoint such experts as it thinks fit, who will decide Germany's capacity for payment both for the present and for the future. It will fix figures that it thinks equitable. By means of the pledges, which we shall only release on final payment, we shall be able to induce Germany to liquidate her debt. We do not despair of convincing our friends that our method is the correct one. We shall proceed on our way without anxiety or weakness."

M. Poincaré declared that Germany had long been pleasing herself in the matter of the Peace Treaty clauses. She had been clandestinely reconstructing military formations. She had now authorised the return of the ex-Crown Prince. Those acts were daring challenges thrown out to the Allies and barefaced breaches of the Treaty.

Note—It will be noticed from the French Premier's speech that to-day, for the first time, he announces that neither the Rhineland nor the Rhur will be evacuated until France is convinced that her security is guaranteed for all time, and until the Treaty has been completely executed. The Treaty provides for the occupation of the Rhineland for a period of fifteen years from the commencement of the execution of the Treaty. The French Government apparently considers that this period has not yet begun to run. Hitherto, as regards the Rhur, M. Poincaré had always declared that occupation would be in proportion to the reparation payments. The period of uncertainty concerning France's security might be equivalent to perpetuity. It will be noted that the sanctions on which France insists, unless Germany gives satisfaction as regards military control and the ex-Crown Prince, are distinct from a prolongation of the occupation. M. Poincaré is apparently adamant in his contention that no agreement with Britain is possible unless the latter subscribes to the sanctions.—(Reuter.)

BRITAIN'S ATTITUDE.

PARIS, Sunday.

It is understood that the British Government, in its instructions to Lord Crewe, maintains its refusal to subscribe to sanctions in connection with military control and the ex-Crown Prince's return to Germany.

Thus if, when the Conference of Ambassadors meets to-morrow at eleven o'clock, France insists on this, as M. Poincaré's speech to-day indicates, there is no chance of France and Britain agreeing.—(Reuter.)

PARIS, Sunday Night.

A French semi-official statement issued here says:—"No confirmation was forthcoming in French circles to-day of the indications contained in the telegrams of Reuter's Correspondent as to the British Government's instructions to Lord Crewe in connection with to-morrow's meeting of the Ambassadors' Conference. For the future of Franco-British relations there is still room for the hope that, after all, the Conference will be able to find a basis of agreement.

"For the past two days every effort has been made by the Quai d'Orsay to reconcile the two points of view, and those endeavours will be continued. It is unnecessary to say that the powers that be in France will explore every avenue to discover means to maintain Allied solidarity, but they are too alive to their responsibilities to sacrifice the security of the country.

"In his speech at Neuilly to-day M. Poincaré clearly defined his views when he said that reparations and security were of equal importance to France, and that penalties would be exacted if France did not get satisfaction from Germany."—(Reuter.)

NO MORE DELIVERIES.

GERMANY'S RESOURCES EXHAUSTED.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

I understand that Dr. Stresemann will officially announce that no more reparations deliveries, either in money or kind, can be made when he addresses the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag within the next few days. The Chancellor will explain that Germany has no intention of tearing up the Treaty of Versailles, but that the Government is no longer able to finance reparations. This decision follows the definite breakdown of the negotiations between the French and German Industrialists.

A large scale German diplomatic offensive seems to be contemplated next week, when it is expected a démarche will be made in the Allied capitals, declaring that Germany is unable to continue payment of Ruhr unemployed subsidies, and that failure to resume work six weeks after the suspension of passive resistance is due to French intransigience.

MUSSOLINI'S PLAN.

BERLIN, Sunday.

A semi-official statement issued here on Signor Mussolini's speech in the Italian Senate on Friday says:—It must be greeted with the utmost satisfaction in Germany, particularly owing to the determined manner in which the Italian Premier spoke against any change of a territorial nature in Germany, and against any interference in internal affairs of Germany.

Signor Mussolini's reparations programme, adds the statement, agrees in its main points with the plans of the German Government, but its fulfilment must remain completely ineffective so long as large and important German sources of production are withdrawn from the disposal of the German Government. In effect Signor Mussolini urges the evacuation of the Ruhr so soon as the demands for guarantees and pledges are fulfilled. The German Government has frequently explained its standpoint in this respect. It is always ready to give pledges and securities, and is especially resolved to place the entire strength of German economic life as a productive pledge at the service of every solution of the reparation problem, which guarantees Germany's independence as a State and her future economic life.—(Reuter.)

HOHENZOLLERNS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

DUSSELDORF, Saturday.

President Coolidge, breaking through his reserve, yesterday permitted the statement that whatever power the Allies may wish to use under the Treaty of Versailles to prevent a restoration of the Hohenzollern Monarchy will have the full sympathy of America. He pointed out at the same time that one of the reasons prompting the United States to enter the war on the side of France and England and the other Allies was to drive the ex-Kaiser from power, to prevent the things he was attempting to do, and to put an end for all time to any such attempts in the future.

The Treaty of Versailles, the statement continues, aimed to prevent a recurrence of the iniquity of 1914, and for that reason the United States backs up that Treaty, despite the general principle therein enunciated, that every country shall have the right to decide what form of Government it will have.

GERMAN PEOPLE'S PARTY.

BERLIN, Sunday.

The Central Committee of the German People's Party held a meeting to-day, and carried a resolution by 206 votes to 11 demanding the maintenance of the constitutional bond between the occupied territories and the German States, and expressing complete confidence in the leadership of Herr Stresemann.

It was added that, if only in view of the foreign situation, there must be no change of the control of State affairs, and that the coalition hitherto supporting the Government, under the leadership of Herr Stresemann, is the only possible Parliamentary basis.—(Reuter.)

EGYPTIAN ELECTIONS.

CAIRO, Sunday.

The nomination of candidates for the elections on January 12 closed yesterday. Thirty-five candidates were elected unopposed, of whom thirty are supporters of Zaghlul Pasha and five Independents. Zaghlul Pasha was elected for the Cairo constituency.—(Reuter.)

CREDIT FOR GERMANY.

CHANCELLOR'S MOVE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

There are prospects that a long credit operation, negotiations for which have been proceeding for some time, may be carried through during the present week-end. The sum mentioned is £12,250,000, to be used in furnishing Germany with foodstuffs and coal and helping the currency.

The negotiations are taking place at Amsterdam, British and American bankers being interested in the matter. On the German side the guarantees to be offered are of a nature not quite clear, being provided by three of Germany's biggest industrial aristocrats—Prince Hohenlohe (who has vast mining interests in Upper and Lower Silesia), the Duke of Ujest (a Westphalian magnate), and Prince Hatzfeldt (who has coal mines in Upper Silesia and vast forests in Lower Silesia).

The English text of the proposed agreement for a big credit scheme reached Berlin last night, and is being submitted to the Cabinet to-morrow.

It is significant that the Anglo-American consortium conceding the credit do so only to the present Government, the implication being that, if Dr. Stresemann falls and a Junker Government succeeds, the plan automatically lapses.

The credit scheme represents the trump card the Chancellor proposes to play at Tuesday's Reichstag sitting, when the Nationalists and Socialists are contemplating joining to overthrow him.

NO LOCK-OUT.

RUHR WORKERS MUST BE RETAINED.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.

Shortly before midnight General Degoutte, French Commander-in-Chief on the Ruhr, signed an order imposing five years' imprisonment and a fine of £200.000 upon any industrialist who attempts to discharge any, or all, of his workmen. Herr Stinnes, who had given notice that all the workmen in the Ruhr would be plunged into total inactivity on November 30, is directly attacked by General Degoutte's proclamation.

The preamble to the French proclamation says that, in view of the fact that some industrialists have menaced the population of the occupied territory with untold suffering by a cessation of work on November 30, the occupationary authorities must take upon themselves the task of guaranteeing order and maintaining a livelihood in the Ruhr for the workingmen.

It is expressly stated in the proclamation that any industrialist belonging to any association of industrialists is forbidden to discharge workingmen by decisions of the association. This prevents Herr Stinnes and his associates from carrying out their plans without the severest penalties.

BAVARIAN REVOLT.

LUDENDORFF'S PAMPHLETS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

MUNICH, Sunday.

Herr Hitler's followers are attempting to force the Government to bring the case against the putsch leaders to trial immediately in order to enable Herr Hitler to make his propaganda speech in Court while he is still the centre of interest. His friends continue to issue statements attacking his former partisans and are carrying on a violent newspaper war.

Ludendorff continues to defend himself in countless pamphlets. One of his most fierce accusations is against the Reichswehr, which, he asserts, did not even command a halt before shooting. This gives his enemies a welcome opportunity to point out with joyful sarcasm that even a field-marshal ought to recognise a machine gun when he sees it blocking the streets, and ought to recognise its meaning.

Herr Hitler is being interned at Lansberg. It is expected that he will have permission to go into the town freely. It is not believed that he will be tried publicly for fear that he will reveal too much of von Kahr's part in the putsch, and possibly compromise the dictator.

Erhardt is now openly uniting all the Nationalists and military organisations in Bavaria with the ultimate intention of overthrowing the Berlin Government.

FRANCE'S DEBT.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.

The statement of M. Poincaré in the French Chamber, that the payment of the debt to the United States is conditional on the recovery of reparations from Germany, has aroused deep resentment in high official circles here. When France was begging the United States for money during the war one high official declares there was nothing said about Germany paying the bill. The French Premier, officials here assert, is fully aware of the attitude of the American Government on the question of debts.

The administration's spokesman reiterated that the question of the debt of France and other Allies to the United States has nothing to do with the payment of reparations by Germany. No such contingency was stipulated when the debt was contracted, it is pointed out, the debt being merely a plain transaction in which the United States Government lent money, and the French Government pledged itself to pay.

INCIDENT IN LEIPZIG.

BERLIN, Sunday.

According to information from French sources, a grave incident, likely to have serious consequences, is reported from Leipzig. Two French and Belgian officers, members of the Dresden Section of the Inter-Allied Control Commission, were motoring from Dresden to Leipzig, when they were held up by Reichswehr, and declared to be under arrest, although they showed their papers. They were only released several hours later, when instructions from a superior officer had been received.

The two officers arrived at Leipzig and put up at a hotel. At two o'clock in the morning their bedrooms were entered by four Reichswehr, who again declared them to be under arrest, and expelled them by force from the room. They were taken to a guardroom, where they were kept till nine o'clock in the morning. It is alleged they were molested in a shameful manner before orders were received from Dresden for their release.

FLIGHT FROM BERLIN.

WOMEN LEAVE.

OFFICERS' WIVES AND TYPISTS.

BERLIN, Sunday.

The situation is so serious here that something like a flight of anxious foreigners from the capital is in progress.

Acting presumably on London instructions, the British authorities here have advised all the women members of the British Mission staffs to leave Berlin as soon as possible. About thirty Englishwomen and girls—secretaries, typists, and clerks—are affected.

The menacing international situation is doubtless one of the reasons for this advice, and it has also been pointed out to those affected that the food shortage is likely to become still more acute, and that disorders in a bigger scale than hitherto are possible.

EATING DOG MEAT.

HIGH FOOD PRICES IN BERLIN.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

Dog meat is being quoted in some of the Berlin meat markets. For weeks dog thieves have been systematically picking up every stray pet in the Berlin streets and selling them to the butchers for sausages. To-day the butchers are openly offering dog meat for stews.

So many dog thieves have been lurking about lately that owners have not dared to leave their dogs out of sight for one minute. In one quarter of Berlin the police have found the skins of a dozen poodles and terriers in the apartment of one starving old woman, who is said to have eaten every dog in her neighbourhood. She has been arrested for theft.

The use of dog meat has resulted in increasing the cost of other meats. One pound of beef to-day costs about ten shillings at the official rate of exchange. But for the skilled German workman it means more than a week's pay.

Meat is entirely beyond the means of unskilled workers and women workers, and those drawing out-of-work pay. The price of dog meat is quoted at about one-third to one-fourth the price of other meat. As there are but very few street dogs in Berlin now, it is the toy dog which the dog thieves are giving their attention.

Butter is also entirely beyond the means of most people, except a few tourists and very rich Germans, but the skilled workman can occasionally buy margarine, partly made out of oils.

Bread prices are almost impossible. What bread there is is supposed to be made out of rye, but it contains potatoes and apparently some sawdust, as was the case during the war.

The average housewife is lucky if she can buy enough food to make one thick soup. The less lucky ones serve butterless sausage sandwiches.

THE RICHEST MAN.

MR. J. P. MORGAN'S CLAIM.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Sunday.

The distinction of being the richest man in the world is a transient honour in these days. After the title had been held for years by Mr. J. D. Rockefeller, it was recently announced that Mr. Henry Ford had outdone the Standard Oil fortunes.

It is stated that the "motor car king" has already lost the honour to Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, the Wall street Emperor, when it was announced that Mr. Morgan paid taxes on the largest income in the country.

GREEK REPUBLICANISM.

POSITION OF THE KING.

ATHENS, Sunday.

Particular interest attaches to to-day's general meeting of the Liberal Party, when a decision will be reached whether the Liberals will form a United front with the Democrats at the coming elections under the democratic flag.

The Republican idea has gained much ground since the publicity given to M. Venizelos's declaration that he is not opposed in principle to a Republican régime.

Asked by Press representatives whether the King would be asked to vacate the Throne before the elections, in the event of the Liberals and the Democrats reaching an understanding, Colonel Gonatas replied:—"If the King voluntarily decides to retire from the Throne, this is a question personally concerning himself. Withdrawal being forced upon him is another matter. The King has already declared that if the Revolutionary Government indicates the necessity for his withdrawal, he will vacate the Throne, but the Revolutionary Government is not disposed to take such a step, for it would not be in conformity with the advice of M. Venizelos, with which we entirely agree."—(Press Association's Special.)

INDIAN COAL CONTRACTS

CALCUTTA, Sunday.

Mr. Robert William Church, formerly mining engineer to the Railway Board, who was extradited from England last May on a charge of alleged irregularities in respect of the supply of coal to the Indian railways, has died in a nursing home here.

Mr. Church had been allowed bail, and judgment would have been delivered to-morrow. It will be remembered that the prosecution was based on certain letters said to have been written by Church, wherein in it was alleged that contractors had offered from £50,000 to £100,00 if coal rates were increased by two rupees per ton.

GOVERNORSHIP OF TASMANIA.

HOBART, Sunday.

In reply to the agitation in favour of the appointment of a Governor from England, Mr. Lyons, Prime Minister, said to-day that the expense of importing a Governor was not justified. If a Governor was necessary, a Tasmanian or an Australian was good enough for the position. In any case, it was a matter for Parliament to decide.—(Reuter.)

U.S. AND TRADERS' SECRETS.

WINTRY WEATHER.

GALES, SNOW, AND FLOODS.

Weather reports from virtually all over the country on Saturday and yesterday told of snow, hail, and floods. All the mountains are snow-covered. In County Tipperary the fall is reported to have been the heaviest for some years.

Heavy snow on the hills and rain in the valleys are the conditions prevailing in North-East Ulster, where the Upper Erne, Finn, Annalee, and all the smaller streams in Monaghan, Fermanagh, and Cavan have overflown. Much hay and potatoes have been ruined. Farmers fear that frost may set in.

The barometer in Dublin remained steady at 29.80 during the twenty-four hours ended at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Dublin Mountains are snow-covered to within a hundred feet of sea level. A cold north-westerly wind, with frequent hail and sleet showers, made conditions in the city very unpleasant. The temperature late yesterday afternoon was only four degrees above freezing point.

BLIZZARD IN BRITAIN.

Winter storms are reported from all over Great Britain. In Lancashire, Cheshire, and Derbyshire there were heavy rain and thunder storms, and in the Peak district hailstones of remarkable size fell, followed by a blizzard. Heavy snow is reported from Scotland.

Off the Lancashire coast the storm was very violent throughout Saturday night, and vessels were in trouble.

LIFEBOAT'S DOUBLE RESCUE.

STEAMER WASHED OUT TO SEA WITHOUT A CREW.

There was much excitement in Liverpool yesterday over the remarkable adventures of a steamer—the Ibis—which grounded during the week-end.

The crew of the Ibis were taken off by the New Brighton lifeboat, but when the work of rescue was complete the Ibis righted herself without assistance, and was carried out to sea with not a soul on board.

While the lifeboat was engaged in rescuing the crew another vessel—the Spurn, a tugboat—which had arrived to render assistance, herself struck something, and began to fill and sink. The lifeboat had the double task of rescuing the crew of the Spurn also.

It was while the lifeboat men were engaged in rescuing the tugboat's crew that the Ibis suddenly righted herself and was washed out to sea. The ship had not been recovered late last night.

UNMANAGEABLE STEAMER.

The London steamer Durham, 6,975 tons, signalled by wireless on Saturday that her steering gear had been carried away in a gale seventeen miles south-west of Tuskar Rock, South-East Ireland, and that she was in need of assistance. The British steamer Devenby Hall reported that she was going to the Durham's assistance.

Later the Durham sent a wireless message to say that she was steaming slowly up the Bristol Channel before a heavy sea, and was unmanageable. Last night the vessel hove to off St. Govan's Lighthouse, and called for tugs.

OUTBREAK IN FAMOUS HERD.

SIX MARKETS CLOSED.

An outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease was confirmed yesterday in the noted pedigree shorthorn herd belonging to Mr. A. M. McIntyre. Towisbarclay, Aberdeenshire. A stand-still order has been made prohibiting the movement of stock within a radius of 15 miles of the infected area. This means the closing of six markets.

The herd numbers about 100, but it is expected that the policy of slaughter will not be carried out.

BERLIN BUYER'S LESSON IN PAPER VALUES.

PARIS, Sunday.

What amounted to the exchange of a very large quantity of paper for a very small scrap of the same substance took place at the last day's sale of the eighth section of the Ferrari stamp collection, when a Berlin collector gave for a rare Baden error the sum of 120,000 francs, roughly the equivalent, at present exchange rates, of 8,400,000,000,000,000 (8,400 billion) marks. Added to this amount was a tax of 17½ per cent.

The sale of the eighth lot brought in 1,867,042 francs, the total to date from the sale of the collection being 15,747,643 francs.—(Reuter.)

ROYAL MATCHMAKER.

QUEEN OF RUMANIA AND BALKAN THRONES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELGRADE, November 17.

Queen Marie of Rumania is seeking new laurels for her reputation as "the greatest statesman of the Balkans." She is now reported to be manipulating a marriage between the youthful King Boris of Bulgaria and her youngest daughter. If the wedding takes place, Queen Marie will control the four Balkan Thrones. Her daughter Elizabeth married the present King of Greece and her daughter Maricara is the wife of King Alexander of Yugo Slavia.

European statesmen are said to be greatly worried by Queen Marie's system, which has united the Balkans by wedding bells instead of by bayonets or secret diplomacy. If her Bulgarian wedding plan proves successful, Queen Marie will virtually rule the Thrones of Bucharest, Athens, Belgrade, and Sofia.

BANDITS FOILED.

LARGE SUM OF MONEY SAVED.

According to advices from Detroit, Michigan, quick thinking by the driver of a Ford Motor Company pay car saved a bag containing 25,000 dollars, when four armed bandits attempted to hold him up. As the bandits intercepted the pay car, the driver leaped from the machine, and placed the bag on a passing locomotive of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, Ford's own railroad.

The pay car was en route from the River Rouge plant to a construction camp at Flad Rock, when the bandits intercepted it. They disappeared after the bag was tossed on to the locomotive.

DANGEROUS AND UNLAWFUL.

APPEAL TO THE GOVERNMENT.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

ARMAGH, Sunday.

The following letter of His Eminence Cardinal Logue was read at all the Masses throughout the Archdiocese of Armagh to-day:—

Very Rev. and Rev. Fathers and Dearly Beloved Brethren,—The time is fast approaching which we should devote to immediate preparation for a due celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace. May the good God, in His mercy, grant that we may be spared from such misery as marred the joys and blighted the happiness of some recent Christmases.

As a harbinger of His birth, our Divine Redeemer established a universal peace throughout the entire world. By the ministry of His angels He proclaimed this peace to men of good-will. Peace, therefore, good-will, union, and charity should be the leading features of the Feast of Christmas. What a sad contrast poor Ireland has had in recent years! The festival, which should rejoice all hearts, has been ushered in by strife, hatred, dissension, ill-will, outrage, the violation of God's law and all uncharitableness. Unhappily, we are threatened with a similar state of things during the forthcoming Christmas.

This is why I earnestly appeal to the great body of our people to avail of all the means at their disposal, each according to his position and opportunities, to avert so great a calamity. Thank God, the great body of our people, despite the terrible crisis through which they have passed, are still, as they ever have been, sound, staunch, practical Catholics. Many, however, have been turned aside from the ways of peace, charity and the strict observance of the Divine law by political strife. I need not dwell upon this, as it is so well known to all. We are now in the midst of the last burst which threatens the peace, progress and welfare, spiritual and temporal, of our unhappy country. As a measure of precaution, and to guard against a fresh outburst of the bloodshed, destruction and misery which have laid waste large districts of the country, a large number of men and some women have been interned in prisons and concentration camps. They say they have been badly treated; and, without attributing blame to anyone, I can easily believe this from the nature of the case. Even the best disposed and most sympathetic Government would find it hard to provide adequately for the comfort of such large numbers in the heats of summer and the colds of winter. Then, if we can believe the public Press, the interned added largely to their misery by their rebellion against prison arrangements, unruly conduct, destroying furniture and similar irregularities. Still, from whatever cause and by whosoever's fault, they have suffered severely. I sympathise sincerely with them; and were it at my disposal I should have the prisons emptied and the concentration camps deserted before Christmas.

THE HUNGER-STRIKE.

Latterly, to force release, large numbers lately entered on a hunger-strike, and a considerable number still persist in it. This is my chief anxiety, owing to danger to the health or life, even to the salvation of those concerned. It appears to me foolish, ineffective and of very doubtful morality. We have no dominion over our own lives. They belong to God, the author of life and supreme Lord of life and death. It is unlawful for us to deliberately sacrifice our lives, or even to expose them to immediate danger, except for causes universally and unanimously acknowledged as sufficient to justify the sacrifice. It is very doubtful whether the desire of liberation from even a severe and harrassing imprisonment is a sufficient cause. Casuists may dispute the question, relying on arguments which appear to me, at least, to be unsound; but he would be a very foolish man who would leave his eternal destiny to depend on a mere doubt or chance. I know hunger strikers do not intend their own death; but they are risking it when matters are carried to extremes; and even apart from extremes, some hidden or unsuspected weakness of the constitution may render a hunger strike fatal. Hence I would earnestly appeal to those engaged in hunger strike to abandon this dangerous and unlawful expedient, and to seek in future some more reasonable, natural and lawful means of enforcing their liberation from what they consider an unfair and harsh imprisonment, or in advocating their political views.

APPEAL TO THE GOVERNMENT.

In the second place, I would earnestly appeal to the Government, who declare their readiness to liberate those untried and unconvicted prisoners, not to do things by halves and by driblets, thus prolonging the agony. The leaders of the so-called Republican party have declared that they are prepared to abstain from violence and seek to secure their political aims by constitutional means. The Government naturally seek from the interned an undertaking that they will abide by this declaration. Many refuse to give it merely from pride or sentimentality. It falls far short of the undertaking exacted from internees by the Northern Government. Those released by them must undertake to exile themselves from their homes; or, in the alternative, to report to the police three times a week, and not to go beyond two miles from their residence. This is real punishment for men who have been convicted of no crime, and very drastic punishment at that. I think, therefore, that the best policy of the Free State Government would be to clear the prisons and camps as quickly as it could be effected of all internees, except those convicted of crime, or liable to be tried for crime, without paying much heed to useless undertakings. This would likely bring us peace at Christmas. It would also likely enable the country to get into the condition of a settled Government. There are laws enacted to meet transgressions; the judges have shown themselves prepared to enforce the laws; there is sufficient machinery to detect malefactors and make them amenable. If anyone be caught in the violation of the laws, he should be tried as soon as may be, and not be kept in a state of suspended freedom. Pending trial, he should be treated in prison according to the rules observed in every civilised State.

Finally, Reverend Fathers and dear brethren, the suggestions I have made are mere human suggestions, some of them may be found foolish suggestions. But there is a wisdom which infinitely transcends all human wisdom, a guidance which can never err, the wisdom and guidance of Almighty God. Men are liable to err, "liars in their balances," and uncertain in their designs. We should, therefore, especially during the forthcoming Christmas time, appeal to God, by earnest prayer, with purity of intention, singleness of purpose and that confidence and devotion which make us pleasing to Him, for that light, direction and assistance which we so much need. We should implore of the Prince of Peace, through the intercession of His Most Holy Mother, that He may bless our poor country, granting her that peace, tranquillity, union and charity, which may make her, in the future what she has been in the past, "an Island of Saints."

THE CAPITAL LEVY.

The Daily Express says:—The one danger the British world must fear to-day is the reformers, with their wild schemes for amending, at great expense, a community which required nothing but repose and lower taxation. Great Britain will restore its industrial and commercial tissues in the long run by its native vigour and by personal initiative of its citizens, as long as these energies are not crushed out of existence by the fanatics of the capital levy. Of course, the capital levy will never be applied, because its application is a financial impossibility, but the mere talk about it affects prosperity and perpetuates unemployment.

A COMPREHENSIVE POLICY.

The Daily Telegraph, dealing with the Prime Minister's election address, says:—The Conservative Party, with the exception of a handful of candidates, who will stand as Free Traders, is solidly behind the policy outlined in the manifesto. It is not a narrow policy. It is not a one, two, or even three-plank policy. It is a comprehensive and inter-dependent whole, which, if accepted by the electorate, will set this country's feet upon a new path. Our fiscal system must be changed.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

A DAY OF DECISION.

THE AMBASSADORS' CONFERENCE.

Commenting editorially upon to-day's decisive meeting of the Conference of Ambassadors in Paris, at which the important point at issue is the re-establishment of inter-Allied military control in Germany, The Times remarks:—We are quite willing to prevent the revival of German militarism, but we are entitled to ask that the demand should be consistent and effective. M. Poincaré, who recently had representations made in Berlin on behalf of democratic government, had himself an opportunity of strengthening German democracy in September. Dr. Stresemann, whose Government at that time was based on a broad coalition, had abandoned passive resistance. If M. Poincaré had treated with Dr. Stresemann then, German democracy would have been strengthened, but he hardened his heart, and the result was that reaction gained ground in Germany.

To-day's Conference is to consider the question of sending a stern joint Allied demand to Dr. Stresemann, who is himself apparently in extremis. The British difficulty is that we are asked to join in making demands that in the present conditions—not of our own making—seem impracticable, and that it is proposed to enforce them by sanctions which will increase the confusion and the danger, and to which we cannot possibly consent.

CLEARING THE AIR.

THE ISSUE BEFORE THE ELECTORS.

The Times observes in a leading article:—The position of the Government has been materially improved by the events of the week-end, and especially by the publication of the Prime Minister's election address—a concise, well-proportioned and admirably straightforward document. After referring to Mr. Baldwin's speech in the House of Commons on Thursday, and to his election address, The Times proceeds:—The issue thus submitted to the country will be decided three weeks hence. It is to be hoped that on the choice of parties submitted to them the constituencies will respond to the bold appeal which is made by Mr. Baldwin. If they do, they will probably be influenced chiefly by three considerations. The first is that his policy is the only constructive one before the country, and that the only other policy set before the country in any detail is such that the mere assumption of office by its promoters would at once, before they had taken action of any kind, cause such a set-back in trade and business as it would take years to recover. The second is that the issue is not the old issue of Free Trade and Protection. The present situation is new. Since the struggle of twenty years ago new and far higher tariffs have been erected against our exports in many parts of the world. The collapse of the foreign exchanges, with the resulting low standard of living among our competitors, renders some kind of protection much more necessary than it was before the war.

All these new facts will make many who are not theoretical Protectionists content to follow Mr. Baldwin's lead with hope. But, perhaps, the third consideration will have most weight with the electors. Democracies care more for men than for policies. The voters are sure to be impressed by the transparent honesty and courage of a man who risks a position of assured power in order to be freed from a pledge which he did not himself make, and to be enabled to carry out a policy which, as he believes with obvious sincerity, alone affords a prospect of curing the terrible evil of unemployment. There is only one qualification to be made on this subject. Mr. Baldwin must be careful not to convey the impression which certainly has weakened one of the most trusted of his opponents, that he is personally indifferent to the result, and would willingly retire into private life.

MR. BALDWIN'S CAMPAIGN.

TO-DAY'S MEETING IN LONDON.

The Times Parliamentary Correspondent writes:—The messages of the Unionist and the Labour Parties to the nation have now been issued, but the publication of the Liberal message has been deferred until to-day. The Unionist manifesto takes the form of Mr. Baldwin's election address to the electors of the Bewdley Division, while the Labour manifesto is signed by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, the leader of the Opposition, and his principal lieutenants.

The Prime Minister spent the week-end at Chequers in preparation for a strenuous period of electioneering. For the meeting which he is to address this afternoon the Queen's Hall could have been filled three or four times over if all the applications for tickets could have been granted. After the Prime Minister has spoken, a resolution will be moved by the Attorney-General and seconded by Dame Helen Gwynne-Vaughan. There was general approval yesterday at the news that Lord Birkenhead has now definitely intimated his readiness to help the Government in its campaign in every way possible.

AMERICA AND GERMANY.

THE HOHENZOLLERN FAMILY.

The Times Correspondent at Washington states in a message yesterday:—No word on the subject of the grave crisis in Allied and European affairs has come from the Administration for two days. There is a feeling here that, at the moment when the chief European Powers are concerned more with their divergencies than their points of agrement, it would be impolitic and dangerous for any representative of the United States to hazard a statement.

President Coolidge has allowed it to be known that, while this country might find itself unable to join in any protest against a change of residence of members of the Hohenzollern family, it would nevertheless view unfavourably a movement looking to the restoration of that house to power. The intimation is a reminder to those who bring against the United States the facile charge of pro-Germanism that such feeling has no part in the American desire for European settlement.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S SPEECH.

The Morning Post, commenting on Mr. Lloyd George's speech, says:—When you are trying to convince an audience that you are a moderate man it seems rather a mistake to raise your voice to a scream of vituperation and hurl tin cans and dead crabs at your opponents. Mr. Lloyd George has chosen his abuse badly when he calls the present Government mutineers. For example, who can fail to remember that celebrated mutiny when Mr. Lloyd George made his own skipper walk the plank?

THE STATE OF GERMANY.

The Westminster Gazette says:—It is but a short time since it seemed that the state of Germany was so bad that it could not be worse. Those of us who took this view have daily been proved wrong, for the situation is deteriorating almost hourly. The exchange has become so bad that it is useless to discuss it. The Central Government is bankrupt of authority. M. Poincaré has again run the "Jolly Roger" to the masthead. He has reached the end of his concessions, he states. The beginning has apparently been overlooked by everyone. When he proceeds to declare that the Versailles Treaty is to be enforced willy-nilly, we should be left with a sense of pleasant anticipation if we had not learned by this time to understand him. The enforcement of the Versailles Treaty, and nothing but the Treaty, would mean the evacuation of the Ruhr. That, however, is far from M. Poincaré's intentions. He is credited with the design of imposing further sanctions. If France is to invade Germany still further we must reconcile ourselves to the risk of starvation among a vast number of helpless, hopeless people.

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S ILLNESS.

The Times says:—Lord Birkenhead was confined to his bed with a slight chill yesterday. He proposes, if able, to attend the luncheon at the Constitutional Club to-morrow to deal with fiscal policy.

BRITISH ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

PREMIER'S ADDRESS.

RENEWED PLEDGE ON FOOD PRICES.

MANY SPEECHES.

MR. CHURCHILL'S BID FOR LABOUR SEAT.

The British general election campaign was begun in earnest on Saturday, when the Prime Minister's election address and the official manifesto of the Labour Party were issued, and speeches were delivered by Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Winston Churchill, Mr. Amery, Sir J. Simon, and others. There are many constituencies where the candidates have not yet been chosen.

Nomination day is November 26th, and polling will take place on December 6th.

The surprise of the week-end was the statement late last night that Mr. Winston Churchill is to stand for Leicester West, at present represented by a Labour member, who defeated a National Liberal and an Independent Liberal in the three-cornered contest at the last election.

LORD BIRKENHEAD.

Lord Birkenhead yesterday stated that he had placed himself in the hands of Colonel F. S. Jackson, of the Central Conservative Office, so far as his engagements are concerned.

In detailing the Government's fiscal policy, Mr. Baldwin, in his manifesto, reviews his pledge on the food taxes. He says:—

> "It is not our intention in any circumstances to impose any duties on wheat, flour, oats, meat (including bacon and ham), cheese, butter or eggs."

Mr. Lloyd George, in his speech, referred to "the tactics of the tin-canners," and described the election as having been conceived "in the temper of conspirators." "What we want," he said, "is protection, not against French mills, but against French militarists."

Declaring that the Liberal Party was alone equipped to deal with the situation, Mr. Lloyd George said the Conservative Party was out to smash the fiscal system and the Labour Party the social system.

HOW THEY STAND.

There will be few, if any, cases of Liberal fighting Liberal in this election; but it is not impossible that a number of Conservative Free Traders will take the field against Conservatives who are pledged to Tariff Reform. The following was the state of parties at the dissolution:—

CONSERVATIVES	346
LABOUR	144
INDEPENDENT LIBERALS	67
NATIONAL LIBERALS	50
OTHER PARTIES	8

According to the latest available figures, the electorate in England and Wales consists of

MALES	10,449,820
	18,281,403

A return for Scotland and Ireland of not quite so late a date gives a further 2,837,589 voters, of whom a million and a quarter may be regarded as women. The total electorate is, therefore, roughly 21,118,000. There are more than nine million women voters.

The votes cast a year ago were, roughly:

LIBERAL	4,208,551
OTHERS	334,794

The Prime Minister left Downing street on Saturday for Chequers, where he spent the week-end. He returns to-day to open the Conservative campaign at the Queen's Hall, London. He has also arranged to speak at the following centres:—

Reading	Nov. 21	Glasgow	Nov. 23
Bewdley	Nov. 24	Bradford	Nov. 29
Bristol	Nov. 26	Liverpool	Dec. 3

The leaders of the other parties have an equally strenuous programme of engagements to fulfil.

LORD YOUNGER.

Lord Birkenhead will be the guest at a luncheon at the Constitutional Club in London to-morrow given by Lord Wargrave (the former Sir Edward Goulding, who was known as a keen Tariff Reformer when he sat in the House of Commons). The surprise of this luncheon party will be the presence of Lord Balfour. Mr. Austen Chamberlain and Sir Robert Horne will also be present, and it is believed that the outcome will be that ex-Ministers will throw themselves unreservedly into the campaign.

WHAT THE LEADERS ARE SAYING.

POINTS FROM SPEECHES.

Mr. Winston Churchill:

Liberalism offers a sure, sober, safe, middle course of lucid intelligence and high principles between the extremes of Diehard Protection and Socialist Capital Levy.

There is no reason why Mr. Asquith should not select a Government comprising the experience and European prestige of Lord Grey, and the immense and unequalled public following, the social driving force, and the historic war record of Mr. Lloyd George.

M. POINCARE WANTS TO APPLY SANCTIONS.

PERMANENT OCCUPATION OF THE RHINELAND.

The Conference of Ambassadors will meet in Paris to-day to consider the questions of the control of German armaments and the position of the former Crown Prince. There seems to be little hope of an agreement.

M. Poincaré declared yesterday that France would take sanctions unless she obtained satisfaction on these two points; while the British Government, it is reported, will not agree to the application of sanctions in any form. Unless, therefore, the Conference can find a middle course, the Entente will receive another blow.

The French Premier made the extraordinary statement at Neuilly yesterday that the occupied territories would not be evacuated until all the clauses of the Treaty of Versailles were fulfilled, and "we are firmly protected against fresh possibilities of aggression." This, as Reuter's Agency points out, might mean occupation in perpetuity.

GRAVE SITUATION.

WILL FRANCE MODIFY HER CLAIMS?

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Sunday.

It is hoped to-night that the meeting of the Ambassadors' Conference, which was postponed yesterday at the request of the British Government, will take place to-morrow morning. Throughout the week-end conversations have continued between Paris and London, but without bringing the two points of view near enough to offer a prospect of agreement. They seem, on the other hand, to have revealed the alternative in such sombre colours as to quicken the desire to avoid a breakdown by every possible means.

To-night, indeed, modifications are foreseen in the French point of view, from which it is hoped a formula for an accord may emerge. First, France, it is said, will not demand the banishment of the ex-Crown Prince, esteeming his presence to be of small importance in comparison with the German violation of the Treaty under the head of armaments. In regard to these she will not insist on the integral resumption of surveillance by the Allied Control Missions, but will accept the view that the present decline of its authority makes it impossible for the German Government to guarantee the general safety of the Mission, and that the practical possibilities admit of no more than the partial and progressive resumption of their work.

The proposal, therefore, is apparently that the Nollet Mission shall be charged to decide where and where not the German Government should be called upon to undertake responsibility for the Allied officers.

In regard to sanctions, it is stated that M. Poincaré is now willing that they should not figure in a joint ultimatum to Berlin provided that the right of control created by the Treaty should be fully acknowledged. It is added that, on the part of the Allies, it should be understood that if Germany refuses to recognise control or to give effect to it, sanctions should follow.

As to the Ruhr, M. Poincaré, in a speech at Neuilly this afternoon, showed that we are a long way from the evacuation which was to follow the end of passive resistance.

RUHR AND RHINELAND.

OCCUPATION IN PERPETUITY.

PARIS, Sunday.

A speech made by M. Poincaré at the unveiling of a memorial at Neuilly to-day contains two important statements—firstly, that Germany's defiance of the Treaty as regards military control by the Allies and the ex-Crown Prince calls for sanctions. "We shall take them," he declared, "unless we obtain satisfaction"; secondly, "apart from such sanctions, France is determined not to evacuate the occupied territories until all the clauses signed at Versailles have been completely executed," and "we are firmly protected against fresh possibilities of aggression."

"If France demands observation of the Treaties pure and simple," said the Premier, "it is because scrupulous respect for promises made has always been for her an elementary principle of honesty, and also because all the Peace Treaties really form one sole edifice, all the parts of which are inter-dependent, and which cannot break away in one place without the whole collapsing.

"Now, when the German industrialists have capitulated and deliveries are about to be gradually resumed in a regular manner, another meeting of experts is proposed to examine Germany's capacity. Solely out of regard for her Allies France agreed, but with the proviso that the inquiry should be conducted within the framework of the Peace Treaty. The inquiry had fallen through. We should have been very happy, however, to come to an agreement with our Allies on the subject of reparations, but on the condition that Germany's debt should not be reassessed.

BACK TO TREATY.

"Let us now get back to the Treaty. The Reparations Commission will hear the Germans, and will appoint such experts as it thinks fit, who will decide Germany's capacity for payment both for the present and for the future. It will fix figures that it thinks equitable. By means of the pledges, which we shall only release on final payment, we shall be able to induce Germany to liquidate her debt. We do not despair of convincing our friends that our method is the correct one. We shall proceed on our way without anxiety or weakness."

M. Poincaré declared that Germany had long been pleasing herself in the matter of the Peace Treaty clauses. She had been clandestinely reconstructing military formations. She had now authorised the return of the ex-Crown Prince. Those acts were daring challenges thrown out to the Allies and barefaced breaches of the Treaty.

Note—It will be noticed from the French Premier's speech that to-day, for the first time, he announces that neither the Rhineland nor the Rhur will be evacuated until France is convinced that her security is guaranteed for all time, and until the Treaty has been completely executed. The Treaty provides for the occupation of the Rhineland for a period of fifteen years from the commencement of the execution of the Treaty. The French Government apparently considers that this period has not yet begun to run. Hitherto, as regards the Rhur, M. Poincaré had always declared that occupation would be in proportion to the reparation payments. The period of uncertainty concerning France's security might be equivalent to perpetuity. It will be noted that the sanctions on which France insists, unless Germany gives satisfaction as regards military control and the ex-Crown Prince, are distinct from a prolongation of the occupation. M. Poincaré is apparently adamant in his contention that no agreement with Britain is possible unless the latter subscribes to the sanctions.—(Reuter.)

BRITAIN'S ATTITUDE.

PARIS, Sunday.

It is understood that the British Government, in its instructions to Lord Crewe, maintains its refusal to subscribe to sanctions in connection with military control and the ex-Crown Prince's return to Germany.

Thus if, when the Conference of Ambassadors meets to-morrow at eleven o'clock, France insists on this, as M. Poincaré's speech to-day indicates, there is no chance of France and Britain agreeing.—(Reuter.)

PARIS, Sunday Night.

A French semi-official statement issued here says:—"No confirmation was forthcoming in French circles to-day of the indications contained in the telegrams of Reuter's Correspondent as to the British Government's instructions to Lord Crewe in connection with to-morrow's meeting of the Ambassadors' Conference. For the future of Franco-British relations there is still room for the hope that, after all, the Conference will be able to find a basis of agreement.

"For the past two days every effort has been made by the Quai d'Orsay to reconcile the two points of view, and those endeavours will be continued. It is unnecessary to say that the powers that be in France will explore every avenue to discover means to maintain Allied solidarity, but they are too alive to their responsibilities to sacrifice the security of the country.

"In his speech at Neuilly to-day M. Poincaré clearly defined his views when he said that reparations and security were of equal importance to France, and that penalties would be exacted if France did not get satisfaction from Germany."—(Reuter.)

NO MORE DELIVERIES.

GERMANY'S RESOURCES EXHAUSTED.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Sunday.

I understand that Dr. Stresemann will officially announce that no more reparations deliveries, either in money or kind, can be made when he addresses the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag within the next few days. The Chancellor will explain that Germany has no intention of tearing up the Treaty of Versailles, but that the Government is no longer able to finance reparations. This decision follows the definite breakdown of the negotiations between the French and German Industrialists.

A large scale German diplomatic offensive seems to be contemplated next week, when it is expected a démarche will be made in the Allied capitals, declaring that Germany is unable to continue payment of Ruhr unemployed subsidies, and that failure to resume work six weeks after the suspension of passive resistance is due to French intransigience.

MUSSOLINI'S PLAN.

BERLIN, Sunday.

A semi-official statement issued here on Signor Mussolini's speech in the Italian Senate on Friday says:—It must be greeted with the utmost satisfaction in Germany, particularly owing to the determined manner in which the Italian Premier spoke against any change of a territorial nature in Germany, and against any interference in internal affairs of Germany.

Signor Mussolini's reparations programme, adds the statement, agrees in its main points with the plans of the German Government, but its fulfilment must remain completely ineffective so long as large and important German sources of production are withdrawn from the disposal of the German Government. In effect Signor Mussolini urges the evacuation of the Ruhr so soon as the demands for guarantees and pledges are fulfilled. The German Government has frequently explained its standpoint in this respect. It is always ready to give pledges and securities, and is especially resolved to place the entire strength of German economic life as a productive pledge at the service of every solution of the reparation problem, which guarantees Germany's independence as a State and her future economic life.—(Reuter.)

HOHENZOLLERNS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
DUSSELDORF, Saturday.

President Coolidge, breaking through his reserve, yesterday permitted the statement that whatever power the Allies may wish to use under the Treaty of Versailles to prevent a restoration of the Hohenzollern Monarchy will have the full sympathy of America. He pointed out at the same time that one of the reasons prompting the United States to enter the war on the side of France and England and the other Allies was to drive the ex-Kaiser from power, to prevent the things he was attempting to do, and to put an end for all time to any such attempts in the future.

The Treaty of Versailles, the statement continues, aimed to prevent a recurrence of the iniquity of 1914, and for that reason the United States backs up that Treaty, despite the general principle therein enunciated, that every country shall have the right to decide what form of Government it will have.

GERMAN PEOPLE'S PARTY.

BERLIN, Sunday.

The Central Committee of the German People's Party held a meeting to-day, and carried a resolution by 206 votes to 11 demanding the maintenance of the constitutional bond between the occupied territories and the German States, and expressing complete confidence in the leadership of Herr Stresemann.

It was added that, if only in view of the foreign situation, there must be no change of the control of State affairs, and that the coalition hitherto supporting the Government, under the leadership of Herr Stresemann, is the only possible Parliamentary basis.—(Reuter.)

EGYPTIAN ELECTIONS.

CAIRO, Sunday.

The nomination of candidates for the elections on January 12 closed yesterday. Thirty-five candidates were elected unopposed, of whom thirty are supporters of Zaghlul Pasha and five Independents. Zaghlul Pasha was elected for the Cairo constituency.—(Reuter.)

CREDIT FOR GERMANY.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Sunday.

There are prospects that a long credit operation, negotiations for which have been proceeding for some time, may be carried through during the present week-end. The sum mentioned is £12,250,000, to be used in furnishing Germany with foodstuffs and coal and helping the currency.

The negotiations are taking place at Amsterdam, British and American bankers being interested in the matter. On the German side the guarantees to be offered are of a nature not quite clear, being provided by three of Germany's biggest industrial aristocrats—Prince Hohenlohe (who has vast mining interests in Upper and Lower Silesia), the Duke of Ujest (a Westphalian magnate), and Prince Hatzfeldt (who has coal mines in Upper Silesia and vast forests in Lower Silesia).

The English text of the proposed agreement for a big credit scheme reached Berlin last night, and is being submitted to the Cabinet to-morrow.

It is significant that the Anglo-American consortium conceding the credit do so only to the present Government, the implication being that, if Dr. Stresemann falls and a Junker Government succeeds, the plan automatically lapses.

The credit scheme represents the trump card the Chancellor proposes to play at Tuesday's Reichstag sitting, when the Nationalists and Socialists are contemplating joining to overthrow him.

NO LOCK-OUT.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Sunday.

Shortly before midnight General Degoutte, French Commander-in-Chief on the Ruhr, signed an order imposing five years' imprisonment and a fine of £200.000 upon any industrialist who attempts to discharge any, or all, of his workmen. Herr Stinnes, who had given notice that all the workmen in the Ruhr would be plunged into total inactivity on November 30, is directly attacked by General Degoutte's proclamation.

The preamble to the French proclamation says that, in view of the fact that some industrialists have menaced the population of the occupied territory with untold suffering by a cessation of work on November 30, the occupationary authorities must take upon themselves the task of guaranteeing order and maintaining a livelihood in the Ruhr for the workingmen.

It is expressly stated in the proclamation that any industrialist belonging to any association of industrialists is forbidden to discharge workingmen by decisions of the association. This prevents Herr Stinnes and his associates from carrying out their plans without the severest penalties.

BAVARIAN REVOLT.

LUDENDORFF'S PAMPHLETS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
MUNICH, Sunday.

Herr Hitler's followers are attempting to force the Government to bring the case against the putsch leaders to trial immediately in order to enable Herr Hitler to make his propaganda speech in Court while he is still the centre of interest. His friends continue to issue statements attacking his former partisans and are carrying on a violent newspaper war.

Ludendorff continues to defend himself in countless pamphlets. One of his most fierce accusations is against the Reichswehr, which, he asserts, did not even command a halt before shooting. This gives his enemies a welcome opportunity to point out with joyful sarcasm that even a field-marshal ought to recognise a machine gun when he sees it blocking the streets, and ought to recognise its meaning.

Herr Hitler is being interned at Lansberg. It is expected that he will have permission to go into the town freely. It is not believed that he will be tried publicly for fear that he will reveal too much of von Kahr's part in the putsch, and possibly compromise the dictator.

Erhardt is now openly uniting all the Nationalists and military organisations in Bavaria with the ultimate intention of overthrowing the Berlin Government.

FRANCE'S DEBT.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Sunday.

The statement of M. Poincaré in the French Chamber, that the payment of the debt to the United States is conditional on the recovery of reparations from Germany, has aroused deep resentment in high official circles here. When France was begging the United States for money during the war one high official declares there was nothing said about Germany paying the bill. The French Premier, officials here assert, is fully aware of the attitude of the American Government on the question of debts.

The administration's spokesman reiterated that the question of the debt of France and other Allies to the United States has nothing to do with the payment of reparations by Germany. No such contingency was stipulated when the debt was contracted, it is pointed out, the debt being merely a plain transaction in which the United States Government lent money, and the French Government pledged itself to pay.

INCIDENT IN LEIPZIG.

BERLIN, Sunday.

According to information from French sources, a grave incident, likely to have serious consequences, is reported from Leipzig. Two French and Belgian officers, members of the Dresden Section of the Inter-Allied Control Commission, were motoring from Dresden to Leipzig, when they were held up by Reichswehr, and declared to be under arrest, although they showed their papers. They were only released several hours later, when instructions from a superior officer had been received.

The two officers arrived at Leipzig and put up at a hotel. At two o'clock in the morning their bedrooms were entered by four Reichswehr, who again declared them to be under arrest, and expelled them by force from the room. They were taken to a guardroom, where they were kept till nine o'clock in the morning. It is alleged they were molested in a shameful manner before orders were received from Dresden for their release.

CORINTH CANAL IMPASSABLE.

The landslip which occurred in the Corinth Canal is more serious than was originally thought, the canal being now impassable. Steps will be taken immediately to repair the damage, and it is hoped that navigation for big craft will be resumed in about two months.—(Reuter.)

FLIGHT FROM BERLIN.

WOMEN LEAVE.

BERLIN, Sunday.

The situation is so serious here that something like a flight of anxious foreigners from the capital is in progress.

Acting presumably on London instructions, the British authorities here have advised all the women members of the British Mission staffs to leave Berlin as soon as possible. About thirty Englishwomen and girls—secretaries, typists, and clerks—are affected.

The menacing international situation is doubtless one of the reasons for this advice, and it has also been pointed out to those affected that the food shortage is likely to become still more acute, and that disorders in a bigger scale than hitherto are possible.

EATING DOG MEAT.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Sunday.

Dog meat is being quoted in some of the Berlin meat markets. For weeks dog thieves have been systematically picking up every stray pet in the Berlin streets and selling them to the butchers for sausages. To-day the butchers are openly offering dog meat for stews.

So many dog thieves have been lurking about lately that owners have not dared to leave their dogs out of sight for one minute. In one quarter of Berlin the police have found the skins of a dozen poodles and terriers in the apartment of one starving old woman, who is said to have eaten every dog in her neighbourhood. She has been arrested for theft.

The use of dog meat has resulted in increasing the cost of other meats. One pound of beef to-day costs about ten shillings at the official rate of exchange. But for the skilled German workman it means more than a week's pay.

Meat is entirely beyond the means of unskilled workers and women workers, and those drawing out-of-work pay. The price of dog meat is quoted at about one-third to one-fourth the price of other meat. As there are but very few street dogs in Berlin now, it is the toy dog which the dog thieves are giving their attention.

Butter is also entirely beyond the means of most people, except a few tourists and very rich Germans, but the skilled workman can occasionally buy margarine, partly made out of oils.

Bread prices are almost impossible. What bread there is is supposed to be made out of rye, but it contains potatoes and apparently some sawdust, as was the case during the war.

The average housewife is lucky if she can buy enough food to make one thick soup. The less lucky ones serve butterless sausage sandwiches.

MR. J. P. MORGAN'S CLAIM.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Sunday.

The distinction of being the richest man in the world is a transient honour in these days. After the title had been held for years by Mr. J. D. Rockefeller, it was recently announced that Mr. Henry Ford had outdone the Standard Oil fortunes.

It is stated that the "motor car king" has already lost the honour to Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, the Wall street Emperor, when it was announced that Mr. Morgan paid taxes on the largest income in the country.

GREEK REPUBLICANISM.

ATHENS, Sunday.

Particular interest attaches to to-day's general meeting of the Liberal Party, when a decision will be reached whether the Liberals will form a United front with the Democrats at the coming elections under the democratic flag.

The Republican idea has gained much ground since the publicity given to M. Venizelos's declaration that he is not opposed in principle to a Republican régime.

Asked by Press representatives whether the King would be asked to vacate the Throne before the elections, in the event of the Liberals and the Democrats reaching an understanding, Colonel Gonatas replied:—"If the King voluntarily decides to retire from the Throne, this is a question personally concerning himself. Withdrawal being forced upon him is another matter. The King has already declared that if the Revolutionary Government indicates the necessity for his withdrawal, he will vacate the Throne, but the Revolutionary Government is not disposed to take such a step, for it would not be in conformity with the advice of M. Venizelos, with which we entirely agree."—(Press Association's Special.)

CALCUTTA, Sunday.

Mr. Robert William Church, formerly mining engineer to the Railway Board, who was extradited from England last May on a charge of alleged irregularities in respect of the supply of coal to the Indian railways, has died in a nursing home here.

Mr. Church had been allowed bail, and judgment would have been delivered tomorrow. It will be remembered that the prosecution was based on certain letters said to have been written by Church, wherein in it was alleged that contractors had offered from £50,000 to £100,00 if coal rates were increased by two rupees per ton.

GOVERNORSHIP OF TASMANIA.

HOBART, Sunday.

In reply to the agitation in favour of the appointment of a Governor from England, Mr. Lyons, Prime Minister, said to-day that the expense of importing a Governor was not justified. If a Governor was necessary, a Tasmanian or an Australian was good enough for the position. In any case, it was a matter for Parliament to decide.—(Reuter.)

ENGLISH BISHOP'S VISIT TO MOSCOW.

RIGA, Sunday.

Messages from Moscow state that clerical circles there regard the recent visit of Dr. Bury, Anglican Bishop of Northern and Central Europe, as having been of the greatest importance in fostering a closer relationship between the Anglican and Russian Orthodox Churches.

FOUR DEATHS IN BRIDGE COLLAPSE.

MILAN, Saturday.

Three of the injured in the footbridge collapse at a theatre here to-day have succumbed, making the death roll two students and two workmen.

U.S. AND TRADERS' SECRETS.

WASHINGTON, Saturday.

The United States Treasury is preparing for the first time to use its powers to prohibit importations for one year by foreign manufacturers who decline to permit the examination of their books for the purpose of ascertaining the costs of production.

GALES, SNOW, AND FLOODS.

Weather reports from virtually all over the country on Saturday and yesterday told of snow, hail, and floods. All the mountains are snow-covered. In County Tipperary the fall is reported to have been the heaviest for some years.

Heavy snow on the hills and rain in the valleys are the conditions prevailing in North-East Ulster, where the Upper Erne, Finn, Annalee, and all the smaller streams in Monaghan, Fermanagh, and Cavan have overflown. Much hay and potatoes have been ruined. Farmers fear that frost may set in.

The barometer in Dublin remained steady at 29.80 during the twenty-four hours ended at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Dublin Mountains are snow-covered to within a hundred feet of sea level. A cold north-westerly wind, with frequent hail and sleet showers, made conditions in the city very unpleasant. The temperature late yesterday afternoon was only four degrees above freezing point.

BLIZZARD IN BRITAIN.

Winter storms are reported from all over Great Britain. In Lancashire, Cheshire, and Derbyshire there were heavy rain and thunder storms, and in the Peak district hailstones of remarkable size fell, followed by a blizzard. Heavy snow is reported from Scotland.

Off the Lancashire coast the storm was very violent throughout Saturday night, and vessels were in trouble.

LIFEBOAT'S DOUBLE RESCUE.

There was much excitement in Liverpool yesterday over the remarkable adventures of a steamer—the Ibis—which grounded during the week-end.

The crew of the Ibis were taken off by the New Brighton lifeboat, but when the work of rescue was complete the Ibis righted herself without assistance, and was carried out to sea with not a soul on board.

While the lifeboat was engaged in rescuing the crew another vessel—the Spurn, a tugboat—which had arrived to render assistance, herself struck something, and began to fill and sink. The lifeboat had the double task of rescuing the crew of the Spurn also.

It was while the lifeboat men were engaged in rescuing the tugboat's crew that the Ibis suddenly righted herself and was washed out to sea. The ship had not been recovered late last night.

UNMANAGEABLE STEAMER.

The London steamer Durham, 6,975 tons, signalled by wireless on Saturday that her steering gear had been carried away in a gale seventeen miles south-west of Tuskar Rock, South-East Ireland, and that she was in need of assistance. The British steamer Devenby Hall reported that she was going to the Durham's assistance.

Later the Durham sent a wireless message to say that she was steaming slowly up the Bristol Channel before a heavy sea, and was unmanageable. Last night the vessel hove to off St. Govan's Lighthouse, and called for tugs.

OUTBREAK IN FAMOUS HERD.

SIX MARKETS CLOSED.

An outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease was confirmed yesterday in the noted pedigree shorthorn herd belonging to Mr. A. M. McIntyre. Towisbarclay, Aberdeenshire. A stand-still order has been made prohibiting the movement of stock within a radius of 15 miles of the infected area. This means the closing of six markets.

The herd numbers about 100, but it is expected that the policy of slaughter will not be carried out.

PARIS, Sunday.

What amounted to the exchange of a very large quantity of paper for a very small scrap of the same substance took place at the last day's sale of the eighth section of the Ferrari stamp collection, when a Berlin collector gave for a rare Baden error the sum of 120,000 francs, roughly the equivalent, at present exchange rates, of 8,400,000,000,000,000 (8,400 billion) marks. Added to this amount was a tax of 17½ per cent.

The sale of the eighth lot brought in 1,867,042 francs, the total to date from the sale of the collection being 15,747,643 francs.—(Reuter.)

QUEEN OF RUMANIA AND BALKAN THRONES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELGRADE, November 17.

Queen Marie of Rumania is seeking new laurels for her reputation as "the greatest statesman of the Balkans." She is now reported to be manipulating a marriage between the youthful King Boris of Bulgaria and her youngest daughter. If the wedding takes place, Queen Marie will control the four Balkan Thrones. Her daughter Elizabeth married the present King of Greece and her daughter Maricara is the wife of King Alexander of Yugo Slavia.

European statesmen are said to be greatly worried by Queen Marie's system, which has united the Balkans by wedding bells instead of by bayonets or secret diplomacy. If her Bulgarian wedding plan proves successful, Queen Marie will virtually rule the Thrones of Bucharest, Athens, Belgrade, and Sofia.

BANDITS FOILED.

LARGE SUM OF MONEY SAVED.

According to advices from Detroit, Michigan, quick thinking by the driver of a Ford Motor Company pay car saved a bag containing 25,000 dollars, when four armed bandits attempted to hold him up. As the bandits intercepted the pay car, the driver leaped from the machine, and placed the bag on a passing locomotive of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, Ford's own railroad.

The pay car was en route from the River Rouge plant to a construction camp at Flad Rock, when the bandits intercepted it. They disappeared after the bag was tossed on to the locomotive.

HUNGARY'S FINANCES.

BUDAPEST, Saturday.

Sir Arthur Salter and the remaining members of the League of Nations delegation which has been enquiring into Hungary's financial position in connection with the scheme for a loan left yesterday with the Reparation Commission's representative for London. Dr. Kallay, Hungarian Minister of Finance, and Dr. Walko, Minister of Commerce, accompanied by the Hungarian delegation, have also left for London in connection with the scheme.—(Reuter.)

MELBOURNE MEAT EXPORT TRADE HELD UP.

A Reuter's Melbourne cablegram of yesterday's date says that a strike among cold storage workers is seriously affecting the meat export trade, and exporters have ceased buying.

DANGEROUS AND UNLAWFUL.

APPEAL TO THE GOVERNMENT.

ARMAGH, Sunday.

The following letter of His Eminence Cardinal Logue was read at all the Masses throughout the Archdiocese of Armagh today:—

Very Rev. and Rev. Fathers and Dearly Beloved Brethren,—The time is fast approaching which we should devote to immediate preparation for a due celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace. May the good God, in His mercy, grant that we may be spared from such misery as marred the joys and blighted the happiness of some recent Christmases.

As a harbinger of His birth, our Divine Redeemer established a universal peace throughout the entire world. By the ministry of His angels He proclaimed this peace to men of good-will. Peace, therefore, good-will, union, and charity should be the leading features of the Feast of Christmas. What a sad contrast poor Ireland has had in recent years! The festival, which should rejoice all hearts, has been ushered in by strife, hatred, dissension, ill-will, outrage, the violation of God's law and all uncharitableness. Unhappily, we are threatened with a similar state of things during the forthcoming Christmas.

This is why I earnestly appeal to the great body of our people to avail of all the means at their disposal, each according to his position and opportunities, to avert so great a calamity. Thank God, the great body of our people, despite the terrible crisis through which they have passed, are still, as they ever have been, sound, staunch, practical Catholics. Many, however, have been turned aside from the ways of peace, charity and the strict observance of the Divine law by political strife. I need not dwell upon this, as it is so well known to all. We are now in the midst of the last burst which threatens the peace, progress and welfare, spiritual and temporal, of our unhappy country. As a measure of precaution, and to guard against a fresh outburst of the bloodshed, destruction and misery which have laid waste large districts of the country, a large number of men and some women have been interned in prisons and concentration camps. They say they have been badly treated; and, without attributing blame to anyone, I can easily believe this from the nature of the case. Even the best disposed and most sympathetic Government would find it hard to provide adequately for the comfort of such large numbers in the heats of summer and the colds of winter. Then, if we can believe the public Press, the interned added largely to their misery by their rebellion against prison arrangements, unruly conduct, destroying furniture and similar irregularities. Still, from whatever cause and by whosoever's fault, they have suffered severely. I sympathise sincerely with them; and were it at my disposal I should have the prisons emptied and the concentration camps deserted before Christmas.

THE HUNGER-STRIKE.

Latterly, to force release, large numbers lately entered on a hunger-strike, and a considerable number still persist in it. This is my chief anxiety, owing to danger to the health or life, even to the salvation of those concerned. It appears to me foolish, ineffective and of very doubtful morality. We have no dominion over our own lives. They belong to God, the author of life and supreme Lord of life and death. It is unlawful for us to deliberately sacrifice our lives, or even to expose them to immediate danger, except for causes universally and unanimously acknowledged as sufficient to justify the sacrifice. It is very doubtful whether the desire of liberation from even a severe and harrassing imprisonment is a sufficient cause. Casuists may dispute the question, relying on arguments which appear to me, at least, to be unsound; but he would be a very foolish man who would leave his eternal destiny to depend on a mere doubt or chance. I know hunger strikers do not intend their own death; but they are risking it when matters are carried to extremes; and even apart from extremes, some hidden or unsuspected weakness of the constitution may render a hunger strike fatal. Hence I would earnestly appeal to those engaged in hunger strike to abandon this dangerous and unlawful expedient, and to seek in future some more reasonable, natural and lawful means of enforcing their liberation from what they consider an unfair and harsh imprisonment, or in advocating their political views.

APPEAL TO THE GOVERNMENT.

In the second place, I would earnestly appeal to the Government, who declare their readiness to liberate those untried and unconvicted prisoners, not to do things by halves and by driblets, thus prolonging the agony. The leaders of the so-called Republican party have declared that they are prepared to abstain from violence and seek to secure their political aims by constitutional means. The Government naturally seek from the interned an undertaking that they will abide by this declaration. Many refuse to give it merely from pride or sentimentality. It falls far short of the undertaking exacted from internees by the Northern Government. Those released by them must undertake to exile themselves from their homes; or, in the alternative, to report to the police three times a week, and not to go beyond two miles from their residence. This is real punishment for men who have been convicted of no crime, and very drastic punishment at that. I think, therefore, that the best policy of the Free State Government would be to clear the prisons and camps as quickly as it could be effected of all internees, except those convicted of crime, or liable to be tried for crime, without paying much heed to useless undertakings. This would likely bring us peace at Christmas. It would also likely enable the country to get into the condition of a settled Government. There are laws enacted to meet transgressions; the judges have shown themselves prepared to enforce the laws; there is sufficient machinery to detect malefactors and make them amenable. If anyone be caught in the violation of the laws, he should be tried as soon as may be, and not be kept in a state of suspended freedom. Pending trial, he should be treated in prison according to the rules observed in every civilised State.

Finally, Reverend Fathers and dear brethren, the suggestions I have made are mere human suggestions, some of them may be found foolish suggestions. But there is a wisdom which infinitely trandscends all human wisdom, a guidance which can never err, the wisdom and guidance of Almighty God. Men are liable to err, "liars in their balances," and uncertain in their designs. We should, therefore, especially during the forthcoming Christmas time, appeal to God, by earnest prayer, with purity of intention, singleness of purpose and that confidence and devotion which make us pleasing to Him, for that light, direction and assistance which we so much need. We should implore of the Prince of Peace, through the intercession of His Most Holy Mother, that He may bless our poor country, granting her that peace, tranquillity, union and charity, which may make her, in the future what she has been in the past, "an Island of Saints."

THE CAPITAL LEVY.

The Daily Express says:—The one danger the British world must fear to-day is the reformers, with their wild schemes for amending, at great expense, a community which required nothing but repose and lower taxation. Great Britain will restore its industrial and commercial tissues in the long run by its native vigour and by personal initiative of its citzens, as long as these energies are not crushed out of existence by the fanatics of the capital levy. Of course, the capital levy will never be applied, because its application is a financial impossibility, but the mere talk about it affects prosperity and perpetuates unemployment.

A COMPREHENSIVE POLICY.

The Daily Telegraph, dealing with the Prime Minister's election address, says:—The Conservative Party, with the exception of a handful of candidates, who will stand as Free Traders, is solidly behind the policy outlined in the manifesto. It is not a narrow policy. It is not a one, two, or even three-plank policy. It is a comprehensive and inter-dependent whole, which, if accepted by the electorate, will set this country's feet upon a new path. Our fiscal system must be changed.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

A DAY OF DECISION.

THE AMBASSADORS' CONFERENCE.

Commenting editorially upon to-day's decisive meeting of the Conference of Ambassadors in Paris, at which the important point at issue is the re-establishment of inter-Allied military control in Germany, The Times remarks:—We are quite willing to prevent the revival of German militarism, but we are entitled to ask that the demand should be consistent and effective. M. Poincaré, who recently had representations made in Berlin on behalf of democratic government, had himself an opportunity of strengthening German democracy in September. Dr. Stresemann, whose Government at that time was based on a broad coalition, had abandoned passive resistance. If M. Poincaré had treated with Dr. Stresemann then, German democracy would have been strengthened, but he hardened his heart, and the result was that reaction gained ground in Germany.

To-day's Conference is to consider the question of sending a stern joint Allied demand to Dr. Stresemann, who is himself apparently in extremis. The British difficulty is that we are asked to join in making demands that in the present conditions—not of our own making—seem impracticable, and that it is proposed to enforce them by sanctions which will increase the confusion and the danger, and to which we cannot possibly consent.

THE ISSUE BEFORE THE ELECTORS.

The Times observes in a leading article:—The position of the Government has been materially improved by the events of the week-end, and especially by the publication of the Prime Minister's election address—a concise, well-proportioned and admirably straightforward document. After referring to Mr. Baldwin's speech in the House of Commons on Thursday, and to his election address, The Times proceeds:—The issue thus submitted to the country will be decided three weeks hence. It is to be hoped that on the choice of parties submitted to them the constituencies will respond to the bold appeal which is made by Mr. Baldwin. If they do, they will probably be influenced chiefly by three considerations. The first is that his policy is the only constructive one before the country, and that the only other policy set before the country in any detail is such that the mere assumption of office by its promoters would at once, before they had taken action of any kind, cause such a set-back in trade and business as it would take years to recover. The second is that the issue is not the old issue of Free Trade and Protection. The present situation is new. Since the struggle of twenty years ago new and far higher tariffs have been erected against our exports in many parts of the world. The collapse of the foreign exchanges, with the resulting low standard of living among our competitors, renders some kind of protection much more necessary than it was before the war.

All these new facts will make many who are not theoretical Protectionists content to follow Mr. Baldwin's lead with hope. But, perhaps, the third consideration will have most weight with the electors. Democracies care more for men than for policies. The voters are sure to be impressed by the transparent honesty and courage of a man who risks a position of assured power in order to be freed from a pledge which he did not himself make, and to be enabled to carry out a policy which, as he believes with obvious sincerity, alone affords a prospect of curing the terrible evil of unemployment. There is only one qualification to be made on this subject. Mr. Baldwin must be careful not to convey the impression which certainly has weakened one of the most trusted of his opponents, that he is personally indifferent to the result, and would willingly retire into private life.

MR. BALDWIN'S CAMPAIGN.

TO-DAY'S MEETING IN LONDON.

The Times Parliamentary Correspondent writes:—The messages of the Unionist and the Labour Parties to the nation have now been issued, but the publication of the Liberal message has been deferred until to-day. The Unionist manifesto takes the form of Mr. Baldwin's election address to the electors of the Bewdley Division, while the Labour manifesto is signed by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, the leader of the Opposition, and his principal lieutenants.

The Prime Minister spent the week-end at Chequers in preparation for a strenuous period of electioneering. For the meeting which he is to address this afternoon the Queen's Hall could have been filled three or four times over if all the applications for tickets could have been granted. After the Prime Minister has spoken, a resolution will be moved by the Attorney-General and seconded by Dame Helen Gwynne-Vaughan. There was general approval yesterday at the news that Lord Birkenhead has now definitely intimated his readiness to help the Government in its campaign in every way possible.

AMERICA AND GERMANY.

THE HOHENZOLLERN FAMILY.

The Times Correspondent at Washington states in a message yesterday:—No word on the subject of the grave crisis in Allied and European affairs has come from the Administration for two days. There is a feeling here that, at the moment when the chief European Powers are concerned more with their divergencies than their points of agrement, it would be impolitic and dangerous for any representative of the United States to hazard a statement.

President Coolidge has allowed it to be known that, while this country might find itself unable to join in any protest against a change of residence of members of the Hohenzollern family, it would nevertheless view unfavourably a movement looking to the restoration of that house to power. The intimation is a reminder to those who bring against the United States the facile charge of pro-Germanism that such feeling has no part in the American desire for European settlement.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S SPEECH.

The Morning Post, commenting on Mr. Lloyd George's speech, says:—When you are trying to convince an audience that you are a moderate man it seems rather a mistake to raise your voice to a scream of vituperation and hurl tin cans and dead crabs at your opponents. Mr. Lloyd George has chosen his abuse badly when he calls the present Government mutineers. For example, who can fail to remember that celebrated mutiny when Mr. Lloyd George made his own skipper walk the plank?

THE STATE OF GERMANY.

The Westminster Gazette says:—It is but a short time since it seemed that the state of Germany was so bad that it could not be worse. Those of us who took this view have daily been proved wrong, for the situation is deteriorating almost hourly. The exchange has become so bad that it is useless to discuss it. The Central Government is bankrupt of authority. M. Poincaré has again run the "Jolly Roger" to the masthead. He has reached the end of his concessions, he states. The beginning has apparently been overlooked by everyone. When he proceeds to declare that the Versailles Treaty is to be enforced willy-nilly, we should be left with a sense of pleasant anticipation if we had not learned by this time to understand him. The enforcement of the Versailles Treaty, and nothing but the Treaty, would mean the evacuation of the Ruhr. That, however, is far from M. Poincaré's intentions. He is credited with the design of imposing further sanctions. If France is to invade Germany still further we must reconcile ourselves to the risk of starvation among a vast number of helpless, hopeless people.

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S ILLNESS.

The Times says:—Lord Birkenhead was confined to his bed with a slight chill yesterday. He proposes, if able, to attend the luncheon at the Constitutional Club to-morrow to deal with fiscal policy.

MR. CHURCHILL'S BID FOR LABOUR SEAT.

The British general election campaign was begun in earnest on Saturday, when the Prime Minister's election address and the official manifesto of the Labour Party were issued, and speeches were delivered by Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Winston Churchill, Mr. Amery, Sir J. Simon, and others. There are many constituencies where the candidates have not yet been chosen.

Nomination day is November 26th, and polling will take place on December 6th.

The surprise of the week-end was the statement late last night that Mr. Winston Churchill is to stand for Leicester West, at present represented by a Labour member, who defeated a National Liberal and an Independent Liberal in the three-cornered contest at the last election.

LORD BIRKENHEAD.

Lord Birkenhead yesterday stated that he had placed himself in the hands of Colonel F. S. Jackson, of the Central Conservative Office, so far as his engagements are concerned.

In detailing the Government's fiscal policy, Mr. Baldwin, in his manifesto, reviews his pledge on the food taxes. He says:—

> "It is not our intention in any circumstances to impose any duties on wheat, flour, oats, meat (including bacon and ham), cheese, butter or eggs."

Mr. Lloyd George, in his speech, referred to "the tactics of the tin-canners," and described the election as having been conceived "in the temper of conspirators." "What we want," he said, "is protection, not against French mills, but against French militarists."

Declaring that the Liberal Party was alone equipped to deal with the situation, Mr. Lloyd George said the Conservative Party was out to smash the fiscal system and the Labour Party the social system.

HOW THEY STAND.

There will be few, if any, cases of Liberal fighting Liberal in this election; but it is not impossible that a number of Conservative Free Traders will take the field against Conservatives who are pledged to Tariff Reform. The following was the state of parties at the dissolution:—

CONSERVATIVES	346
INDEPENDENT LIBERALS	67
OTHER PARTIES	8

MALES	10,449,820
	18,281,403

A return for Scotland and Ireland of not quite so late a date gives a further 2,837,589 voters, of whom a million and a quarter may be regarded as women. The total electorate is, therefore, roughly 21,118,000. There are more than nine million women voters.

LIBERAL	4,208,551
OTHERS	334,794

The Prime Minister left Downing street on Saturday for Chequers, where he spent the week-end. He returns to-day to open the Conservative campaign at the Queen's Hall, London. He has also arranged to speak at the following centres:—

Bristol	Nov. 26	Liverpool	Dec. 3

LORD YOUNGER.

Lord Birkenhead will be the guest at a luncheon at the Constitutional Club in London to-morrow given by Lord Wargrave (the former Sir Edward Goulding, who was known as a keen Tariff Reformer when he sat in the House of Commons). The surprise of this luncheon party will be the presence of Lord Balfour. Mr. Austen Chamberlain and Sir Robert Horne will also be present, and it is believed that the outcome will be that ex-Ministers will throw themselves unreservedly into the campaign.

WHAT THE LEADERS ARE SAYING.

Mr. Winston Churchill:

Liberalism offers a sure, sober, safe, middle course of lucid intelligence and high principles between the extremes of Diehard Protection and Socialist Capital Levy.

There is no reason why Mr. Asquith should not select a Government comprising the experience and European prestige of Lord Grey, and the immense and unequalled public following, the social driving force, and the historic war record of Mr. Lloyd George.

Sir John Simon:

Mr. Baldwin is recommended to the country as a safe, cautious, steady, business-like leader, who will not be blown about by every wind of doctrine, but a man who will pursue a steady course.

If the propostion that imports are the cause of unemployment is untrue and incapable of proof, a Government victory at this election means the lowering of the standard of living, delay in the recovery of trade, and the infliction of additional sufferings on the poorest in the land.—In London.

Mr. McCurdy:

Under the general tariff, for the purpose of revenue, the consumer will be asked to pay more for every kind of manufactured article. Mr. Baldwin has said nothing about one of the most important staple foods, potatoes, which will probably be the very first to receive the benefit of Protection.

Mr. Baldwin is asking the country to reverse the whole system of taxation, to shift a portion of the burden which now lay on the shoulders of those who paid super-tax and income tax to every consumer of commodities.

Under the proposals to impose larger duties when the circumstances of a particular industry required it, the Government will have power to put a tax of 10, 50, or 100 per cent. on the leather which was the raw material of Northampton's chief industry.

They may be simple, they may be honest, but they do not seem to know much about business men.—At Northampton.

Mr. J. H. Thomas.

Some people believe that because of their financial poverty the Labour Party will be handicapped in the election. The workers have been taught to tighten up their belts in political as well as industrial conflicts. Protection is a mockery and a sham so far as relieving unemployment is concerned.—At Derby.

Mr. Lloyd George:

You cannot navigate a great ship through uncharted seas, full of submerged rocks and reefs, and in tempestuous weather, with a scratch crew of third-class mariners, whose chief qualification for their post is that they are also mutineers. Since Mr. Bonar Law passed away a weak man has been put on the bridge; the mutineers got hold of him, and the ship is going headlong on the rocks—unless the people of this country change the crew.

If the advice the Government has given is wrong, it means ruin to this country. There are millions of people who think it wrong.

What are the tactics of the tin-canners? They did not give the Cabinet three hours' discussion before the Prime Minister was committed at Plymouth to tearing the whole commercial system of the country to pieces.

This is not a general election: it is a conspiracy, and they are tricking the country into ruin. The whole thing is a subterfuge to take the attention of the country away from the utter failure of the present Government to deal with the situation in Europe.

The real reason for unemployment is the impoverishment of our customers in consequence of the Great War. The first thing to do is to restore Europe and to put our customers in the position to buy. You do not want protection against French mills, but against French militarists.

It is deplorable that our trade should be made the sport merely of personal and political intrigues.

Mr. Bridgeman has just declared that he will never bow down to the golden image of Free Trade; but he is prepared to bow down to the tin god of Protection. Mr. Bridgeman has compared himself and his friends to Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. No doubt, Nebuchadnezzar was Prime Minister. Mr. Bridgeman thinks they will come out of it. They will come out, not canonised, but cremated.

Why is our commercial system to be destroyed, our trade to be crippled? It is because this Government has failed in the one task, and the one and only task they have undertaken, to establish tranquillity in the world.

They have started upon a wild, mad enterprise, which has perplexed, amazed and dumbfounded their own people. It is all because an extreme faction, with conspiracy in their blood, have engineered one successful mutiny, have taken mutiny as their trade, and they go from plot to plot.—At Northampton.

Lord Birkenhead:

I do not intend in the course of the election to deal in any way with any personal controversies. The time for that has gone by, and I hope from the bottom of my heart that it will never be revived.

The present election differs from the last in that no issues arise as between the Coalition and the Conservative Party.

To-day we are confronted once again with the old issue, that the Conservative Party is fighting for its life against the dangerous policy of Labour on the one hand, and the obsolete Victorianism of the Liberal doctrinaires.

In such a contest doubt, Conservatism and personal considerations are alike impossible. Let every Conservative throw himself into the fight with the old combatant spirit, and victory will be assured.—In the Sunday Times.

Sir William Sutherland:

Protection, instead of lessening unemployment, would rather increase it, especially in the big industries, as tariffs are bound to increase the cost of production.—At Oban.

Mr. L. S. Amery:

It is no part of the Government policy to give protection to inefficient industries by creating unequal conditions in their favour. While this situation is utterly unlike any situation we have ever been confronted with, it is only common sense to apply to it the remedy which every other industrial community in the world is adopting to-day.—At Harrow.

Lord Long:

I would rather go down beaten in this election than not fight the cause of the working men and the working women of this country. The Premier's action was a wonderful thing for a man to do.—At Westbury.

Sir Philip Lloyd Greame:

Mr. Lloyd George has sneered at the work of the Imperial Conference in regard to the proposed tariff on canned goods, and has suggested that I have a tin can tied to my cow tail. That shows how barren the Liberal Party is in ideas. His policy is one of pure abstraction, except that it proposes to revive the land taxes, which have held up house-building.—At Hendon.

MR. BALDWIN'S ELECTION ADDRESS.

"DUTIES ON IMPORTED MANUFACTURES."

Mr. Baldwin has issued the following election address:—

To the Electors of Bewdley—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—In submitting myself to you for re-election I propose frankly to put before you the present situation as I see it and the measures which, in the opinion of myself and my colleagues, are necessary adequately to deal with it

1—The unemployment and under-employment which our working people and our great national industries are now facing, for the fourth winter in succession, on a scale unparalleled in our history, have created a problem which calls urgently for a solution. Their indefinite continuance threatens to impair permanently the trained skill and the independent spirit of our workers, to disorganise the whole fabric of industry and credit, and, by eating away the sources of revenue, to undermine the very foundations of our national and municipal life.

2—In large measure this state of affairs is due to the political and economic disorganisation of Europe consequent on the Great War. In accordance with the policy affirmed by the Imperial Conference, we shall continue to devote every effort, through the League of Nations, and by every other practicable means, to the restoration of a true peace in Europe. But that at the best must take time. A year ago Mr. Bonar Law could still hope that a more settled condition of affairs was in prospect, and that with it trade might enjoy a substantial and steady revival, even in the absence of any modification of fiscal policy, of the ultimate necessity of which he himself was always convinced. Since the occupation of the Ruhr it has become evident that we are confronted by a situation which, even if it does not become worse, is not likely to be normal for years to come.

3—The disorganisation and poverty of Europe, accompanied by broken exchanges and by higher tariffs all the world over, have, directly and indirectly, narrowed the whole field of our foreign trade. In our own home market the bounty given to the importation of foreign goods by depreciated currencies, and by the reduced standard of living in many European countries, has exposed us to a competition which is essentially unfair and is paralysing enterprise and initiative. It is under such conditions that we have to find work for a population which, largely owing to the cessation during the war period of the normal flow of migration to the Dominions, has in the last census period increased by over a million and three-quarter souls.

4—No Government with any sense of responsibility could continue to sit with tied hands watching the unequal struggle of our industries or content itself with palliatives, which, valuable as they are to mitigate the hardship to individuals, must inevitably add to the burden of rates and taxes, and thereby still further weaken our whole economic structure. Drastic measures have become necessary for dealing with present conditions as long as they continue.

5—The present Government hold themselves pledged by Mr. Bonar Law not to make any fundamental change in the fiscal system of the country without consulting the electorate. Convinced, as I am, that only by such a change can a remedy be found, and that no partial measures, such as the extension of the Safeguarding of Industries Act, can meet the situation, I am in honour bound to ask the people to release us from this pledge without further prejudicing the situation by any delay. That is the reason, and the only reason, which has made this election necessary.

6—What we propose to do for the assistance of employment in industry, if the nation approves, is to impose duties on imported manufactured goods, with the following objects:—

(1) To raise revenue by methods less unfair to our own home production, which at present bears the whole burden of local and national taxation, including the cost of relieving unemployment;

(2) To give special assistance to industries which are suffering under unfair foreign competition;

(3) To utilise these duties in order to negotiate for a reduction of foreign tariffs, in those directions which would most benefit our export trade;

(4) To give substantial preference to the Empire on the whole range of our duties, with a view to promoting the continued extension of the principle of mutual preference, which has already done so much for the expansion of our trade, and the development, in co-operation with the other Governments of the Empire, of the boundless resources of our common heritage.

7—Such a policy will defend our industries during the present emergency and will enable us, as more normal conditions return, to work effectively to secure a greater measure of real Free Trade, both within the Empire and with foreign countries. Trade, which is subject to the arbitrary interference of every foreign tariff, and at the mercy of every disturbance arising from the distractions of Europe, is in no sense free, and is certainly not fair to our own people.

8—It is not our intention, in any circumstances, to impose any duties on wheat, flour, oats, meat (including bacon and ham), cheese butter or eggs.

9—While assisting the manufacturing industries of the country, we propose also to give a direct measure of support to agriculture. Agriculture is not only, in itself, the greatest and most important of our national industries, but is of especial value as supplying the most stable and essentially complementary home market for our manufacturers.

10—We propose to afford this assistance by a bounty of one pound an acre on all holdings of arable land exceeding one acre. The main object of that bounty is to maintain employment on the land and so keep up the wages of agricultural labour. In order to make sure of this, we shall decline to pay the bounty to any employer who pays less than 30s. a week to an able-bodied labourer.

11—The exclusion from any import duties of the essential foodstuffs which I have mentioned, as well as of raw materials, undoubtedly imposes a certain limitation upon the fullest extension of Imperial preference. But even the preference agreed to at the recent Economic Conference within our existing fiscal system, have been acknowledged as of the greatest value by the Dominion representatives, and our present proposals will offer a much wider field, the value of which will be progressively enhanced by the increasing range and variety of Empire production.

12—Moreover, in the field of Empire development, as well as in that of home agriculture, we are not confined to the assistance furnished by duties. We have already given an earnest of our desire to promote a better distribution of the population of the Empire through the Empire Settlement Act, and at the Economic Conference we have undertaken to co-operate effectively with the Government of any part of the Empire in schemes of economic development. More especially do we intend to devote our attention to the development of cotton growing within the Empire, in order to keep down the cost of a raw material essential to our greatest exporting industry.

13—These measures constitute a single comprehensive and inter-dependant policy. Without additional revenue we cannot assist agriculture at home, but the income derived from the tariff will provide for this, and leave us with means which can be devoted to cotton growing and other development in the Empire, and to the reduction of the duties on tea and sugar, which fall so directly upon the working class household.

14—For the present emergency, and pending the introduction of our more extended proposals, we are making, and shall continue to make, every effort to increase the volume of work for our people. The Government are spending very large sums on every measure of emergency relief that can help in this direction. Further, the local authorities of all kinds throughout the country, and great individual enterprises, such as the railways, with the assistance of the Government, or on its invitation, are co-operating whole-heartedly in the national endeavour to increase the volume of employment. This great combined effort of the Government, of the local authorities, and of individual enterprises, represents an expenditure of less than one hundred millions sterling.

15—The position of shipbuilding, one of the hardest hit of all our industries, is peculiar. It can only recover as shipping revives with the development of Empire and foreign trade, which we believe will follow from our measures. We propose, in the meantime, to give it special assistance by accelerating the programme of light cruiser construction, which will, in any case, become necessary in the near future. We are informed by our naval advisers that some seventeen light cruisers will be required during the next few years in replacement of the county class, as well as a variety of smaller and auxiliary craft, and we intend that a substantial proportion of these shall be laid down as soon as the designs are ready and Parliamentary sanction secured.

16—The solution of the unemployment problem is the key to every necessary social reform. But I should like to repeat my conviction that we should aim at the re-organisation of our various schemes of insurance against old age, ill-health, and unemployment. More particularly should we devote our attention to investigating the possibilities of getting rid of the inconsistencies and the discouragement of thrift at present associated with the working of the Old Age Pensions Act. The encouragement of thrift and independence must be the underlying principle of all our social reforms.

SEPARATISTS' FIGHT WITH VILLAGERS.

16 KILLED.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

COLOGNE, Sunday.

In a desperate fight between Separatists and villagers at Oberthis, the former, armed with revolvers, killed two of the villagers. These, however, using hatchets and axes, killed no fewer than fourteen Separatists.

At Essen, crowds of unemployed attempted to seize the Town Hall, and three were killed and 30 wounded.

ULSTER DIVISION REUNION.

MEMORIES THAT CAN NEVER DIE.

The Ulster Division Officers' Association held its annual dinner in Belfast on Friday night, and sent a telegram to the King, expressing humble duty and respectful greetings. The following reply was received:—"The King heartily thanks the officers of the 36th Ulster Division, assembled at their annual dinner, for their loyal greetings."

After the toasts of "The King" and "Our Fallen Comrades" had been honoured, the latter in silence, Lieutenant-Commander Oscar Henderson, D.S.O., R.N., proposed "The Thirty-sixth Division." His personal knowledge of the land forces, he said, was, perhaps, very small, but he knew that the Ulster Division was probably the most truly native division ever raised. It was often said the men took the atmosphere of Sandy row into the trenches with them.

COMRADESHIP IN PEACE.

The records and the valour of the division were very dear to the hearts of the people of Ulster, and would ever be remembered. Commemorative dinners, whether promoted by sailors or soldiers, should never be permitted to lapse, for, as time passed, one was liable to forget the friendships and the comradeship made during the war. Those friendships were so ideal that they ought never to be broken.

UNDYING MEMORIES.

Major-General Sir Oliver S. Nugent, K.C.B., D.S.O., the Chairman, said that they must not take that toast personally to themselves. It was really a toast which enshrined the memory of the 36th Division, which no longer had a corporate existence. However, the memory of it still lived, and it would live for ever.

There were evoked memories of the proud spirit which swept like a flame through the British Empire in 1914; memories of a wonderful devotion to a great ideal in the hearts of tens of thousands of men throughout the British Empire, and which led men to sacrifice themselves for that ideal which was greater than life itself.

These were memories common to all parts of their far-flung Empire, but to them the name of the 36th Ulster Division enshrined in a special degree the spirit of Ulster. The Division represented in a particular degree the patriotism of Ulster and her gift to the Empire, and it was not too much to hope that the memory of the Division would act as a beacon, as a symbol, and as a light to future generations.

ULSTER AT EMPIRE'S SERVICE.

Major-General A. R. Cameron, C.B., C.M.G., said that the 36th Division had earned a reputation for gallantry and discipline, which placed it among the foremost of the divisions forming their great national Army which showed the martial spirit of the nation and self-sacrifice which was an example to their Allies. Though at the end of the war their Army was in a somewhat battered condition, with the extraordinary aptitude of the nation they had again reached a stage when they had established a school for training soldiers.

All hoped that they would be able to continue that peaceful training, but should the crisis arise the Army would be able to deal with it. If a really great crisis arose they would be able to rely on men like those of the Ulster Division to rally to the country's call.

THE LABOUR POLICY.

"REDUCED INCOME TAX."

No more entertainment tax.
No corporation profits tax.
Fuller compensation for workers.
Improved standard of hours.
Equality of opportunity in education.
Generous provision for aged people.
Special provision for widowed mothers and disabled or sick citizens.
Slums to be abolished.
Credit for farmers.
Assured minimum for agricultural labourers.
Town planning and housing schemes.
A strengthened League of Nations.
Free economic and diplomatic relations with Russia.
An adequate supply of decent homes.
Fair play for ex-Service men and their dependants.
Equal pay for equal work by men and women.

In conclusion the manifesto says:—

"The Labour Party urges them to refuse to make this General Election a wretched partisan squabble about mean and huckstering policies. It appeals to all citizens to make a generous and courageous stand for right and justice, to believe in the possibility of building up a sane and ordered society, to oppose the squalid materialism that dominates the world to-day, and to hold out their hands in friendship and goodwill to the struggling people everywhere who want only freedom, security, and a happier life."

The signatories are Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, as Chairman of the Parliamentary Party; Mr. J. R. Clynes, the Deputy Chairman; Miss Margaret Bondfield, President of the Trade Union Congress; Mr. Fred Bramley, its Secretary; Mr. C. T. Cramp, the Vice-Chairman of the party Executive, and Mr. Arthur Henderson, Secretary.

Following the adoption of Sir Robert Thomas as Liberal candidate for Anglesey, the Labour Party has decided not to contest the seat.

DUBLIN AND THE PROVINCES.

DUBLIN.

BETTING RAID.—In the Dublin Police Court on Saturday John Lynch, of 10 Temple place, Ranelagh, was charged with using a kitchen at 149a Upper Rathmines, for betting. A police inspector said that when he told the defendant the object of his visit, the latter said: "I'm your man," and handed him eleven betting dockets. The defendant had sporting newspapers, betting tickets, a payout list, and £23 10s. in his possession. Lynch was fined £8, and the property found on him was handed back.

ROOMKEEPERS' SUNDAY.—Collections were made yesterday in all the Roman Catholic churches of Dublin on behalf of the Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society. The annual charity sermon was preached in the Pro-Cathedral by the Rev. Father Sutton, C.S.S.R., who said that to help the poor and unfortunate was essentially the duty of the Christian, and the performance of it brought about peace and contentment in the human heart.

IRISH BANKERS' CLUB CONCERT.—A successful concert was given in the rooms of the Irish Bankers' Club, St. Stephen's Green, on Saturday evening. Sir Simon Maddock, D.L., presided, and there was a crowded attendance of members and their guests. Mr. Arthur Darley (violin) and Mr. Wm. Rathbourne (flautist) were the principal instrumentalists. Among the other artistes who contributed were—Messrs. MacNevin, Leo Brady, J. G. Dixon, James Doyle, Charles Kenny, William Keegan, Frank Hughes, John Dennehy, Harry Lino, M. J. Gallagher, James O'Dea, Edmond Condon, and "Presto" (conjuror). Mr. Jack Magrath was the accompanist.

ST. THOMAS'S PARISH BAZAAR.—Stallholders and their assistants at the recent bazaar held in St. Thomas's Parish have made a presentation to the hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. Richard Duggan, as a mark of appreciation of his services, which went so far towards making the bazaar the success that it proved. The presentation was made at a social gathering in the Parochial Hall last Friday evening.

KILLED ON RAILWAY.—The mutilated body of Mr. Hugh Coyle, aged 52, a publican, of 32 Cullenswood avenue, Ranelagh, was found on Saturday morning on the line near Lansdowne road Station. Money and a watch were found on the body. He left his house on the previous evening, saying that he was going to post a letter.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—At the weekly meeting of the Governors the minutes of the last meeting were read, confirmed, and signed. Minutes of the Routine Committee were read, approved, and signed. Mr. B. Warburton Rooke's report on elements of music, advanced grade, was considered very satisfactory, the standard of marks being very high.

UNEMPLOYMENT REDUCED.—On November 12 the number of people recorded by Employment Exchanges and branch employment offices in the Irish Free State as registered for employment was 41,299 as compared with 43,404 on November 5, a decrease of 2,105. The dole was being drawn by 37,455.

CONNAUGHT.

POACHING STOPS COURSING.—Carrick-on-Shannon Coursing Club has had to abandon the meeting fixed for to-morrow owing to the scarcity of hares on the Croghan preserves, due chiefly to poaching. The committee hopes to hold a meeting early next year.

LEINSTER.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE IN BRAY.—The magistrate at Bray District Court on Saturday commented on the poor school attendance in Bray. His remarks arose out of a prosecution brought by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals against Matthew Cranley, 37 Purcell's Field, Upper Bray, for cruelty to a pup. A son of Mrs. Brien, who owned the dog, stated that he was ten years of age and did not know the nature of an oath. He went to school one day and stopped at home another. Another son, aged 13 years, said that he did not go to school. The magistrate said that it was a scandalous thing not to have a school attendance committee in Bray with an officer. Statistics proved that one-third of the children of Ireland did not attend school. Education was free at present, and it seemed to him that there was no option but to make it compulsory as well as free. Formerly there was a school attendance committee with an officer in Bray, but from motives of false economy it had been abolished. He dismissed the case.

MUNSTER.

FAIR TOLLS COLLECTION.—In a recent report to the Ennis Urban Council the Local Government Auditor states that he is not satisfied with the system of the collection of tolls and customs from fairs and markets, and that it is particularly loose and open to serious abuse. The Council has requested the Auditor to point out the alleged defects and recommend a remedy.

NENAGH DISTRICT FLOODS.—At a meeting in Nenagh of the Farmers' Association a discussion took place regarding the flooding of the Nenagh River, as a result of which from time to time thousands of acres are inundated It was decided to ask the local deputies to bring the matter before the Free State Parliament, with a view to securing a loan or grant to remedy matters.

PROPERTY QUALIFICATION FOR COUNCIL MEMBERS.—West Clare Executive of the Clare Farmers' Union has instructed the President to report to the National Executive that a £20 valuation should be an essential for membership of County and Rural District Councils.

ULSTER.

SHARP POTEEN PENALTIES.—For being in possession of five pints of poteen James Bonner, or Crampsey, Partaleen, was sent to prison for a month with hard labour at Malin, Co. Donegal. In addition he was fined £5, to be paid before February 1, or in default go to prison for a further three months. Daniel Collins, of Culkeeny, was fined £25 for having illicit spirits on his premises. Owen Quigg and Patrick Gorman, of Ballygorman, were fined £15 each for being in a place where illicit distillation was in progress. The evidence was that the defendants were seen running away from a place where a barrel of hot "singlings," two measures, and five gallons of poteen were found. The still and head had been flung over a precipice.

BALLYBAY HIRING FAIR.—Ballybay's half-yearly hiring fair was held on Saturday. There was a large attendance of farm hands and domestic servants. Wages showed a downward tendency, although ploughmen were engaged from £18 to £22 for the next six months. Assistant farm hands received £12, and girls £9 to 13. There were only a few engagements.

FOXES PLENTIFUL.—Our Newbliss Correspondent writes that farmers in the district are seriously concerned at the large increase in the number of foxes. Hen coops and duck runs are suffering heavily.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

ANTI-PROHIBITION.—At a largely attended meeting of Dungannon, Coalisland, Moy, Clogher, Ballygawley, and Caledon publicans in Dungannon on Friday it was decided to form a branch of the Anti-Prohibition Association. Traders were urged to organise the East and South Tyrone constituencies, as only by a healthy and virile organisation, backed up by the commonsense of the people, irrespective of politics or religion, would the publicans be in a position at the next election to return members to the Northern Parliament who would voice their views, and prevent undue restrictions on the trade. Mr. E. Commerton, Secretary of the Northern Licensed Vintners' Association, urged on all traders the necessity of getting the petitions signed protesting against the present total Sunday closing and other restrictions imposed by the Northern Government.

ASYLUM DOCTOR'S RECREATION.—The Assistant Resident Medical Superintendent at Gransha Asylum has asked the Londonderry Asylum Board to reconsider his application for permission to use the patients' diningroom for badminton on one evening in each week. At a meeting of the Committee Alderman Blair said that he strongly objected to the ratepayers' money being spent in this way. Mr. W. G. Webb said that this was the only recreation that the doctor had to lift his mind off the daily routine and monotony of his work, and he considered that the Committee should grant the request. Dr. Watson, the Resident Medical Superintendent, said that the request was a very reasonable one. The Assistant Superintendent had no other recreation of any description. The granting of the request meant no extra work for anyone. Alderman Blair said that if the doctor was not satisfied there were plenty of men in the city who wanted situations. Mr. Webb gave notice that at the next meeting he would move that the resolution refusing permission be rescinded.

LURGAN ELECTORAL DIVISIONS.—Lurgan Board of Guardians is protesting against the proposed transfer of the townlands comprising the old Aghalee rural district from the Lurgan to the Lisburn Union for poor-law purposes. The Lurgan Board asked the Northern Minister for Home Affairs to receive a deputation from Lurgan on the subject. The Ministry did not reply to the Guardians' request, but decided to hold an inquiry in Lurgan. Many of the Guardians complained of this "high-handed action" of the Ministry. A motion has been carried regretting that the Ministry has refused to receive a deputation on the matter, and requesting to know if the Ministry will bear the cost of the proposed inquiry.

DEATH OF MR. F. STEELE.—The death has occurred at 14 Glandore Gardens, Belfast, of Mr. Frederick Macauley Steele, who spent all his professional life in the service of the Ulster Bank, Ltd., from which he retired seven years ago. For a long time Mr. Steele was manager of the branch at Strabane, from which he was transferred to the headquarters in Belfast. He was the youngest son of the late Dr. James Steele, Presbyterian minster at Stranorlar, Co. Donegal, where he was born.

TEACHERS AND SALARY SCALE.—At the annual general meeting of the Ulster Branch of the Incorporated Association of Assistant Masters last Friday in Belfast the following resolution was passed:—"That this general meeting, while recognising the advantages that may accrue to future teachers from the institution of a salary scale, deeply deplores the failure of the Northern Government to give existing teachers credit for full service in placing them on the scale, and earnestly hopes that it may yet be possible to procure a reconsideration of this unfortunate and unexpected decision, a decision which was largely brought about as a result of mis-statements made from responsible quarters as to the financial position of teachers in England."

INTERESTING CLAIMS POINT.—An interesting point was raised in the Belfast Claims Court on Saturday when Messrs. Cowan, Ltd., claimed to recover duty paid on whiskey destroyed in their bonded warehouse. The applicants sought £8,000 damages for injury to their warehouse at Great Patrick street, Belfast, in May, 1922. It was stated for the applicant that men broke through a wall eighteen inches thick, opened barrels, and flooded the place with whiskey, and then set fire to it. The claim included £1,164 8s. 6d. duty paid on portion of the whiskey destroyed. Judgment was reserved.

BANN DRAINAGE QUESTION.—Moira Rural District Council has adopted the resolution, passed at a public meeting in Enniskillen, calling the attention of the Northern Government to the River Bann floods that had destroyed the hay and other crops this year, and, to a lesser degree, for a number of years previously.

ALLEGED CHILD NEGLECT.—Margaret Noble, a labourer's wife, of Drummurry, Co. Fermanagh, has been committed for trial on a charge of the neglect and ill-treatment of a three months old child, Louisa Johnston, as a result of which the child died. It was alleged that the woman had been paid to rear the child, and that it died in the workhouse from the results of starvation.

WORK FOR TRAMPS.—The Committee appointed by the Londonderry Guardians to deal with the tramp nuisance has recommended the temporary appointment of an overseer, preferably an ex-Service man, to take charge of the tramps, and make them dig on the farm from seven o'clock in the morning till noon. The recommendation has been adopted.

WORKHOUSE RATS RUIN COAT.—It was reported to the Londonderry Guardians on Saturday that a coat belonging to a female inmate had been so badly eaten by rats that it was unwearable. It had cost £3 10s., and she was allowed 30s.

AUDACIOUS ROBBERY.—Furs to the value of £100 were stolen between 6 and 7.30 on Saturday morning from the York street shop of the Belfast Co-Operative Society. The thieves broke a plate glass window, but were not detected.

Londonderry Asylum Board has authorised an expenditure of 14 on a switchboard and screen for the cinematograph which has been presented to the institution.

THE HUNGER STRIKE.

302 STILL REFUSE TO TAKE FOOD.

It was officially announced by the Ministry of Defence last night that 302 prisoners are still on hunger strike.

Miss Mary MacSwiney was the principal speaker at a Republican meeting which was held in College Green, Dublin, yesterday afternoon to demand the release of the prisoners, particularly those on hunger strike. She said that if any of the hunger strikers died the Government should be indicted for murder.

The prisoners were not held by Irish law, but by English law, she said, and the Free State Government would not trick the people into believing otherwise.

Mrs. Gonne-McBride held a meeting earlier in the day in Sackville street, when speeches were delivered criticising the Government, and condemning the detention of the hunger strikers.

ROBBERS FOILED.

BREAD VAN DRIVER'S PLUCK.

Two men stopped John Gogarty, Cullingtree road, Belfast, a bread van driver, in Osman street, Belfast, at eight o'clock on Saturday night to rob him. Gogarty struck the nearest man and knocked him down. The second drew a revolver and fired, but the bullet missed, and the two men ran away. A hue-and-cry was raised, but the would-be robbers escaped.

PAWNSHOP RAIDED.

Half-an-hour later three armed men entered Adgey's pawnshop, at the corner of the Kashmir road and Kane street, intimidated the proprietor with revolvers, and stole a gold watch, a suit of clothes, and five pounds from the till.

RECENT WILLS.

Mr. William Henry Nassau Downer, of 102 Donegall street, and Arlington, 149 Cavehill road, Belfast, who died in July last, left personal estate in England and Northern Ireland valued at £12,042. The testator left one year's salary to each of his assistants, Ida Clarke and Evelyn Augusta Noble and £50 to Mary Boyle, if in his service at his death, and £100 to the Representative Church Body of Ireland for the parish of Roscrea, £100 for the parish of Glenavy, and £50 to the churchwardens of each of these parishes for the upkeep of certain family graves. He desired that before his coffin was screwed down his jugular vein should be severed to make sure that life was extinct.

EXCHANGE VALUE OF £ FALLING

There was a further fall in the exchange value of the £ in New York on Saturday, when the quotation was 4.30¼, the lowest point touched since March 14, 1922. At this figure the value of the £ is less than 17s. 8d.

ULSTER BOUNDARY.

LETTER FROM MR. KEVIN O'HIGGINS.

In his reply, acknowledging the resolutions passed at the Derry Nationalist meeting, Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, Minister for Home Affairs, writes to Mr. J. Bonner, Secretary to the meeting, to say "that he was glad to read in the resolutions so clear a statement of the position of the Catholic and Nationalist minority in the six counties. The matters dealt with in the resolutions he received are receiving the Government's most careful attention."

The Government's policy in relation to these matters, and to the Treaty in general, is so well known that he considers it unnecessary to add anything to what has already been stated publicly, unless it is the Government's unvarying policy to secure for the people of Ireland as a whole all the rights and liberties recognised by the Treaty of peace between Great Britain and Ireland.

DERRY LABOUR UNIONISTS.

"WHAT WE HAVE WE HOLD."

The boundary question was the subject of speeches delivered by Northern Ireland M.P.'s at a meeting held in Londonderry, under the auspices of the Londonderry Branch of the Ulster Unionist Labour Association. Alderman Mark presided.

Mr. S. McGuffin, M.P., said that the forthcoming election would have very serious issues for the people of Northern Ireland, and particularly for the Northern Parliament He was not going to be pessimistic, for he had no reason to be. If, however, the Conservative Party were defeated, the Northern Ireland people would be placed in a very unenviable, if not in a disastrous, position, because if, for instance, a Labour Government were returned they would have no sympathy with Northern Ireland people, and if there was a Labour-Liberal Coalition it would be almost as disastrous. The Northern Government had justified its existence. (Hear, hear.) The Government had restored peace and order, and prosperity had also been secured as far as possible, under the prevailing conditions of trade. The Government were entitled to credit for that. Referring to the boundary question, he said if the idea was to come to a give-and-take arrangement, well and good, but then Mr. Lloyd George told Michael Collins and others of his coadjutors that it might mean, and probably would mean, large slices of territory, even of the taking in of Tyrone and probably some portions of Londonderry and some portions of County Down. We, declared Mr. McGuffin, have put down our foot, and said: "We will never concede an inch." (Loud cheers.) The Act of 1920 was anterior to the Treaty, and it can never be set aside until that Act is cancelled, but we have the authority of Lord Carson for saying this—and you will admit he is a good authority in law—(cheers)—that once a Parliament is set up under any conditions, it can never be set aside under any other conditions, and once established it can never be overthrown. So far as the Northern Parliament is concerned, we will adopt your view and not concede one solitary inch of the six counties. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. J. M. Mark, M.P., who was accorded a hearty welcome, said that Boundary Commission or no Boundary Commission, Derry would never go into the Free State. (Cheers.) No matter what the Boundary Commission did, if it did anything, they in Derry claimed the right to stick where they were, under the Union Jack and in close connection with the British Crown and Constitution. (Cheers.)

NO ALTERATION IN BOUNDARY.

Mr. Thompson Donald, M.P., who was received with loud cheers, said that they were all agreed on the one point—that, come what may, Ulster was going to remain part of the British Empire. (Cheers.) Whether the British Government liked it or not, whether the Free State liked it or not, the Ulster people were not going to alter the boundary one inch. (Cheers.) As the late Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson had said: "If there is going to be any trouble on the border I hope you won't restrict our men from going over the line." (Loud cheers.) Mr. Donald added that when he arrived in Derry he was told he was the most-talked-of man in Derry. Why? Because in the Northern Parliament on Thursday a bill was being introduced with regard to filling up vacancies in the Royal Ulster Constabulary, and he thought it was a favourable opportunity to tell the Minister of Home Affairs of the state of things in Victoria Police Barracks in Derry, and which had been disclosed to him in a letter.

He might tell them straight that he was very much surprised at the revelations which the letter contained, and he was led to believe these disclosures were true. (Voices—"They are true.") However, more of the matter would be heard later. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Donald urged that there should be no division in the Protestant ranks in Derry. (Cheers.) Don't let anything divide them, for there would be no division in the other camp. If there was any difference of opinion, let them close up their ranks and stand together. (Cheers.) It was more necessary then than ever that the Protestants of Derry should stand shoulder to shoulder. (Cheers.)

Referring to the forthcoming election, he said, no matter what Government came into Power, Ulster would never go into an Irish Parliament. (Cheers.)

Rev. David Hay, M.A., also addressed the meeting.

Mr. James Smyth, proposing a vote of thanks to the speakers, said the answer of Derry with regard to the boundary question was the same as of yore, "No Surrender." (Cheers.)

Mr. William Colhoun seconded the motion, which was cordially passed, the meeting ending with the singing of the National Anthem.

AN ALL-ROUND "CUT."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I trespass on your valuable space to throw out a suggestion which, to my mind, would prove to the people of this country the rectitude and sincerity of the Government? It is that—beginning with the Governor-General and the members of the Dail—all salaries of State paid by the Government should be reduced forthwith by 10%, simultaneously with the proposed 10% "cut" in the teachers' salaries and those of the old age pensioners.

Thus all classes would be contributing their share in attempting patriotically to balance the Budget, which, as all thinking people are agreed, is essential to the prosperity of Ireland.—Yours, etc.,

ART AND CITIES.

SIR,—In his lecture on "The Irish Dramatic Movement" Mr. Yeats told us how he inspired John M. Synge to abandon criticism of French literature and go to the Arran Islands to make Irish literature, because art is of the peasant and of the country-side, not of the city or the market-place. Mr. Yeats explained that the Abbey Theatre movement was founded on the theory that art, in order to be national, must come from the peasant and his folk-lore. He declared that art is born in the fields and politics belong to the cities, because the man of the fields is driven by his isolation to a conflict with himself and the man of the city has neighbours with whom he enters into conflict. He stated that great empires give us sanitation and the like benefits, but do not give art to the world; and he expressed a wish that we might create our Irish art in a language of our very own—so that, apparently, we might not have to share it with the world.

This is false teaching—false, alas! to the cause of the very thing called art, of which Mr. Yeats has just now been honoured as the exponent or—should I not say?—disciple. It is all very parochial—at a moment when Mr. Yeats's thoughts should surely have been far from parochial. It is not true that the great empires of the world have given us only such blessings as sanitation. Even those empires that failed of sanitation, or any like amelioration of man's physical lot, gave us art. Art has in all the world's history been associated with the great cities, and especially the wealthy cities, of the world. Babylon, the cities of ancient Egypt, Syria, Persia, China, Greece, Italy, all have sent their art down the ages. The days in which the Republic of Venice was prolific of art were the days of its commerce, its might and its weight.

The city, in so far as it is necessary at all, is as necessary to the life of art as is the furrowed field and the wide spaces beyond the furrowed field. Where men most do congregate is art's market-place, as it is art's crucible and the artist's arena. Art cannot live on air; it is man's industry and resource in the spheres of commerce and practical utilisation of material things that give the artist his livelihood.

John M. Synge was educated in Trinity College, Dublin. There, said Mr. Yeats, he learnt Irish—the Irish which enabled him to draw his themes from the Arran Islands. Trinity College, as the name of the society under whose auspices we were privileged to hear Mr. Yeats reminds us, was founded by Elizabeth, the Queen of an "empire" commercially "great." Behind that University, which gave Synge his Irish, which, again, gave Synge his access to the folk-lore of Arran, is the wealth of much commerce, gathered in the market-place. It seems that we are, after all, to thank Trinity College for Synge's art, and not the Middle Island of Arran! In so far as the Abbey Theatre has achieved art—and it has achieved much—it is because dramatists like Synge found what is universal—which is to say, human—in the Irish peasant.

Let it not be thought that I deny artistry to the peasant; far from it. I am a modest collector of peasant art and have some examples that come from remote ages and remote lands. The peasant who paints his rough earthen pot or carves his wooden toy is often an artist—though possibly Mr. Yeats may think him no more than a craftsman. But the art of the peasant halts at the earthen pot or the carved toy because he has not the wherewithal to go further. The Middle Island of Arran does not produce masterpieces because it is too poor. Mr. Yeats would put a barrier upon our national art—the barrier of language—though earlier in his address he had hoped that we would aspire to the wider aim of becoming "good Europeans" (not, I hope, as Neitzsche would define his "good European"). I see no good purpose to be served by barriers. The painter and the musician rejoice that their language is universal.

All true art is universal, but it is also individual; and since it not only can be, but must be, both universal and individual, it is not difficult to see that it ought to be national and that it can be national without being parochial.—Yours, etc.,

DOUBLE TAXATION.

SIR,—On October 25th I sent in my claim for the past six months: this has been my custom since we have been allowed to do so. Afterwards I saw in your paper that claims for income tax on English and Colonial investments should be sent to London. I could then only wait and see what would happen. A few days ago my Colonial claim (the only one) was returned to me from the Castle, with the information that I should apply for it to London, and that an order for the rest of my claim would be sent in a few days. The order came to-day, and for a larger amount than I claimed. So far as I know I have no friend at court. "Honour to whom honour is due." I hope that others will take heart from this, and will not cross the bridge before they come to it.—Yours, etc.,

THE IRISH LANGUAGE.

SIR,—I note with satisfaction that both "Sem" and "Portlairge" agree with me as to the appalling obstacles placed in the way of the would-be student of the Irish language, first by the diversity of dialects, and secondly by the ill-advised attempts of quite unqualified grammarians to crystallise each his own patois in print. Neither "Sem" nor "Portlairge," however, has answered my question as to whether there is no manual of official literary Irish extant. Surely there must be, as the language of the various Government notices, which appear daily in the Press, cannot be evolved from the inner consciousness of their composer If some one will kindly put me on to such a book I will have another try at learning the language in that form.

Indeed, on second thoughts, this seems the proper line of approach to adopt towards any tongue. Were a Frenchman to settle in Somersetshire and try to learn English, he would presumably do so from a grammar, and do the best he could with it in his dealings with the local peasantry. He would not begin by trying to learn the "Zummerzet" dialect out of a book—even could he obtain one. That, however, is what we are invited to do in Ireland by having to learn from grammars written in local Irish dialects. The natural tendency will be a levelling down of the language to the peasant standard. Should we not endeavour, on the contrary, to level up by talking standard Irish to the peasantry, in the hopes that they may eventually catch it from us? An English gentleman does not talk Cockney when conversing with a costermonger.

I do not altogether agree with "Sem" and "Portlairge" as to the desirability of indicating aspiration by a dot over the aspirated consonant, rather than by suffixing an "h" to the letter. I find the dotted letters far more trying to the eyesight, and I understand that in Scottish Gaelic the "h" is invariably used. However, the point is immaterial as long as one system is adopted and consistently followed.

I object much more to the existing system of indicating eclipsis—i.e., prefixing the eclipsing letter to the original consonant. If the sound of a consonant is to be changed to that of another consonant, why in the world should the former not be replaced entirely by the latter? For example, my grammars tell me that "her cow" and "their cow" are rendered in Irish by "a bo" and "a mbo" respectively, and pronounced "a bau" and "a mau." Why not spell the latter in Irish as "a mo" and have done with it? In Swaheli (the only other language I know in which the initial consonants of nouns are subject to change) "kiatu" (a boot) makes plural "viatu," while "kilima" (a mountain) makes plural "milima"—but these plurals are not written "vkiatu" or "mkilima," thank heaven! The suggested change would be little more revolutionary than that which took place in German some thirty years ago, when the mute and useless "h" was dropped out of such words as "that" and "thurm," leaving them in their present form of "tat" and "turm."

I do not object to the characteristic Irish type, as does "Sem." I think it distinctly decorative and so like the English character as to present little difficulty. I would, however, suggest that since the English form of "s" is used for the capital of that letter in Irish, the same form should be used also for the small letter, and not the present strange cross between a "n" and a "r."—Yours, etc.,

"INTENSE RELIEF."

WORKERS HAPPY AT END OF BOILERMAKERS' DISPUTE.

The Press Association's special representative at the Edinburgh Conference between the shipbuilding employers and the Boilermakers' Society, which resulted in a settlement of the boilermakers' dispute, telegraphs that there is among the men, who have been for seven months in enforced idleness, a feeling of intense satisfaction and relief that a conclusion of the dispute had been reached.

In the East of Scotland generally the changed demeanour and spirit of the men was very marked. Similarly in Glasgow and the West of Scotland the wisdom of the step which the delegate Conference of the Boilermakers' Society had decided upon was demonstrated

With regard to the prospects of work, Glasgow and the West of Scotland are so dependent on shipbuilding and marine engineering that the settlement has changed the whole atmosphere of the industry from one of gloom to one of hope.

The terms of settlement, it is confidently anticipated, will create a basis of peace and stability which will enable the shipbuilding industry to recover and progress towards comparative activity.

The settlement is regarded on all sides as a recognition by the workmen's representatives of the general principles of the national overtime and night-shift agreement, as it had been negotiated in respect of all the workmen in the shipyards, subject to consideration being given to any anomalies and special circumstances peculiar to the piece workers.

On the assumption that next week's ballot ratifies the recommendation of the boilermakers' Executive, work will probably be resumed in the shipyards on December 3.

The actual number of boilermakers affected is only 10,000 out of the 98,000 members of the society, but the dispute forced idleness on shipwrights, joiners, and other classes of workers, and in official quarters the results are calculated as follows:—

Estimated loss to the industry	£7,000,000
Shipyard workers rendered idle......	30,000
Outside workers rendered idle.......	40,000
Cost in out-of-work pay to Boilermakers' Society	£300,000

Incidentally the boilermakers have been expelled from the Federation of Engineering and Shipbuilding Trade Unions, some thousands of skilled and semi-skilled workers have emigrated while the strike has been in progress, and the trades in the chief centres affected—especially Newcastle, Sunderland and Barrow—have been hard hit by the prevailing distress.

PROTEST AGAINST A PLAY.

Following upon a presentation of Mr. John Drinkwater's play, "Robert E. Lee," at the Academy of Music, Richmond, Virginia, a joint meeting of Confederate organisations was held at the Jefferson Hotel, and a resolution was passed protesting against the play "on account of its many historical misstatements."

The resolution accuses the play of giving a false idea of the principles for which Southern people suffered and died and of the character of the Confederate leaders.

THE TEACHERS' "CUT."

At a meeting of the North Tipperary teachers, in Nenagh on Saturday, the following resolution was passed unanimously:—"We stand upon the solemn agreement entered into with us in regard to the permanent scale of salaries fixed in 1920. We deny the right of any body or individual to violate that agreement, and we pledge ourselves to resist such a violation in every constitutional way."

DUBLIN MISSION.

BIG PAROCHIAL EFFOR

LIST OF MISSIONERS.

The united opening Service of he Dublin Parochial Mission was held in Christ Church Cathedral last Saturday afternoon, and was very largely attended. The Mission will continue until the 26th inst. It will be conducted by 47 missioners, in 44 parishes, with 55 churches, and parochial clergy, and special clergy, and special Services will be held in the various parishes throughout the week.

At the Service in the Cathedral on Saturday the Archbishop of Dublin, in the course of his address, said that they had met in anticipation of the great general Mission which opened that evening. Their purpose was that, before the campaign of faith opened, those who were leading it in the various portions of the field, and those who were supporting it with their prayers might emphasise their unity—unity in Christ, unity in aim, unity in inspiration. A great attack was about to be launched in God's name against the the forces resisting the Kingdom of Heaven; and it was well that those upon whom the burden fell should recognise that they had comrades fighting the same battle all round them. They were parts of a big movement, each of them who came there as missioners. It was infinitely depressing to say, or even to think, "I, even I, only am left." Therefore, it was well to assemble their forces and to let their leaders realise one another's existence, and breathe the common life, before they took up their separate tasks. They met at the centre, that from the centre they might disperse.

Having referred to the problem which confronted the missioners, the Archbishop said that he trusted that they would be teachers, as well as exhorters. Applied religion was what was deeply needed. One matter in which they could help greatly was in recommending good devotional books. It was lamentable to find what books earnest people were induced to buy. He commended the missioners and their labours to God, without Whose help, as Samuel Johnson's prayer had it, "all labour is ineffectual, and without Whose grace all wisdom is folly."

After the Service, the Archbishop held a reception of the missioners and parochial clergy in the Synod Hall, adjoining the Cathedral; and at a later hour in the evening meetings or Services were held in the various parishes for the reception of the respective missioners.

There was a special Service, which was intended particularly for young people in Christ Church Cathedral yesterday morning The preacher was the Rev. Arthur L. Leeper, M.A., Victar of St. Jude's, Hull, who also addressed a central gathering of boys from the various parishes in the Metropolitan Hall, Lower Abbey street, in the afternoon.

The Rev. G. P. Bassett Kerry, London, preached at a Service for men only in St. Matthias's Church, yesterday afternoon.

Special addresses to city men will be given in St. Andrew's Church, Suffolk street, daily, from Tuesday until Friday next, at 1.5 p.m., by the Primate; and special addresses to women and business girls will be given in St. Ann's Church daily, from to-day until Friday, at the same hour, by the Rev. Arthur W. Barton, B.D., Rector of St. Mark's, Dundela, Belfast. These special half-hour Services have been arranged to suit the convenience of business and professional people.

JAPAN'S HUGE TASK.

REPLACING HOMES WRECKED BY EARTHQUAKE.

Bids for 12,000,000 feet of lumber, for immediate use in rebuilding homes in the earthquake area of Japan, have been opened by the Japanese Embassy at Washington. It is probable that there will be a further call for equally large supplies within a few months.

It is estimated that 370,000 homes were wrecked in Tokio and Yokohama. Under the terms of a proclamation by the Imperial Japanese Government, the rebuilding projects in the earthquake area will be of a temporary character, and must be ultimately replaced by permanent structures.

"Relief work is progressing very rapidly. Lumber supplies now ordered, and yet to be ordered, for emergency construction purposes are to be distributed among individuals whose homes were wiped out in the disaster. DUBLIN MISSION.

BIG PAROCHIAL EFFORT.

LIST OF MISSIONERS.

The united opening Service of the Dublin Parochial Mission was held in Christ Church Cathedral last Saturday afternoon, and was very largely attended. The Mission will continue until the 26th inst. It will be conducted by 47 missioners, in 44 parishes, with 55 churches, and parochial clergy, and special clergy, and special Services will be held in the various parishes throughout the week.

At the Service in the Cathedral on Saturday the Archbishop of Dublin, in the course of his address, said that they had met in anticipation of the great general Mission which opened that evening. Their purpose was that, before their campaign of faith opened, those who were leading it in the various portions of the field and those who were supporting it with their prayers might emphasise their unity—unity in Christ, unity in aim, unity in inspiration. A great attack was about to be launched in God's name against the the forces resisting the Kingdom of Heaven; and it was well that those upon whom the burden fell should recognise that they had comrades fighting the same battle all round them. They were parts of a big movement, each of them who came there as missioners. It was infinitely depressing to say, or even to think, "I, even I, only am left." Therefore, it was well to assemble their forces and to let their leaders realise one another's existence, and breathe the common life, before they took up their separate tasks. They met at the centre, that from the centre they might disperse.

Having referred to the problem which confronted the missioners, the Archbishop said that he trusted that they would be teachers, as well as exhorters. Applied religion was what was deeply needed. One matter in which they could help greatly was in recommending good devotional books. It was lamentable to find what books earnest people were induced to buy. He commended the missioners and their labours to God, without Whose help, as Samuel Johnson's prayer had it, "all labour is ineffectual, and without Whose grace all wisdom is folly."

After the Service, the Archbishop held a reception of the missioners and parochial clergy in the Synod Hall, adjoining the Cathedral; and at a late hour in the evening meetings or Services were held in the various parishes for the reception of the respective missioners.

There was a special Service, which was intended particularly for young people in Christ Church Cathedral yesterday morning. The preacher was the Rev. Arthur L. Leeper, M.A., Victar of St. Jude's, Hull, who also addressed a central gathering of boys from the various parishes in the Metropolitan Hall, Lower Abbey street, in the afternoon.

Special addresses to citymen will be given in St. Andrew's Church, Suffolk street, daily, from Tuesday until Friday next, at 1.5 p.m., by the Primate; and special addresses to women and business girls will be given in St. Ann's Church daily, from to-day until Friday, at the same hour, by the Rev. Arthur W. Barton, B.D., Rector of St. Mark's, Dundela, Belfast. These special half-hour Services have been arranged to suit the convenience of business and professional people.

JAPAN'S HUGE TASK.

REPLACING HOMES WRECKED BY EARTHQUAKE.

Bids for 12,000,000 feet of lumber for immediate use in rebuilding homes in the earthquake area of Japan, have been opened by the Japanese Embassy at Washington. It is probable that there will be a further call for equally large supplies within a few months.

It is estimated that 370,000 homes were wrecked in Tokio and Yokohama. Under the terms of a proclamation by the Imperial Japanese Government, the rebuilding projects in the earthquake area will be of a temporary character, and must be ultimately replaced by permanent structures.

"Relief work is progressing very rapidly. Lumber supplies now ordered, and yet to be ordered, for emergency construction purposes are to be distributed among individuals whose homes were wiped out in the disaster. The shelter thus to be erected can only be of a temporary nature. Permanent building plans must be left to the future, according to the provisions of the recent proclamation."

WEATHER FORECASTING.

WIRELESS AS AN AID TO NAVIGATION.

Commander L. A. Brooke-Smith, R.D., R.N.R., Marine Superintendent for the Meteorological Office of the British Air Ministry, delivered an address at 27 Eden quay, Dublin, on Saturday on the work of his department and discussed the latest system of wireless forecasting.

Commander Brooke-Smith began by saying that he was concerned chiefly with the practical side of meteorology, the development of which would depend on seamen themselves by voluntary co-operation. Captain Maury, of the United States Navy, was the first to distribute weather logs to ships. In these observations were entered and returned to him. From them he prepared charts, giving winds and currents, which became of the greatest importance to sailing vessels. Admiral Fitzroy collected observations from a number of stations in the British Isles, and, transferring them to charts, established the present system of forecasting and storm warnings. He also organised a system of forecasting as applied to the weather.

Dealing with wireless telegraphy as affecting meteorology, Commander Brooke-Smith said that it was in pretty general use by 1911. He was on the Atranta, the first ship in the Australian trade to be fitted with wireless, and they very soon realised that it was going to play a very conspicuous part as regards weather and currents. He went to the Meteorological Office in 1919, and in June, 1921, they introduced a weather bulletin, forecasting full particulars of wind, barometer, visibility and barometer tendencies at Stornoway, Blacksod, Holyhead, Scilly and Dungèness.

Commander Brooke-Smith went on to explain that by the interception of wireless messages there might be shorter voyages and greater safety. It was intended to broadcast weather bulletins, which would give observations made at 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. daily to ten stations along the British coast. These would be broadcasted two hours later, and would supply seamen with sufficient information to prepare a weather chart.

Dublin and the Irish ports would be in a position to take advantage of the whole principle on which this was being done. Reports would be compiled for the British Isles, and reception and distribution might best be effected by local enterprise. In Dublin, for instance, it could be arranged by local shipping or harbour interests to intercept the report and telephone it to harbour masters at various ports. Wind and visibility were of the greatest importance to seamen, and the forecasts would, therefore, only contain information as to these elements. Before many years the making of charts at sea would become pretty general; but, in any event, it was near time that more scientific methods were adopted.

A hearty vote of thanks to Commander Brooke-Smith for his interesting lecture was passed by acclamation, on the motion of Captain Smith (Chairman), seconded by Captain Macrombie.

ARRESTS AT GLENAGEARY.

Armed detectives from Dublin arrested two young men at Glenageary Railway Station on Saturday night. It is stated that when they were searched a revolver was found on one of them.

Commander Kenworthy was reported to be much better yesterday.

The company is under the direction of Mr. Cecil Berth, and leaves London after a particularly successful season in the Playhouse. Mr. Charles R. Walenn takes the part of the droll "Rev. Spalding," and the inimitable Mr. Fred Lewis plays the ponderous "Mr. Cattermole."

The London "Sonora Band" occupies a prominent place in the Theatre Royal programme. The band, which is under the direction of Bobbie Hind, presents a fantasia of syncopated airs, in which many novel musical items will be introduced. Other artists are: Ina Hill, late of the Carl Rosa Opera Co.; Penrose and Whitlock, in a song scena; Kenna Brothers, comedians; Ernie Ream, entertainer; Pattie St. Clair, vocalist; Ike and Will Scott, comedians.

The Olympia management presents an all-comedy revue entitled "Punch." The principal fun-maker is "Pimple." There is a good supporting cast, including George Rall, Margaret Morgan, Charles Stanleni (tenor), the Vivienne Sisters, and the Brothers Walsh.

Other contributors to the programme are—Brothers Dane, equilibrists; Alan Stuart, an "immaculate Scot"; Cosgrove and Burns, in comedy and music; E. D. Byrne, coon comedian and whistling soloist; W. P. Wentley, a Highlander, and the three Bon-Bons, in a musical and dancing act.

The following is the programme:—Schubert's Trio in B flat (Op. 99), Beethoven's Sonata in G (Op. 30, No. 3), and Brahms's Trio in E flat (Op. 40).

The Dublin branch of the British Empire Shakespeare Society will hold a meeting in the Molesworth Hall at 7.45 p.m. on Thursday next, when a lecture will be given by the President of the Society, Dr. J. D. A. Johnson, on Shakespeare's "King John." The lecture will be followed by a programme of Shakespeare's songs and recitals.

Miss Alice O'Hea announces a vocal concert by her pupils at the Engineers' Hall, Dawson street, for Wednesday. Contributors to the programme will include Mrs. Hanna, Mrs. Treanor, Mrs. Dixon, Miss D. COASTLINE FISHING.

CATCHES IN NORTHERN IRELAND.

The Imperial Secretary's Department in Northern Ireland has issued a statement on the fishing off the coasts of the Counties of Londonderry, Antrim, and Down from Lough Foyle to Carlingford Lough during the month of October.

Adverse weather affected the trawling, and the fish which were landed were generally small-sized. Boats operating near Belfast Lough, however, secured better quality fish, and the plaice fetched from 9s. to 10s. per stone.

A start was made at line fishing during the month at six places, but the results were not encouraging owing to bad weather.

The summer herring fishing, which began on May 1, ended on October 31, and the season's total catch amounted to 34,601 cwts., valued at £14,992, an increase of 9,000 cwts. and £1,200 on the landings for last year. The bulk of the catch was disposed of fresh. The average price for the season paid to fishermen works out at approximately 20s. per mease and 30s. per cran.

INTIMIDATION CHARGE.

THREE MEN IN CUSTODY.

At an early hour on Saturday morning three young men, named Bernard Naughton, James Coyne and Bernard Coyne, of Milltown, Curraboy, near Athlone, were arrested by Sergeant Caulfield, of Kiltoom Civic Guard Station, with having on the previous night, while in possession of firearms, forcibly entered a mill at Atteagh, Kiltoom, the property of John O'Brien, and threatened to shoot James Dunne if he did not leave O'Brien's employment within two days. They were further charged with having, on November 5th, endeavoured to force the mill doors, and with the robbery of a pipe and cigarettes from Dunne.

The Commissioner remanded the accused until to-day.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

LAST WEEK OF FLAT RACING.

INTERESTING DECEMBER SALES.

DONZELON'S HURST PARK VICTORY.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Sunday Night.

The last week of the flat-racing season is upon us with its usual bloated programmes, its reversals of form, its rain, and its fog, which is an inseparable ingredient of the Manchester pudding. I find that at the three meetings, Warwick, Manchester, and Lingfield (which shares Saturday with Manchester) there are over a thousand horses engaged in forty-two races, an average of nearly twenty-five horses a race. It does not need a very high degree of intelligence to see that owners who have not yet made their horses pay expenses have but a poor chance of doing so in the six days' scramble that is before us.

The very obvious conclusion to be drawn from these swollen entries is that there are far too many horses in training, and how owners manage to keep them is a little difficult of comprehension. But as the only alternative is shooting them there does not seem to be much choice in the matter. One wonders where it is all going to end, for the prospect of the opening of the Continental market that used to absorb our surplus bloodstock seems as far away as ever. And yet stud owners go on breeding. Mares that would in better times have been sold to go abroad when their racing career was over are put to the stud at home, and production proceeds on a greater scale than ever.

It is a common complaint that there is already too much racing in England, but in point of fact there is not nearly enough to give half the animals in training a chance of contributing even a little towards their keep. The Jockey Club is very loth to sanction new fixtures, and they are probably right, for there is not enough money in circulation now to keep them going. Attendances are falling off in many places, though they are wonderfully good considering the economic condition of the country. The amount of money available for betting is ridiculously small, and it is a mystery how some bookmakers manage to keep going. A great many of them are, undoubtedly, consuming their capital, for the amount of what is called new money is infinitesimal nowadays. So far as betting is concerned, the bottom fell out of the season as long ago as August.

SOME CONTINENTAL BUYERS.

I hear of a few stray Continental buyers coming to the December sales, where an enormous number of horses are coming up. Messrs. Tattersall's catalogue is a bulky volume this year, and a few purchasers from abroad always turn up to brighten things up. Last year there was a strange gentleman from Poland who bought on a fairly extensive scale, and I believe that a few Hungarians are coming next month, as things are looking up in their country.

The centre piece of these sales is, of course, the late Lord Manton's mares and foals from the Offchurch Stud. Just as the connoisseur of art treasures lingers over the items in the Christmas catalogues, so can the horse-lover linger here over the names of Love in Idleness, Two Step, Blue Lady, Tetrabazzia, Lady Juror, Sister-in-Law, not to speak of the older mares, like Moonfleet, by John o' Gaunt out of Lesbia, and Seaman, by the same sire out of Sweet Marjorie, a full-blooded sister to Tredennis—a priceless collection!

SOME INTERESTING LOTS.

It is very hard to say what Love in Idleness, who has a foal by Gay Crusader, and the beautiful little Two Step will fetch. They should bring a very large sum, indeed, and the competition is sure to be very keen to get them. It is to be hoped that they will be kept in the country. One would be in no way surprised to find Love in Idleness returning to Ireland, where she was bred; for it is to be surmised that Sir Gilbert Greenall will endeavour to secure her for the Mount Coote Stud. Among the many other interesting animals to be sold is the Oaks winner, Brownhylda. It is not often that such a distinguished performer comes into the market in her three-year-old days, unless by reason of an owner's death.

St. Louis, the Two Thousand Guineas winner, is included in a big draft from Clarehaven, so it is evident that Mr. Gilpin has given up this disappointing colt in despair. He has given up Town Guard, too; for Lord Woolavington has sold the colt to Senor Unzue, who will race him in France next season. Both started favourite for the Derby in successive seasons. Both failed badly, and neither has been any good since.

THE WEEK'S PROGRAMME.

There is nothing much in the week's programme of outstanding interest, except the Manchester November Handicap, to be run next Saturday. It has been taken for granted that Little Marten has a big chance here, but I understand that he is to be galloped to-morrow morning with a view to testing his chance on Saturday next. His present trainer, Captain Bell, has also Thoughtless engaged in the race. Some of this horse's last form has been very bad, but it may be remembered that in the summer he gave Peter Rush 21lbs. and ran him to a head at Salisbury, and that earlier in the Queen's Prize at Kempton he was second to Bhuidhaonach, giving him 8lbs. He is very attractively handicapped on Saturday, with 7st. 8lbs., or three pounds below Little Marten.

Those who saw and noted how unlucky London Cry was in the race for the Derby Cup can see at once what a big chance the King's colt has here. It looks a racing certainty for him to run into a place, even if he does not win outright. It is to be presumed that if Ceylonese goes to the post, and is fancied by his trainer he will start favourite. Day can gauge to an ounce through Daughter-in-Law the chance he has, and it must be a great one. It is possible that Orpi, who was third last year, is not out of it, for he is well in with 7st. 9lb Moabite is fancied, but he has been handicapped up to the hilt. My present idea of the race is that it rests between Ceylonese and London Cry.

DONZELON'S VICTORY.

There was a most interesting race for the Hurst Park Great Two-Year-Old Stakes yesterday, although there was only five runners. It was won by the outsider, Sir Hedworth Meux's Donzelon, a half-brother to Torelore, sired by Chaucer in his twentieth year. Here, I think, is a two-year-old that we can enthuse over, and keep in mind as a likely winner of a classic race next season, for he is still backward, and his trainer, Mr. Persse, only speculated a tenner on his chance yesterday. He has run only once previously, in the Dewhurst Plate, when he was unplaced to Salmon Trout and Hurstwood. Hurstwood had then given him 10lbs. and a good beating, but yesterday, when they met at level weights, Hurstwood was last all the way, so that the Stockbridge colt had evidently come on a stone in the interval.

Mr. Tattersall ran both Eton Wick and Hurstwood, and, although the former carried a distinguishing cap, she was always favourite. Her fine speed assisted to keep her in the lead for more than four furlongs, but after they had passed five she was done with, and it then seemed a race between Beresford and Purple Shade. When pressure was applied Beresford swerved badly, but while their respective jockeys were trying to beat each other Carslake brought Donzelon on the outside, and responding to most vigorous riding won a great race by a length. It was a performance full of merit, and convinced one that the winner must be a good colt.

With all her brilliant speed, Eton Wick does not quite get the six furlongs in the best company. Hurstwood, who started with the others, could never go with them, and his very inglorious display greatly disappointed the stable, who had divided their investments between the pair. In the Syon Handicap, in which the favourite, Argo, gave an inglorious display, Merripit showed greatly improved form to that at Alexandra Park a fortnight before, when Vivaldi had given her 13lbs. and beat her out of sight. Here she beat my selection, Mongoose, easily.

The Osterley Handicap was won by Lord Crewe's Festina from Solace and Jansan. There was a blazing hot favourite in Mr. A. P. Cunliffe's Noisy, but he could not even get a place.

WARWICK SELECTIONS.

The meeting at Warwick to-morrow afternoon is not important, but the racing promises to be interesting. THE MOY, on his recent form, looks a fairly good thing in the Coventry Handicap, for he is a much improved colt. From what I saw of WEDDING DAY at Liverpool, where he was unlucky not to have beaten Phalange, he should win the Leycester Nursery, while PHUSLA is a good thing, if he runs, for the Avon Stakes.

INTERNATIONAL HORSE RACING.

PROPOSED RACE AT LONGCHAMPS.

PARIS, Sunday.

The race which it is proposed to hold at Longchamps next year promises to be a veritable international contest, for the organising committee has now decided that the stakes are to be one million francs, with an international cup, and representatives of the Spanish, Italian, and Belgian Turf are to be invited, as well as British and American horses. Invitations to choose horses to compete in the contest are being sent to the Jockey Clubs of countries concerned.

WARWICK

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

Surprisingly good entries were obtained for a majority of the races which are comprised in the Warwick programme, but class is not conspicuous, and from that point of view the racing will not be of more than passing interest, and little importance will attach to the results. Not a few of the horses engaged were seen out at either Leicester or Derby without conspicuous success. From a monetary standpoint the Coventry Handicap is the principal prize on the opening day, but the entry was reduced by one-half at the acceptance stage. If Rosemead puts in an appearance it may not be necessary to search further for the winner; if absent, The Moy may prove a capable substitute. From the strong entry for the Leycester Nursery I select Pittendynie, Helvia filly, and Wedding Day. Recent form suggests success for the last-named. Selections:—

Offchurch Handicap—Ruysdael.
Rugby Plate—F. Hartigan's selected or Uncle Bones.
Coventry Three-Year-Old Plate—Rosemead; if absent, The Moy.
Dunchurch Nursery—Fair Charlotte.
Leycester Nursery—High Court or Wedding Day.
Avon Stakes—Phusla.

[The figures in front of the names of the horses are an index to placings in their last three engagements—reading from right to left; (s) signifies started slowly.]

SATURDAY'S MATCHES.

Matches between Northern and Southern clubs again formed the feature of Saturday's games, and of the four, in which North and South were opposed, honours were left even, for, while Dublin University and Old Wesley scored victories over Instonians and Knock, Bective Rangers went under badly to Queen's University at Belfast, and Wanderers lost to North at Lansdowne road. For the furth time this season University College played a drawn game, their opponents on this occasion being Lansdowne. Blackrock College showed good form in defeating Palmerston, and Monkstown had an easy win over Clontarf. By defeating Instonians somewhat luckily in the College Park, Trinity preserved their unbeaten record. This week they go on tour, playing Edinburgh on Thursday and Oxford University on Saturday.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY (11) V. INSTONIANS (9).

The bitterly cold weather did not prevent a big crowd from assembling in the College Park to witness the match between Trinity and Instonians. Those present were well rewarded for facing the elements, for it was a capital game, one of the best played this season, and in winning by 11 points to 9, Trinity were extremely lucky.

From the start, Instonians adopted open tactics, and whether in their own 25, or that of their opponents, indulged in passing movements. Their style of play was much more effective than that of Trinity, and in the first half they held the upper hand, the forwards beating the Trinity backs all through. Trinity forwards, while good in the loose, were not so successful at securing possession in the scrimmages, and the Instonian backs, by quick passing movements, menaced the home line repeatedly. Early in the game W. Hewitt looked like scoring, but was bundled into touch near the Trinity line, and almost immediately afterwards McClenahan, on the other wing, only lost a try through the ball running awkwardly for him. Instonians, however, kept driving in attack after attack, until eventually Halliday scored from a forward rush. The kick, a difficult one, was missed by Copeland. Abernethy was so badly injured that he had to retire, and Instonians played with only fourteen men, Sinclair filling the vacancy at wing three-quarter. Trinity forwards improved, but just as Sugden looked like making ground, a clever cross-kick by Hall let McClenahan away, and the wing man only just beaten by Cussen in a race for the touchdown. Later, from a scrimmage at the Instonians' 25, Loubser got the ball out, and Gillespie and Sugden cut an opening, for Steele to score a try, which Crichton could not improve upon. For the remainder of the first half play was fairly even, and there was no further scoring.

Good forward work and useful runs by Steele and Cussen put Trinity attacking early in the second half. A penalty kick taken by Crichton went wide of the posts, and shortly afterwards Instonians' backs made an incursion to Trinity territory, but the movement ended through a faulty pass by F. S. Hewitt. Again, Instonians' backs were moving, when Cussen intervened, and with a long kick gained ground for his side. The second half was well advanced before a score was registered. This was the result of a very clever move by Instonians. W. Hewitt broke away, and, feinting to pass to Sinclair, who had come inside him, broke away again towards touch, and rounded Bingham for a really good try. Gilbert's kick fell short, but Instonians now led by 6 points to 3, and this lead they soon increased, for following a splendid passing move between McClenahan and F. S. Hewitt, the latter worked his way over for a try, which was not converted. Trinity were now in sore straits, as not many minutes remained for play. Stirring themselves, however, the whole side played up in better style, and Loubser throwing the ball out from touch regained possession, to race up to Gilbert and pass to Steele, who went in for a try, which Gillespie converted. Trinity forwards were now over-running their opponents, and from a scrimmage near Instonians' line Gillespie sent a long pass, which Steele gathered off the ground and went over for the winning try, Gillespie missing an easy chance of converting.

A very interesting game, in which the style of play on the opposing sides was vastly different. Instonians kept the game open whether in attack or defence, and their movements were wonderfully effective. While their forwards were much the lighter lot, they got possession more frequently in the scrimmages, and it was only in the closing stages that the heavier Trinity pack got on top. Once they did wear down the Instonians' seven, however, Trinity played up really well, and to pull off the game after it had been all but lost was a meritorious achievement, even though luck was with them.

On the winning side Millin, Steele, and Loubser (backs), and Crichton, Clinch, and Shepherd (forwards) were most prominent, while F. S. Hewitt, W. Hewitt, McDowell, and Hall (backs), and Copeland, Halliday, and Ward (forwards) were the best of a team more remarkable for its collective than its individual play. Result:—

Teams:—

Instonians—R. S. Gilbert; W. Hewitt, E. Abernethy, F. S. Hewitt, R. O. McClenahan; W. H. Hall, J. C. McDowell; H. Copeland (capt.), J. Campbell, G. B. Goldsborough, H. Halliday, J. G. M. McDowell, J. Neill, B. Sinclair, T. G. Ward.

Dublin University—E. W. Bingham; D. J. Cussen, T. J. Millin, M. Sugden, J. L. F. Steele; G. F. Gillespie, J. Loubser; O. P. Chance, J. D. Clinch, R. Y. Crichton, J. Du Toit, A. H. Pike, J. M. Shepherd, I. M. Stuart, J. F. Wilde.

Referee—Mr. A. T. Matthews.

NORTH (18) V. WANDERERS (11).

North of Ireland travelled practically at full strength for their match with Wanderers at headquarters on Saturday, and gained a decisive victory by 6 tries (18 points) to 2 goals (1 penalty) and 1 try (11 points). The score, however, somewhat flatters the Northerners, as, though they thoroughly deserved to win, there was not such a difference between the sides as the score would lead one to believe. Wanderers had almost as much of the play as the visitors, and, with a little luck, might have added at least another try. Despite a bleak and cheerless afternoon, there was a good attendance present when the game started.

North were the first to attack, and their backs in the opening five minutes had a round of passing, but Gardiner, having received from Jackson, was tackled in possession. From the next scrum the visiting pack broke away; Cunningham, Brand, and McKee were foremost in the rush, and play was carried near the Wanderers' line. Here Jackson had a good run, and then Pollock had a dash, but was stopped by Williamson. Saunderson, with a good run and kick, brought Wanderers relief, but North were quickly back, and Jackson, picking up, passed to Gardiner, who ran well before making a fine opening for Hamilton to race over for a try, which McFarland failed to goal. Wanderers attacked immediately from the kick-out, and after West, Potterton, and Johnston had been prominent, Poff made a burst which eventually led up to England scoring a try, which Williamson converted. For some time after this Wanderers attacked strongly, and Wilson and Cherry had strong runs. At length a free to North, taken by McFarland, eased the pressure, and Hamilton had a good run on the left and reached the home 25 before being brought down by Saunderson. A minute later the ball went in the loose, and Gardiner, picking up, went away at top speed, and, completely beating the defence, scored a try, but again McFarland failed to goal. The Northerners had the better of the play up to interval, just prior to which McFarland missed a shot at goal from a penalty.

North opened the second period in strong fashion, and from a round of passing Hamilton was almost over when he knocked on. From the next scrum, however, the ball swung along the left to McKeerin, who dashed over for a try at the corner, but McFarland's kick failed. Wanderers were next to attack, and a strong siege of the Northern line found Saunderson and Rose making fine, but futile, efforts to break through. Cherry, too, had a burst, but was held up. A free to the home side, however, found Williamson landing a grand goal, almost from the touch line. Wanderers maintained the pressure for some time; then the game swung to the other end, where Gardiner had a great run, and was only brought down in the nick of time by Cherry. From the ensuing scrum the North backs got on the move, and Hamilton finished up a good run by scoring an unconverted try. Another score to the Northerners came a few minutes later, when McKeerin ran through unopposed. Once again McFarland's kick went wide. This reverse woke up Wanderers, who at once rushed to the attack, and from some loose play near the line Johnston scored a try, which proved too difficult for Williamson to improve. Nearing the finish North got going, and after Hamilton had been tackled near the line, Gardiner went over for a try, which was left unconverted.

Though possessing nothing of a very outstanding nature, it was quite a good game, with play nicely proportioned between backs and forwards, and consequently interesting to watch throughout. The chief superiority of North lay in their backs, who had many smart rounds of passing. Gardiner was the best of the line, while his fellow-centre, Jackson, was also good. Hamilton put in some strong running on the wing. McFarland made no mistake at full, and Neill and Pollock combined well at half. Forward, the pick were Cunningham, Brand, and McKee.

Williamson played a great game in the last line of defence for Wanderers. Wilson and Poff were the best of the three-quarters. Saunderson worked hard at the base of the scrum, and was ably assisted by Rose. The most noticeable of the front rank were Potterton, Johnston, West, and England. Result:—

Teams:—

Wanderers—F. W. Williamson; M. Wilson, F. S. Poff, J. C. Cherry, H. Hillyard; D. Saunderson, H. J. Rose; C. H. Ackland, A. M. Buchanan, S. G. Darling, A. J. England, J. W. Johnston, H. N. Potterton, T. West, D. T. Young.

North of Ireland—B. A. McFarland; B. Hamilton, J. B. Gardiner, F. Jackson, J. McKeerin; W. C. Neill, A. S. Pollock; N. Brand, D. Cunningham, J. Duff, R. Hutchinson, R. King, M. McKee, C. T. Payne, G. Robinson.

Referee—Mr. Hill.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE (3) V. LANSDOWNE (3).

The students turned out a strong side against Lansdowne at Terenure on Saturday, but the visitors held their own well, and made the match a draw. The muddy ground and greasy ball meant that the brunt of the battle fell upon the opposing forwards, but there were several good back movements.

Lansdowne forwards got possession oftener and packed better than their lighter opponents, who were best in long, loose rushes. The visiting three-quarters did not impress, and several potential scores were lost by faulty fielding. The half-back line combined well, but Cunningham found Hogan a difficult man to pass. College three-quarters have been seen to better advantage, but they were without Hogan, who was deputising for E. Davy; and the substitute, Buckley, seemed nervous. He has plenty of speed, but lacks confidence.

The students scored early in the first half, Donovan receiving from Hogan, and cutting through, but Cullen failed with the kick. Play was fairly level in this period, the ball for most of the time remaining in mid-field. Towards the interval Lansdowne attacked strongly, and Harris and Cunningham looked dangerous, but the home defence proved too good.

Lansdowne forwards went hard at it in the second half, and, at length, Godfrey went over for a try, Crawford's kick falling short. College forwards made desperate efforts towards the end, and it was touch and go with Lansdowne, but "no side" arrived without further scoring.

O'Sullivan played a much improved game for University College. Donovan was the best of the three-quarters. Hogan's spoiling tactics were very thorough, and he combined well with M'Gowan, who was in his usual good form. Spain, Liddy, Courtney, and Cullen showed up most conspicuously forward.

Crawford's fielding and kicking are a tremendous asset to Lansdowne, and he played his usual sound game. Harris was the best of the three-quarters, while Robertson also played well. Cunningham was good, and Randall gave a plucky exhibition. A fine pack of forwards was best represented by Whitty, Godfrey, and Keogh. Result:—

Teams:—

University College—J. O'Sullivan; J. Silke, J. Donovan, J. Buckley, F. Russell; S. Hogan, P. M'Gowan (scrum); A. Spain, A. Courtney, J. Cullen, A. Smith, P. Brosnan, M. Piggott, N. Winters, J. Liddy.

Lansdowne—W. E. Crawford; T. Harris, S. Robertson, J. Lewis, H. Dodds; W. Cunningham, C. Randall (scrum); B. Cairnduff, F. Godfrey, L. Healy, W. Keogh, J. M'Enery, E. Pemberton, T. Pike, P. Whitty.

Referee—Mr. G. Exshaw.

MONKSTOWN (18) V. CLONTARF (3).

Monkstown placed another win to their credit at the expense of Clontarf on Saturday at Sydney Parade, the scores being 4 goals (1 penalty) to a try. There was no scoring in the opening period. Monkstown, although playing against a stiff wind, did most of the pressing, as a result of their forwards beating the opposition for the ball, but Clontarf lost one good opportunity of taking the lead through a knock-on on the line. Ganly and McCaldin made a few good runs, which looked like bringing something tangible, but faulty passing and handling caused a break down in the movement near the line. Clontarf were without Hopkins, who retired with an injured leg, for the better part of the first half, Freeman going into the centre and Roche being taken out of the pack to play on the wing.

Hopkins re-appeared after the interval, but was unfortunate enough to meet with another accident ten minutes from the finish. Shortly after the restart, Monkstown took the lead, E. Crawford picking up and giving to Brittain, who dashed over between the posts, and Ganly easily converted. For a period Clontarf forwards contrived to let their backs have some of the ball, and McGrath made a couple of useful runs. Freeman, getting his boot to a bad pass, followed up, and, getting hold, beat Crawford, to race over for a good try, which Nowlan did not convert. For a long time the exchanges were of an even nature, but Monkstown finished strongly, and ran up 13 points in the last ten minutes. Pickeman, after starting a movement with a long pass, reappeared on the scene, to get the score following a fine cut-through by Ganly. The latter converted with a great kick from far out, and just afterwards brought off a penalty goal from a similar position. Just on time, Neligan picked up at the centre, and wound up a great run by scoring between the posts, and Ganly kicked his fourth goal. With a very strong wind blowing diagonally across the ground, and heavy showers falling during the game, accurate handling and kicking were difficult, and in consequence play was of a somewhat disjointed nature.

Monkstown did far more of the attacking than the losers, thanks to the superiority of their forwards in the scrums, but the backs were often at fault in handling and passing, and did not combine successfully. With keen tackling and spoiling the visitors for the greater part of the game, kept them well in check.

H. Crawford, a brother of the International full-back, made his first appearance at full for Monkstown, but was seldom called upon. Neligan and McCaldin were about the best of the three-quarters, and Ganly, who at different parts of the game played stand-off, centre and wing, put in several good individual efforts. Clarke played well at scrum half, and in a good pack, Brittain, Rankin, Pickeman and E. Crawford showed up best.

Nowlan was sound at full for the losers, and Freeman, McGrath and Cooke got through a large amount of work, mostly of a defensive nature. Of the forwards, whose best efforts were in the loose, Hourihan, McMahon and Barrett were the most prominent. Result:—

Teams:—

Monkstown—H. Crawford; C. McCaldin, D. L. O'Brien, J. Stafford, J. B. Neligan; J. B. Ganly, N. Clarke; H. A. Brittain, E. S. A. Crawford, J. A. Mather, — McKenna, H. Nelson, D. C. Pickeman, D. Rankin, W. G. Smith.

Clontarf—G. S. Nowlan; W. L. Freeman, J. H. Hopkins, J. E. Allen, B. Buckley; P. McGrath, N. H. Cooke; D. B. Hourihan, G. Jones, M. J. McMahon, E. Roche, P. O'Reilly, J.J. Roche, S. Barrett, T. P. Carey.

Referee—Mr. R. A. Hart.

OLD WESLEY (14) V. KNOCK (7).

The Belfast Club paid their second visit of the season to Dublin on Saturday, when they encountered Old Wesley at Donnybrook, and were defeated by a margin of seven points. Neither side was at full strength, Old Wesley being short of Eagleson, Latimer, and May, while Zebedee, Smith, Barnett, and one of the Dudgeons were missing from the visiting side.

The weather conditions were about as unpleasant as they could be, a strong, cold wind, with sleet at intervals, blowing from the city end, while the attendance was on the small side. Although Old Wesley ultimately won by a goal and three tries to a dropped goal and a try, the disparity was by no means as much as the figures would indicate. Indeed, the visitors showed more form behind the scrums, and indulged in many very promising back movements, but these almost invariably broke down at the crucial moment. The game was mainly a strenuous forward affair, and Knock, with the wind behind them, were dangerous, a 2nd XV. man, McGarvey, getting in some fast and telling runs on the left. Malan put Old Wesley attacking, and Gray registered a soft try at the right, which Malan failed to convert. Following a good Knock rush, Rudd, the visiting full, dropped a fine goal, and Knock led at the interval by a point. In the second half Knock rushed down, and McWilliam scored an unconverted try. Wesley retaliated, and Clegg got over for a try that was not improved on. Towards the end Gray got a clever try, which Holland converted. In the second period the visitors' scrum half, McWilliam, was off the field for a time owing to an injured ankle, and just before the end Malan got hurt.

There was plenty of strenuous, but little good, football in the game. Kapp, at back for the home side, kicked cleverly; Glanville and Massey did good individual work in the three-quarter line. Malan and Holland strove hard at half, and the best of the forwards were Gray, Clegg, Love, and McClure. For Knock, Rudd was good at back; McGarvey and Cather were the best of the "threes," McWilliam was smart at the base of the scrum, and Harvey, Munn, McLoughlin, and Holmes were the pick of the pack. Result:—

Teams:—

Old Wesley—H. Kapp; W. H. Glanville, H. C. C. Deane, E. W. Massey, D. C. Wray; D. J. Malan, E. Holland; R. D. Gray, E. R. Barrett, G. W. Clegg, D. Alley, G. G. Alexander, A. Love, T. B. McClure, B. E. Gentleman.

Knock—F. T. Rudd; J. T. Cather, J. McGarvey, W. S. Orchard, T. W. Grainger; R. B. Price, W. A. McWilliam; A. K. Davidson, E. C. Dudgeon, H. Flood, E. S. Harvey, T. G. Hodgett, R. McLoughlin, S. J. Munn, W. Holmes.

Referee—Mr. T. F. Stack.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, BELFAST (20) V. BECTIVE RANGERS (3).

Bective Rangers were without half a dozen of their regular team when they opposed Queen's University at Belfast on Saturday, and they were defeated by 20 points to 3. Wintry weather prevailed, sleet falling at one period of the game, and, with the ground soft and slippery, there was very little open play.

Soon after the start Stephenson nearly landed a goal from a free kick. Queen's backs then fumbled the ball, which was difficult to handle, and the visitors made an incursion into their 25, where they made further progress through a kick to touch by Pedlow. Meara tried a drop at goal, but the ball fell short, and Stewart relieved with a long punt. Queen's then rushed away, and Ballagh was obliged to touch down. A pass by Stephenson was intercepted by Meldon, but Queen's returned to the attack through the initiative of Wheeler. Ballagh was hard pressed, and a scrum was formed five yards from the line. The visitors were shortly afterwards penalised, and Stephenson kicked a lovely goal. The home team maintained the offensive, largely through the activities of their backs, notably Stephenson and Hewitt, whose handling was very clean and confident. The Queen's captain was held up on the line after taking a transfer from Wheeler. Bective got relief by means of a free, which brought them to half-way, but they were unable to retain their position. Campbell had an opening, but failed to gather Wheeler's pass. Stephenson came to the rescue, however, and from a scrum Wheeler wriggled his way through, after giving the "dummy." Stephenson failed with the kick. Five minutes later Campbell scored a second try from Hewitt's pass. The Bective forwards then came away with a fine dribble, and got well into their opponents' territory before being pulled up by Stephenson, who made a great sprint along the touch line. Wheeler followed up, and Stephenson sent him over, after drawing Ballagh. Hewitt kicked the goal, and the teams changed ends with the score:—Queen's, 1 goal, 1 penalty goal, 2 tries (14 points); Bective, nil.

The home team had quite three-fourths of the play in the first half, but the second period was more evenly contested, although the game continued to be scrappy. Bective resumed vigorously, and Pedlow brought off a clever run. A scrum was formed about a yard from Queen's line, and, waiting his opportunity, Pedlow dashed forward the moment the ball came out, and dived over for the visitors' only try, which Atkinson failed to improve upon. The visitors renewed the attack, but were repulsed by the backs. The Queen's forwards then took up the running, and made things so hot for Ballagh that he was compelled to risk a flying kick to touch. Hewitt, whose handling was a feature of the match, kicked over the line for Ballagh to touch down, and then, from a pass by Wheeler, the Queen's centre cut through without encountering serious opposition. Before the close Hewitt repeated his performance, but neither try was converted. Result:—

Queen's University—J. W. Stewart; R. A. Browne, G. V. Stephenson (capt.), T. Hewitt, J. E. Campbell; J. R. Wheeler, M. A. Rea; N. S. Dickson, G. Carnth, W. K. Hay, F. H. Henry, L. C. Mayne, T. A. M'Clelland, S. C. Morrow, and N. B. Munn.

BLACKROCK (13) V. PALMERSTON (0).

At Milltown on Saturday Blackrock outplayed Palmerston and secured a decisive victory by 2 goals and 1 try (13 points) to nil. It was a bitterly cold afternoon, with a strong biting wind blowing, but, fortunately, although a few drops of sleet fell in the opening half, the threatening rain held off. In the circumstances, the game was by no means a bad one. The home side were without one or two of their most useful men, Hill, for one, being absent from the pack, but in any case they were up against a heavier and stronger side in Blackrock, who shaped much better than they had hitherto done this season.

With the wind in their favour in the opening half Palmerston during all the earlier period held the balance of the attack, and had several good chances, none of which, however, materialised. In the first few minutes, with Blackrock under pressure close up on the line, Nicholson was put in possession of the ball with ample time and in front of the posts, but his drop at goal went wide. Later on Armstrong had another unsuccessful drop at goal, and Smith an unsuccessful penalty kick. Blackrock began to look more dangerous in the later stages of the period, and had a capital round of passing, in which Tierney was only tackled in time. Close on the interval, with Palmerston attacking at the 'Rock 25, James, intercepting cleverly, got through for a fine run and gave to Moriarty, who completed by scoring a capital try, to which James added the major points.

Having failed to score when playing with the wind, it was not likely that Palmerston would do better against it, and, as a matter of fact, Blackrock played a winning game all through the second period. A couple of times too hard kicking spoiled; then from some scrummaging on the line the ball was kicked across and Browne secured the touch, James subsequently converting. And near the end McMullan got over at the corner for an unconverted try.

Blackrock gave a very useful all-round display, the whole team playing well together. White kicked well at back. James and Tierney were the pick of the three-quarter line, and McMullan was very good as scrum half. Forward, Finn (who played a great game), Bermingham, and Browne were outstanding. For Palmerston, V. Kirwan again played a capital and sound game at back. Armstrong was about the best of the three-quarters, who were better individually than as a line. Stephens played a good game as scrum half, and Wellwood, the out half, who was making his debut in senior circles, showed decided promise. Kerr was the best forward, with Lochtie, Van der Kiste, and S. Kirwan showing up well. Result:—

Blackrock—2 goals 1 try (13 points).
Palmerston—Nil.

Teams:—

Palmerston—V. Kirwan; H. P. Nicholson, J. Armstrong, W. H. Jolley, J. H. Smith; E. T. Wellwood R. D. Stephens; G. Dallaghan, S. V. Kirwan, W. J. Hazlett, W. F. Harkness, J. E. Kerr, J. V. Lochtie, W. R. Van der Kiste, T. R. Whittaker.

Blackrock—J. O'K. White; M. James, M. Moriarty, T. Tierney, — Winter; — McGowan, L. McMullan; J. C. Bermingham, D. Browne, M. Cogan, S. Keogh, J. Gleeson, E. Coughlan, — Finn, — McMullan.

Before a small attendance at the Mardyke, on Saturday, University College, Cork, met the Young Munsters, Limerick, in the Munster Senior League, and after an exciting match University College won by the narrow margin of two points. Result:—

University College, Cork 1 goal (5 pts.)
Young Munsters 1 try (3 pts.)

GARRYOWEN (12) V. CORK CONSTITUTION (8).

At the Market's Field, Limerick, on Saturday, in inclement weather, Garryowen met Constitution in the Munster Senior League. Despite the heavy and holding nature of the ground, it was a hard and fast match. The interval score was:—Constitution, 1 goal 1 try (8 points); Garryowen, 1 try. In the second half the home team, playing with dash and resource, over-ran the opposition, and won easily. Result:—

GLOUCESTER (8) V. NEWPORT (6).

The visit of Newport attracted 6,000 spectators at Gloucester, where the home team won by a goal and a try to two tries. It was a hard struggle, mainly confined to the forwards, and the excitement was raised to a high pitch. Coulson and T. Voyce scored for the City, the latter after a great run, and Millington converted one. Hatherway and Herbert crossed for Newport, but the kicks failed. The second half was confined entirely to the forwards, and Gloucester had the better of some strenuous exchanges, and several times came very near scoring. Neil MacPherson and Dr. Roche both played in the Newport side. Result:—

Newport—2 tries (6 points).

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY OPEN TRIAL.

The Dublin University Motor Bicycle Club may be congratulated on the success of their first Open competition, which was held on Saturday last. Termed a General Efficiency Trial, the event was of a thoroughly sporting character. Fortunately the weather was favourable, albeit bitterly cold, and consequently the two water splashes which were included in the route did not present quite as much difficulty as they might otherwise have done. Between Enniskerry and Kilternan a Colonial section was encountered, portion of the route traversed being on the slopes of Carrigolian; but this did not offer any greater trouble than competitors in the reliability trials of the Dublin clubs are usually asked to face. Nevertheless, few of the men succeeded in maintaining the scheduled speed of twenty miles an hour, and failures on the observed hills were numerous.

The start took place from Clonskeagh Bridge at 2 p.m., the men being sent away at the customary intervals of one minute. The chief points touched on the outward route were Glencullen, Devil's Elbow, where a brake test was held; Enniskerry, Kilmacanogue, Greystones, Delgany and the Glen of the Downs. From the latter point an ascent was made to the plateau of Calary via Red lane. Enniskerry was reached via the Goat Pass, and, after traversing the Colonial section, the competitors made for the finish at Donnybrook Bridge. Of the twenty-four entrants, the majority of whom were members of the promoting club, twenty took part in the event, and all but three completed the course of 51 miles. Few of those finishing, however, were on time at the final check, and more than half of them are unlikely to secure first-class awards. The following finished:—

BILLIARDS.

SMITH v. NEWMAN.

When the half-way stage of this match at Piccadilly was reached on Saturday, Smith was leading by 449 points. At the early session Smith made a delightful all-round break of 505, and others of 99 and 196; while Newman's chief run was 108. At night Newman had breaks of 147 and 296, Smith's best being 359 and 128. Closing scores.—Smith, 7,876; Newman, 7,427.

INMAN v. FALKINER.

Inman made up valuable ground in this match at Leicester square, London, on Saturday, but at the end of the day was still 898 points behind. During the afternoon his breaks were 305, 115, and 100, against 183 (from 113 unfinished), 197, and 236 by Falkiner. At night the chief breaks were 306 and 276 by Inman, and 146, 121, (99 off the red), and 155 by Falkiner. Closing scores: Falkiner, 7,999; Inman, 7,101.

RACING IN AMERICA.

ZEV BEATS IN MEMORIAM BY A "NOSE."

It is claimed that as the result of his victory over In Memoriam at Louisville on Saturday, Zev becomes the greatest money winning horse on the Turf.

On Saturday, Mr. Sinclair, Zev's owner, cleared £5,000, and thus increased his total winnings to £60,215. This, it is stated, beats the record of the English cracks, Isinglass (£58,285), and Donovan (£55,443).

So narrow was Saturday's victory that the photographs taken at the post show the heads of Zev and In Memoriam virtually on a dead line, with the latter having, if anything, the advantage. Indeed, spectators on the finishing line contended that In Memoriam's head was in advance of Zev's at the finish.—(P.A. Foreign Special.)

BOXING.

ARMY TOURNAMENT.

A successful boxing tournament was held on Saturday evening at the Barracks, Cork, when representatives of the Cork Command met a team from the Curragh Command in an inter-command tournament. Of the six contests, the Cork Command won three, the Curragh one, and there were two draws. The medal for the best boxer was won by Volunteer McDonald, Curragh.

Boy Murphy, middle-weight champion of the Cork Command, then met Sergeant Stack, runner-up for the middle-weight title of the Curragh Command. The fight went the full distance of ten rounds, Murphy winning on points.

Volunteer Doyle, Cork, v. Sergeant McCarthy, Curragh. This went the full ten rounds, and resulted in a draw.

ALEX. IRELAND v. MAURICE PRUNIER.

The meeting between Alex. Ireland, of Leith, former amateur welter-weight champion, and Maurice Prunier, the Frenchman, in a 15 rounds contest at the Ring on Saturday, produced a capital bout. The Scotsman was the cleverer at long range, particularly with the left; while the Frenchman scored in the close work. At one time it looked as though he would wear his man down, but Ireland came back in the last few rounds to win cleverly on points.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNING.

DONORE HARRIERS "INVITATION."

The annual invitation run of the Donore Harriers on Saturday was marked by two satisfactory and encouraging features. In the first place, the turn-out was a record for an Irish invitation event, 112 runners taking the field. Secondly, the number of new men who ran was remarkable, and this was a good augury for the success of the coming season. Altogether, the Donore Harriers may be congratulated on the success of the event.

Dressing accommodation was provided at the spacious premises of the Dublin Rowing Club at Islandbridge, and the run-in was from the village of Palmerstown to a point near the start, the distance being something less than two miles. The distinction of having the largest number of runners fell to the Clonliffe Harriers, who had a muster of 31, the promoting club being a good second with 29. The St. James's Gate Harriers had 14, the University 12, the newly-formed harriers' club of the G.S. and W. Rly. 11, the Dublin City Harriers 10, and the Harp A. and C.C. a solitary representative, who proved the winner of the run-in.

The Donore captain led the field along the valley of the Liffey, and by a circuitous route to Palmerstown, where Mr. V. P. McDonagh Vice-President of the Donores, started the big field. For the first half of the distance G. N. Walker (Clonliffe), Callaghan (Harps), and Ryan (Dublin City) ran abreast, but before reaching Chapelizod Walker began to drop behind. Ryan and Callaghan fought out the issue to within a quarter of a mile of the finish, where the latter came away, and Ryan ceased to persevere. Meanwhile R. M. Hilliard, of the University Club, was putting in a very determined finish, and, passing Walker, ran into second place, a very creditable performance for a new man. There were prizes for the first three finishers, and in addition J. Downes (St. James's Gate), who finished ninth, got a medal as the first novice home, while the medal for the first novice of the promoting club was won by T. Murphy, who was twelfth. The winner's time was 10 mins. 52 secs. The placings of the first twenty were as under:—

1, P. Callaghan (Harp A. and C.C.); 2, R. M. Hilliard (Dublin University); 3, G. N. Walker (Clonliffe); 4, C. H. Rothwell (Clonliffe); 5, H. C. Walters (Clonliffe); 6, C. Farrell (St. James's Gate); 7, D. J. Galavan (Clonliffe); 8, J. Brady (St. James's Gate); 9, J. Downes (St. James's Gate); 10, J. Heffernan (Dublin City); 11, C. Kenna (Clonliffe); 12, T. Murphy (Donore); 13, J. Foley (Clonliffe); 14, W. Valentine (St. James's Gate); 15, W. C. Steele (University); 16, F. Gibney (Clonliffe); 17, A. P. Walker (Clonliffe); 18, T. R. Gregory (University); 19, P. Drew (Dublin City); 20, J. F. McCabe (Clonliffe).

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

STERLING STILL WEAK.

The selling rate for supplementary Treasury bills has been fixed at the higher level of 3 per cent., and this, combined with the nervousness created by the dollar sterling exchange, served to impart a firm tone to discounts. The basis for business in fine three months' bank bills was 3 7/16 to 3½ per cent., while the new Treasuries were done at 3¼ per cent. Little demand was experienced for short-dated paper; loans were not much wanted. Daily money and fixtures were going on at 2½ per cent., while balances were offered for the week-end down to 2 per cent. and under.

Silver jumped 7/16d. to 33 7/16d. per oz. for spot and 32⅞d. for forward delivery. Both India and China were buying, while the amounts offering were small, and at the close there were still buyers not satisfied.

The weakness of sterling on New York remained the outstanding feature of the foreign exchange market, the rate further falling to 4.29⅞, and closing at 4.30½ dollars. French and Belgian francs, however, showed some recovery at 81.40 and 95.40, respectively, while marks were nominally worse at 20-24 billions. Italian lires picked up to 101⅝, and Dutch florins to 11.61½. Spanish, Swiss, Scandinavian, Finnish, and Czecho-Slovakian currencies all appreciated. South American exchanges were weaker as a rule, while Eastern rates were firmer, with rupees at 1s. 4 13/16d.-1s. 5d. The following are closing quotations:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Official returns of 34 of the principal tramway undertakings in the United Kingdom, as published by The Tramway and Railway World, for the week ended November 3 give total receipts of £342,762, or £1,709 less than in the corresponding week of last year. The total length of track included in the returns was 1,948 miles. Receipts this year were at the rate of £175 19/- per mile of single track, and last year at the rate of £176 16/7, thus showing a decrease for the week of 17/7 per mile open.

It has been hoped for some time that news would be available respecting the position of the Trona Corporation, and accordingly a circular now issued is timely. The production for the last nine months of 1922 reached over 21,000 tons of high-grade potash and borax salts, as against 10,578 tons for the same period of 1920, while the total produced in 1923 to date is 31,936 tons. Owing to improvements in practice and the increased demand, the operating profits for this year to date are 81,000 dollars, against a loss of 335,000 dollars for 1922, and indications of maintenance exist. Accordingly the undertaking appears to have turned the corner. The "Goldfields" group are heavily interested in this undertaking.

Most people are resigned to a continuance of the existing quiet conditions on London Stock Exchange until the result of the general election can be more accurately gauged. There is a disposition to ignore foreign affairs, but evidently the German situation needs watching in view of the rumour that a Hohenzollern restoration may coincide with our election. The weakness of sterling, which is really the most important financial consideration to-day, is only partly due to seasonal causes, and is largely influenced by the political situation in Europe, which does not appear to be improving (says the Sunday Times). So far as the selling of gilt-edged Stocks has been due to the fear of a capital levy we think it has been overdone, and probably purchases at current levels will turn out well in due course. Certainly the trustee investor should not hesitate to buy, for he can now obtain a full 5 per cent. on his money not only on War Loan Fives, but also on permanent investments, such as the Preference Stocks of the group railways. It is difficult to make Industrial selections while the Protection issue remains in doubt. Electrical construction companies are well supplied with orders, and should be doing good business. Amalgamated 7½ per cent. B Prefs. look an attractive purchase. Among Textile Machinery Shares Wardle and Davenport look cheap at 44s., yielding 6¼ per cent. free of tax. The net profit for 1922-23 was a record at £89,000, comparing with £68,800 and £42,000 for the two previous years respectively. In the Motor group, Dennis Bros., at 29s. 6d., cum 2s. dividend and bonus, yield about 9½ per cent. on the basis of the 15 per cent. dividend, which has now been maintained for three years.

An insurance writer in the Irish Investors' Guardian says:—"I have been writing personal accident business for years, but I have only recently discovered for the first time what I never knew before—namely, that an insured is entitled to a rebate of income tax in respect of such a proportion of his annual premium as is applicable to the death benefits alone under his policy. I pass on this crumb of knowledge for the benefit of those who are as ignorant as I was."

The report of De Beers Consolidated Mines alludes to a distinct improvement in the diamond trade during the year ended 30th June, but also observes that the volume of trade is still much below normal, while the European situation renders difficult a forecast of the future. In 1921-22 De Beers felt the full force of the falling off in the demand for diamonds that resulted from the collapse of the post-Armistice trade boom. After being shut down for 20 months, the mines resumed operations—at first on a very limited scale—toward the end of 1922, and, instead of a loss of £689,046 the company is now able to show a net profit of £1,688,206. This has permitted two years' dividends, amounting to 80 per cent. on the Preferred Shares, thus clearing arrears. The general reserve is increased from £173,831 to £448,912. It is unlikely that the Preference arrears would have been fully paid up unless the directors were confident and it is noteworthy that washing of the blue ground has been resumed at the Bultfontein and Wesselton floors. Whether the Deferred shareholders may expect a dividend next month possibly depends upon the future diamond-selling policy to be decided upon at that date. It may be noted that one year's Preferred dividend is equal to 28 per cent. on the Deferred.

COMPANY MEETING.

LABOUR TROUBLES AND HEAVY TAXATION.

The twenty-third annual general meeting of the Irish Times, Ltd., was held on Saturday at the company's offices, 31 Westmoreland street, Dublin, Sir John Arnott, Bart., in the chair.

The Secretary having read the notice convening the meeting, the auditors' report, and the minutes of the last annual general meeting,

The Chairman, in proposing the adoption of the report and statement of accounts for the year ended 30th September, 1923, said:—

As usual, I suppose we may take as read the directors' report and annual statement of accounts, which have been issued to the shareholders.

Compared with the disturbed state of this country when we met here last year, I think we have every reason to feel thankful to-day that the promise of national stability has at last become substantial. Unfortunately, however, we cannot say that the political and economic conditions of Europe show any great improvement. We still see the Continental markets in an almost helpless economic condition, without any of those signs of immediate recovery, which we felt assured would be in evidence by this time. We cannot hope for any appreciable revival of general trade and commerce until Europe is redeemed. Upon this, I think, the political and economic interests of the general world depend. One cannot refrain from mentioning the recent deplorable labour troubles, which dealt so heavy a blow to the trade of this country. After the recent years of turmoil through which we passed, the labour disputes were particularly unfortunate. Our industries to-day demand the most careful treatment, if resuscitation is to be effected. Artificial and temporary panaceas are of no avail, the recognition of the interdependence of Capital and Labour is the first essential. Again, we cannot hope for any marked improvement in trade developments in this country unless the wheels of industry are relieved of the clogging influence of heavy taxation, municipal and national. In this respect we look to our new Government to lighten this heavy burden.

Now, as to the statement of accounts before you, our revenue from general advertising shows an increase. The extent to which advantage has been taken of the medium of the Irish Times for the publication of company prospectuses, and issues of home, foreign, and Colonial loans, indicates the confidence which is reposed in our newspaper. As regards our circulation, which during the earlier part of the year under review was seriously interfered with, owing to the unfortunate railway dislocations, it is now not only restored, but materially improved.

In this connection I would like to mention how much we, in common with so many other industrial interests in this country, appreciate the successful efforts of the railway authorities to cope with the unprecedented difficulties with which they had to contend.

As you will have seen from our statement of accounts, the profit for the year amounted to £39,386 14s. 5d., after payment of salaries, wages, and management expenses, and making provision for bad and doubtful debts. After deduction of income and corporation profits taxes, amounting to £12,170 18s. 1d., and the addition of £9,067 12s. 5d. brought forward from the preceding year, and less depreciation, £4,750, the balance is £31,533 8s. 9d.

We also propose to pay 5 p.c. on the Ordinary Shares for the years 1921, 1922, and the year to 30th of September last. You will remember I informed you at our previous annual meetings that, although it would have been possible to pay a dividend on the Ordinary Shares for the years 1921 and 1922, we thought it prudent, under circumstances then existing, to defer doing so, especially as these Ordinary Shares are held by myself and the members of the Arnott family.

I have now to propose:—"That the report and accounts, as set out in the balance sheet, issued to the shareholders, be adopted."

Mr. J. J. Simington seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

It was resolved:—"That a final dividend be paid on the Preference Shares for the half-year ended 30th September, 1923, at the rate of 5½ per cent. per annum (less income tax); that a final dividend be paid on the Second Preference Shares for the half-year ended 30th September, 1923, at the rate of 6½ per cent. per annum (less income tax); and that a dividend be paid on the Ordinary Shares for the years ended 30th September, 1921, 1922, and 1923, at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum (less income tax)."

The directors retiring by rotation, Mr. Maxwell Arnott and Mr. A. A. Hall, were unanimously re-elected.

BRISK MARKET FOR TROPICAL PRODUCE.

(FROM OUR LIVERPOOL COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

There has been quite an active trade in the tropical produce market during the past week, although merchants and importers are both afraid that the upset caused by the general election will temporarily check the more cheerful tendency that has just come into evidence. There has been a brisk market for palm oil, with sales estimated at fully 2,500 tons. Quotations have moved steadily in favour of holders, with most grades showing an improvement of from 10s. to 20s. per ton for all positions, whilst supplies are still very firmly held. The Continent has been a good customer, and has bought freely at full prices, while there has been a better demand from the United States, particularly for material available for early delivery. Generally, however, there has been little difference between near and distant positions, although in this country small spot parcels have been securable at a small discount compared with distant months. Current quotations rule with Lagos about £37 10s., Sherbro £37, Benin £37, and Niger £37 10s. The strength of the market has also extended to palm kernels, which show an improvement of 10s. to 12s. 6d. per ton. Crushers have been persistently in the market, but have found some difficulty in dealing with importers, who have been very reserved in their offers. There is still a good inquiry, and excellent business comes forward on any slight concession. The activity has not been confined to Liverpool at all, but there have been active buyers at Hull at full prices, while Hamburg has shown consistent interest.

The women's work consists chiefly of useful articles of clothing, and many clever specimens of Limerick and Carrickmacross lace, afternoon tea cloths, fancy needlework, crochet work and embroidery; while in the men's department will be found handsome designs in wood-carving, fretwork, toys, and articles of furniture. Many of the articles will be found suitable for Christmas presents, and the public are cordially invited to attend and see for themselves the general excellence of the work of the patients. The various stalls will be presided over by ladies interested in the work of the hospital, and afternoon tea will be supplied to visitors at a moderate cost.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

SATURDAY'S GAMES.

INTERESTING LEAGUE AND CUP TIES.

The qualifying round for the Free State Association Cup brought several provincial teams into prominence on Saturday, ties being played off at Cork and Tipperary, but the outstanding attraction was furnished by the League fixtures, which yielded a few very interesting games.

Perhaps the feature of the day was the display of Athlone Town at Ringsend, where the Westmeath men took a point from Shelbourne on a scoreless draw. The visitors' defence played a grand game throughout, especially in the closing stages, during which the Shelbourne forwards made a determined and sustained effort to pull the game off. It was about the finest exhibition Athlone has given in the League so far.

St. James's Gate had a stiff match with Brooklyn at St. James's Park, but the visitors, who were beaten 2-0, had to thank their defence for getting off so lightly. St. James's Gate were never in danger of defeat, but had they accepted their chances they must have scored more than once in each half. Midland Athletic suffered a heavy defeat at Drumcondra, Jacobs winning a poor match, 6-1, but Bohemians met with a surprise at Dalymount Park, where they prevailed over Pioneers by the odd goal of five.

Pioneers put up a very fine game, and certainly had all the honours of an exciting match. They were, to some extent, overplayed, but the resource of their defence redeemed the game, and what promised at one time early in the play to be a one-sided affair, developed into an exciting set-to.

Again the Bohemian attack failed to reproduce their form, and, as on the previous Saturday, the forwards lacked the enterprise and finish which has carried them so successfully through all their previous encounters. The backs were sound, but a couple of lapses almost cost them a brace of points. Pioneers were capable in attack as well as defence. They only had a few opportunities, but they made full use of them, and led the Dalymount side by two clear goals when the game had run more than two-thirds its course. So well did the attack utilise their chances that Bohemians' backs were taken completely by surprise and decisively beaten.

As a matter of fact, the home backs were inclined to be over-confident, and paid the price. The steadiness of Pioneers' defence was a feature, and this, added to a remarkable display of goal-keeping by Kilkenny, gave Bohemians the greatest shock they have received this season. Indeed, many thought Pioneers would be the first to give them a check. Midway through the closing half Pioneers led by two clear goals, and when Roberts missed a penalty kick for Bohemians, it looked as if their luck had gone, but a determined finish, and the forwards pulling themselves together, enabled them to win in the last few minutes.

Against a strong wind in the opening half, Bohemians put up a strong attack, but the listlessness of the forward work was early apparent, and many easy chances were missed. The visiting backs, however, worked well and repeatedly checked them. A breakaway of Pioneers was well finished by Hughes firing a hard shot at Robinson, which the latter saved, but coming again quickly the same player beat him rather easily, and when ends were changed they held the lead. Bohemians restarted strongly, but the Pioneers' backs defied all their efforts, and Kilkenny refused defeat, saving wonderfully. Roberts missed a penalty, and then the visitors breaking away, Hughes added their second goal. With but 25 minutes left for play, Bohemians roused themselves, and Roberts succeeded in reducing the lead. Willets secured the equalising score a few minutes later, and in a fine forward movement Kane secured the ball and beat the hard-tried Kilkenny with a rasping shot to win an exciting game.

At Victoria Cross, Cork, Cork City and Cobh Ramblers met in the first round of the Irish Free State Cup competition. Owing to the sodden ground the football was not of a very high standard, and even after extra time the result was a draw of one goal each.

The most exciting of the five matches in the Irish Senior League was that between Cliftonville and Glenavon. The former led by two goals to one at the interval, but early in the second half Cliftonville got on level terms. Robinson gave them the lead with a lightning shot, and it was not until the last minute that Glenavon succeeded in scoring the equaliser and dividing the points. Queen's Island continued their winning career by defeating Distillery by 4 goals to 1; and Glentoran secured a meritorious victory by 2 goals to 1 in a hard-fought game with Linfield. On their own ground, Larne beat Newry by 4 goals to 1; whilst at Newtownards a scoreless draw resulted in the meeting of Ards and Barn.

HANDBALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

CARLOW WINS JUNIOR FINAL.

(BY PAT'O.)

Three years ago Mr. Morgan Pembroke, of Dublin, won the handball title from J. J. Bowles, of Limerick. Pembroke has not been engaged in a serious game since then, but kept in training by playing friendlies and giving exhibitions. Lyons, meanwhile has played in many courts, and his recent success over Singleton, the Munster champion, made the way clear for a tilt at Pembroke's title. Yesterday the pair met at Ballymun, in cold weather. The splendidly-equipped court never looked better, and, when the rivals took the arena, a splendid crowd of keen handball followers filled the galleries.

Mr. J. J. Healy was referee, and had charge of the preliminaries. Before the first ace was tossed Mr. J. J. Kelly (Junior champion and well-known Shamrock Rover back) officially challenged the winner.

Pembroke had the choice of balls, and, taking inside position, tossed hard, low service, into Lyons's left hand. The challenger returned several, but clever work inside the line enabled Pembroke to reach 11 aces before a long rally put him out, Lyons killing skilfully in the right corner. Clever cross-tossing got Lyons up to seven, but Pembroke was masterful, and ran out the first game easily, using well-placed lobs out of his opponent's reach. Scoring—Pembroke, 21; Lyons, 10.

Choosing a slower ball for the second game, Lyons returned strongly, but Pembroke stole ahead, and at one time the score was eight to love. Some fine high exchanges found both players using all their courtcraft. Lyons improved, and, smashing some hot crossing shots home, he drew level, and ultimately ran out the second game by 21 to 11.

Pembroke gave a splendid exhibition of all-round handball in the third and fourth games. Lyons was frequently at fault in killing and volleying, so, at half-time, Pembroke led by 3 games to 1.

On the resumption, after a ten minutes' interval, the champion went further ahead. His tossing and placing were splendid. His high, long returns kept the older man moving, and Pembroke tossed out the last half dozen aces of the game at lightning pace. Lyons was trying hard, but was unable to return some deadly deliveries.

We were treated to some magnificent handball in the sixth and seventh games. Lyons appeared to have found his form. There was fresh sting in his left-hand returns, high upon the wall, and he finished long-range shots with his right in taking fashion. It was a great game up to ten aces, hands changing frequently, and the spectators were not slow in appreciating Lyons's splendid recovery. His tossing had pace, and in long, high rallies, he held his own, finishing a few brilliant aces with bullet-like cuts to the wall-base. This was easily the best game so far. "Gamesters" was called more than once, but Lyons ran out comfortably in the end by splendid tossing, 21 to 11.

The last game found both players fresh and eager. Lyons, encouraged, put great pace into his tosses, but both were in and out without an ace. Then Lyons came away, and ran up nine aces before Pembroke got inside position. Pembroke, realising that he was meeting greater opposition than the earlier games indicated, put his best work in, and by strong high returns and well-judged butting stole up ace by ace. "Eleven all" was called amidst great excitement. Pembroke killed three further returns by Lyons before losing his place to a beautiful cross-cut which took both walls. The light was slightly failing as "Fifteen all" was called. Showing great vitality, Lyons smashed and volleyed well, reaching 19 by an exciting ace. Scoring the 20th by an angle shot, he tossed an impossible ball for his third game. The second section of the rubber will be played at the same venue on next Sunday week, when crowded galleries are certain. Games—

The champion leads by the odd game in seven, and the match is in a decidedly interesting condition.

The attendance yesterday at Croke Park was moderate when Carlow lined up against a well-tried Dublin team in the Leinster Football Junior final. The weather was very cold, and the pitch sticky. Carlow rushed away from the throw-in, and inside a minute M. Hogan was through for a goal. Encouraged by this ready success, Carlow played with great dash, pressing repeatedly. Reilly, Synott, and Norris—younger brothers of the well-known O'Toole players—kept the Carlow forwards out for a while, but W. Hogan, from a fine centre of Hennessy's, kicked Carlow's second goal. Dublin continued to play disappointingly. There was a looseness about their formation, and misfielding was frequent. Doyle and Deegan added scores for the visitors, who led well at the interval. Half-time score:—Carlow, 2 goals, 3 points; Dublin, nil.

Continuing to have the better of the play, Carlow kept up a hot pace, White and Hogan adding to their score. Deegan, Murray, and Quigley played splendidly for Carlow during this period. Dublin made an eleventh hour recovery, Synott coming through for a point, which Casserley supplemented with Dublin's only goal near the end. The winners were well trained, and well deserved the medals. Result:—

Carlow—Hennessy (capt), Wall, Hanley, Murray, Houghny, Nolan, Dillon, Price, Hogan (2), Doyle, Moore, M'Donnell, Quigley, and Dunne.

Under most unfavourable weather conditions the Army Gaelic tournament was continued at Cork University grounds yesterday, when the Limerick and Waterford Commands met in hurling and football. The matches were played in a heavy downpour. In hurling, the score was—Limerick, 9 goals, 1 point; Waterford, 3 goals. The final score in the football was—Waterford, 2 goals, 1 point; Limerick, 1 point.

HOCKEY.

SATURDAY'S MATCHES.

Considering Three Rock Rovers' position in Leinster League hockey, their 4-1 defeat by Lisnagarvey on Saturday is not reassuring as regards the standard of the game around Dublin. Trinity's brief Welsh tour a week ago had made us at least hopeful; but when our best side is beaten by a margin of 3 goals by a leading Ulster team the position is very different. The three League matches on Saturday ended in the expected, the closest result being in the game between Kingstown Grammar School and Rosemount, in which the latter should have divided the points instead of being defeated 2-1. The Leinster Senior table now stands:—

	P.	W.	L.	D.	F.	A.	P.
Railway Union	5	4	1	0	22	6	8

LISNAGARVEY (4) v. THREE ROCK ROVERS (1).

By four goals to one, Three Rock Rovers lost their unbeaten record at Foxrock on Saturday to Lisnagarvey, after a game that was interesting from start to finish. The conditions were wretched—a bitterly cold wind and a heavy shower, which came on just after the start. Consequently it was not surprising to find the attendance smaller than it should have been for such a game.

Although on the soft side, the ground was in much better order than was expected, and right from the start the visitors went into attack. Possessing a fast forward line, backed by good halves, they had the home team on the defensive from the start. Blair White and Pilkington rose to the occasion, and their defence, with McCormick's goalkeeping, saved the situation. Occasionally Rovers came away with a rush, and once they might have scored, but Eager sent too high from a good position. Lisnagarvey continued to dominate the game, but wild shooting lost them more than one opening, and at the interval neither side had scored.

Change of ends found the visitors again attacking, and after about five minutes MacGregor scored the first, and added another shortly afterwards. This reverse had its effect on the home attack and they improved. The forwards showed their first real combination, and as a result, a neat pass by Mahony found Medcalf reducing the lead with a well-placed shot, that gave Greenfield little chance. Subsequently the exchanges were more evenly divided, but the visitors were always better in the circle, and fully deserved the two goals, Moore and MacGregor, that put the result beyond doubt. Not but that Rovers had chances also. Offside spoiled one shot by Medcalf, and another fast drive by the outside left was splendidly saved by Greenfield. Lisnagarvey owe their win to a decided superiority at half-back, and, had the forwards taken their openings, the winning margin might well have been greater. Three Rock Rovers played much below form, the halves failed to hold the opposition, and the forward line never really got going as a line. Both backs, and McCormick in goal, played a steady game. Teams:—

Three Rock Rovers—W. G. McCormick; G. Pilkington, C. Blair White; H. W. Strong, W. Campbell, R. Brown; N. Medcalf, M. Eager, J. Mahony, R. S. Evans, G. V. Boyd.

Umpires — Messrs. C. S. Waugh and T. S. C. Dagg.

MONKSTOWN (6) v. FAIRVIEW C.Y.M.S. (0).

This was too one-sided a match at Royal terrace, Kingstown, to be interesting, except to the players themselves, who were able to keep themselves warmed on a bitterly cold afternoon. Monkstown had the game all their own way, even if Fairview put up a very sturdy fight to the end. But they were overwhelmed, Rowlands (from a corner), Semmence, and Wadsworth scoring against them in the opening half, and Semmence, Towers, and Semmence again in the concluding period. Incidentally there were accidents, a spectator beside the net getting laid out by the ball on the head (a glancing blow) at one period; while shortly before the close G. M. Orr received a nasty injury and had to retire. Teams:—

Monkstown—A. Fenton; G. M. Orr, J. Peterson; W. Morrison, Dr. R. Rowlands, G. Darcus; V. Kenny, H. Wadsworth, R. Semmence, R. Towers, R. Leitch.

Fairview C.Y.M.S.—J. Murphy; M. Fitzgerald, P. Hanlon; P. Ryan, L. Ennis (capt.), P. Daly; G. Kavanagh, V. O'Keeffe, T. Waters, J. McDonnell, T. Mulrooney.

Umpires—Messrs F. Scales and D. J. Colter.

KINGSTOWN GRAMMAR SCHOOL (2) v. ROSEMOUNT (1).

It is a mystery why Rosemount did not draw this match at least, for they had ample opportunities, particularly in the second period, but they never seemed able to settle down properly, and on the run of the play Grammar School were lucky to win. When there is some waiting before the start of a game—as there was on this occasion owing to the ground being occupied by a Junior League match—there is often dallying after. At the opening bully some of Rosemount were coming on the field, while from the bully the School were away, L'Estrange getting in a shot past Leopold. When the same forward sent in a second the School eased off somewhat, but Rosemount did not improve, nor did they when Richardson reduced the lead for them. The second period, which favoured Rosemount greatly, was a ragged affair. Teams:—

Rosemount—C. W. Leopold; A. George, A. Gordon; A. Palk, J. Watson, H. Garrett; E. Richardson, A. Grey, J. Clancy, W. Sutton, E. Ellis.

RAILWAY UNION (4) v. ROYAL COLLEGE OF SCIENCE (1).

This match at Bird avenue never reached a very high level. Up to a point College of Science did very fairly, but that fatal weakness in the circle made itself felt again, and although they had more than one chance, they only succeeded in getting through the Railway defence once, Lusk finishing off a good forward movement. Prior to this, V. Sully had given Railway Union the lead, and the same player added two more in quick succession. The visitors continued to hold the upper-hand, but their shooting did not show the same accuracy as usual—possibly owing to the absence of C. Sully—and the finish was in sight when Gillespie added the fourth and final goal. Teams:—

Railway Union—L. Ryan; K. Browner, K. Downey; A. Black, W. Chadwick (capt.), J. Ryan; T. Browner, J. Peatt, V. Sully, H. Sully, P. Gillespie.

Royal College of Science—N. McNeill; E. E. Spence, E. J. Odlum; G. Rooke, T. G. Webb, J. P. Pigot; R. Kelly, R. R. Glanville, A. E. M'Cormick, D. Lusk (capt.), E. Paltridge.

INTER-UNIVERSITY MATCH.

Aberdeen University easily beat Edinburgh University in a match on the Murcar Links, Aberdeenshire, on Saturday. The Edinburgh players made a long journey to arrive on the strange course just prior to the start of the match. Aberdeen had a strong team, and won seven of the eight matches. W. Tweedale, who won the Cruden Bay tournament last year, was in great form, and, going round in an approximate 72, he beat J. A. Aitken, the Edinburgh leader, by 5 and 4. A. D. Mathieson, the boy champion, and one of the youngest students at Edinburgh University, was beaten by W. J. Bremner, who won by 4 and 3.

A DISCLAIMER FROM ST. ANDREWS.

Mr. Henry Cullen, the Secretary of the Rules of Golf and Championships Committee and of the Royal and Ancient Club, on Saturday informed the Press Association that Friday's cable from New York concerning next year's "Walker" Cup match was incorrect.

The cable announced that the Royal and Ancient Club had declined an invitation to send a team to the United States to compete for the "Walker" Cup in 1924, but Mr. Cullen definitely stated: "The announcement is not correct."

At a meeting of the Championships Committee in London on Thursday an invitation from the United States was received, and though no answer was mentioned in the official statement which subsequently was handed to the Press, there is still reason to believe that matters entirely depend upon what financial support might be forthcoming in England and Scotland.

On the previous occasion when a British team visited the United States for the "Walker" Cup match, a sum of money was subscribed in Britain, but it was not sufficient to meet the expenses which were incurred.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY DEFEAT D. E. LANDALE'S TEAM.

On singles and foursomes, at Southfield on Saturday, Oxford University beat D. E. Landale's team of Hoylake golfers by 10 matches to 7, after the Dark Blues had held a lead of 8 to 4 on the singles.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY STILL WINNING.

Cambridge University, winning both the singles and the foursomes, beat Royal Worlington and Newmarket on the latter club's course on Saturday by 11 matches to 7.

DROGHEDA, CO LOUTH.—Held on November 14. A small-sized cattle fair. Owing to shipping embargo, very few animals were on offer, and sales were restricted to local requirements. KILKENNY.—Held on 14th November. A large-sized cattle fair, composed of first and second class animals of the shorthorn type. Owing to the shipping retrictions very few shippers were in attendance, and trade ruled slow throughout. Some purchases for export were made, however, in the hope of the embargo being raised shortly. Prices for all classes of stock showed a downward tendency, and about 40 per cent. remained unsold. Calves—Under six months' old, £1 10/- to £4, average £2 10/-. "PUSH AND GO" is an apt and striking phrase, the meaning of which is, of course, well understood. When it is applied to a person it is equivalent to affirming that he is a man of abounding energy and activity.

"Push and Go" is a "quality" which is usually regarded as a requisite to success. Although "Push and Go" may be regarded as a temperamental characteristic, yet at the same time the possession of this "quality" indicates a condition of considerable physical vitality. The value, therefore, of maintaining the general health to a high standard will be at once apparent.

Everyone desirous of maintaining the "Push and Go" standard of vitality will do well to take

KING'S BENCH DIVISION—IN BANKRUPTCY.
In the Matter of
A Public Sitting in this Matter will be held before the Chief Registrar at the Law Courts, The Castle, Dublin, on Tuesday, the 18th day of December, 1923, at the hour of eleven o'clock, forenoon, for the Proof and Admission of Debts, and for the vouching of the Official Assignee's account.
A creditor may prove his debt at the Sitting or send his affidavit of debt in the prescribed form or his detailed account to the under-named Official Assignee four days previously to the Sitting in order to have the same admitted. Owing to the destruction of papers in the burning of the Four Courts all proof of debt and records of claims sent to the Official Assignee before May 1922, have been destroyed, and, therefore, a creditor who sent in a claim before that date must now send in a duplicate, otherwise the Court can have no knowledge of his demand.
